ATHLETICS HAND CARDINALS 2D DEFEAT, 6 TO 1

Cubs Beat Sox in City Series, 4-2.

The Cubs evened the city baseball series at one and one yesterday by defeating the White Sox, 4 to 2, at Cowley park. Sheriff Blake held the Sox to five hits while the Cubs were getting eight off Caraway and Moore. Kiki Cuyler's home run with two men on base in the eighth inning was the deciding factor. A crowd of 21,000 saw the game.

Philadelphia Pa., Oct. 2.—The St Louis Cardinals, pride of the National league, faltered again today. They staggered blindly before the pitching of George Earnshaw. They erred in the field. Their own pitching, a load which Flint Rhem, the playboy, tried to carry, was helpless before a timely attack.

As the Athletics, chesty but skilled in their chosen trade, romped almost undefeated to their second straight triumph in the current world series. The score was just as it should have been, 6 to 1, and the American league row can claim 14 wins out of 15 battles in the last four seasons of world series competition.

Play at St. Louis Tomorrow.

Saturday, when the Cards can enjoy the comfort of their own St. Louis lot in the first game of a three day stand, they may come back, but their bats will have to talk louder than they've talked in two battles here and the superior pitching they are supposed to possess will have to produce.

This afternoon, in the center of an arena surrounded by almost 33,000, Rhem fared the same as the stout hearted Burleigh Grimes 24 hours previous. Grimes was tumbled in the opener because of two homers, two triples and a double. Rhem followed him because the Mack clouters refused to let up with anything less than one homer, three doubles and as many singles.

It's Just a Ball Game.

A world series battle, with a title and money at stake, is supposed to be just a bit different from the shows of the regular season. This one wasn't. It was just a ball game. The Macks, as events proved, won it in the first inning. A bit later they increased their margin by crowding hits on top of one error and a couple of passes. And as if they themselves wished to carry out the idea that it was just another ball game, the American leaguers stumbled at times. But they were being led by Earnshaw, who refused to let down in the face of disaster.

It may have been that the luster which the game otherwise might have had was dulled by what the Athletics did at the start. The men who always do the heavy work for Connie Mack punched the ball for two runs. One was a homer by Mickey Cochrane, his second of the series.

Rhem Goes Away.

Dykes' hit ended the reign of Rhem. Thereafter Lindsey and Johnson held the Macks hitless, but this meant nothing except that it hurried the inevitable.

Fate chose Frankie Frisch, ordinarily balance wheel of the Cardinals' infield, to make the error that made the fight a rout. He was the man who blundered in the third inning and paved the trail to a pair of runs. However, he had some consolation. He produced a double which gave him the all time hitting record for world series competition. His total now is 43 hits, one ahead of Eddie Collins.

What Earnshaw did in his smooth, masterly way is easily told. The total of hits off him was six, one a homer by Watkins in the second inning, which saved the Cards from the humiliation of a shutout. In this same inning two other hits were unyielded but Earnshaw refused to let them develop.

In the third, when his team mates were trying to break wide open, he turned two men to save himself. After that he had easy sailing. In the last six innings only three Cards reached base, two on hits and the other on a pass. None of this trio ever reached second base. Earnshaw seemed to have the knack of making the National leaguers hit into the air. He also fanned eight.

Before the big guns of the Mack attack barked to the extent of two runs in the first inning the Cards had given the assemblage a fleeting thrill. With two out, Frisch hit a grounder off the wall back of Simmons in left field. It availed nothing. Bot-

TELLS BANKERS COURAGE IS KEY TO PROSPERITY

Must Keep Living Standards High.

BY O. A. MATHER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cleveland, O., Oct. 2.—[Special.]—A prophecy that the United States will emerge from the current world-wide depression without waiting for other nations and a challenge to American financiers and business men to devise means to prevent future depressions were delivered by President Hoover tonight before the annual convention of the American Bankers' association.

Speaking to an audience of 12,000 bankers and guests in the city auditorium, where Calvin Coolidge received his nomination for the presidency in 1924, President Hoover predicted a return of the high prosperity that marked the administration of his predecessor. It was the first time that a President had addressed the bankers' convention while in office. Therefore the occasion was regarded as having both political and economic significance, offering a rebuke to critics of the present administration and outlining a joint policy for business men and the government to bring about recovery in trade and industry.

Communist Demonstration Halted.

While the President was in the midst of his speech in Public hall, police a block away broked up a parade of 600 communist sympathizers which was headed for the hall to demand that Mr. Hoover "do something" for the unemployed.

Several men and women were clubbed severely before the police with the aid of tear gas bombs and charging horsemen despersed the parade, which carried banners denouncing Hoover and capitalism.

The President speaking inside, was unaware of the disturbance.

In his speech he deplored the pessimism that has developed in the wake of the economic depression.

Answers Banker's Speech.

Almost at the close he digressed from his prepared speech to make reply to remarks made by John W. Barton, vice president of the Metropolitan National bank, Minneapolis, on Monday before the national bank division of the association, to the effect that the American standard of living is too high.

"It appears from the press that some one suggested in your discussions that our American standards of living should be lowered," he said. "To that I emphatically disagree. I do not believe it represents the views of this association. Not only do I not accept the theory, but on the contrary the whole purpose and ideals of this economic system, which is distinctive of our country, is to increase the standard of living by the adoption and the constantly widening diffusion of inventions and discovery among the whole of our people."

Believes in American Enterprise.

"I always have been, and I remain, an unquenchable believer in the resistless, dynamic power of American enterprise," President Hoover asserted as a climax to his address. "This is no time—an audience of American leaders of business is no place—to talk of any surrender."

He deplored the existing "psychology of fear" that has been spread over the country. Although the income of a large part of the American people has not been reduced by depression, he said, still unnecessary fears and pessimism have led them to slacken consumption of goods and discourage enterprise. As an antidote to this epidemic he urged American bankers to preach the gospel of cheerfulness and confidence.

U. S. Must Lead Restoration.

"We must depend on our own strong arm," the President warned, adding that other nations are weaker and cannot make as speedy recovery.

President Hoover summed up the causes of the present depression, but asserted they have merely checked economic progress without impairing the country's resources. And the maladjustments can be overcome, he asserted. He blamed excessive speculation in the United States and overproduction and collapse of prices of important raw materials, mostly in foreign countries, for depression and political unrest. But prices, he added, are readjusting themselves even now and must eventually recover, as most commodities now are underpriced.

Bankers must direct the flow of credit wisely, the President warned, and check expansion for purposes of

16 YEAR OLD GIRL SHOT TO DEATH IN SUBURB HOME

Phyllis Elinor Smith, who would have been 16 years old next Sunday, was shot to death yesterday at the home of her stepfather, F. L. Folk, a welder, with whom she lived at 17500 Throop street, East Hazelcrest. Although her mother, Mrs. Elinor Folk, could supply no motive, police concluded from the circumstances that the girl had committed suicide.

The mother had gone next door for a moment about noon when a pistol report came from the summer kitchen, where Phyllis had been helping to can vegetables. The girl staggered outside and collapsed in Mrs. Folk's arms, whispering, "Mother, I've been shot."

The girl died en route to a hospital. In a corner of the kitchen the police found a pistol from which one cartridge had been discharged. A suggestion that Phyllis might have been despondent over a love affair was rejected by the mother. The police recalled that the family, being ardent prohibitionists, had recently reported the presence of liquor stills in the neighborhood, thereby incurring the enmity of bootleggers, who had fired shots at the house. Possibility that a warning shot might have killed the girl was apparently eliminated by the statements of neighbors and the mother that no one but themselves was in the vicinity when the girl was wounded.

Bank Guard's Killers Die in Electric Chair

Leonard Shadlow and Lafon Fisher, Negro slayers of Martin French, a colored bank guard, who was killed in a holdup of the Franklin Trust and Savings bank, were electrocuted for the crime early this morning at the county jail. The execution of the sentence was the climax of a desperate eighteen months' fight for the lives of the two murderers.

Shadlow went to the chair first. He was strapped into the seat at 12:03 a. m., and 5 minutes later was pronounced dead. Fisher, a cripple, was carried into the execution room by four guards at 12:10 a. m. and was put in the chair at 12:14. He was pronounced dead at 12:20.

Prepares Final Meal.

Walter Freeman, chef at the jail, prepared the last meal of duck and trimmings for the doomed men yesterday.

As the hour for electrocution drew near the two men prayed and sang religious songs. The singing could be heard outside of the jail.

Their confederate, Leon Brown, is due to be executed on Oct. 11, his counsel now being engaged in an effort to appeal to the Supreme court from a verdict returned at a sanity meeting at which Brown was declared sane. Attorneys for Shadlow and Fisher continued efforts to prevent the execution until a late hour last night but were rebuffed at every turn.

Guard Fatally Wounded.

The crime for which Fisher and Shadlow were condemned to death was committed on Jan. 18, 1929, when they tried to stage a daylight robbery of the bank, situated at Michigan boulevard and 35th street. French, who was 70 years old, resisted the robbers and was mortally wounded in a gun battle. Two other bank employés were wounded.

Six suspects were captured by the police and most of them confessed after the science of ballistics—then new to the police—showed that the fatal shot had been fired from one of the revolvers found in their possession. Three of the robbers were sentenced to life imprisonment and the others to the electric chair.

Appeal to Supreme Court.

The cases of Fisher, Shadlow, and Brown were appealed to the Supreme court. The court allowed a rehearing after a lapse of a few months. Several appeals were made to the governor and the pardon board and finally insanity hearings were held.

The delays finally caused the Chicago and Cook County Bankers' association to protest.

A last minute appeal was made to Gov. Emmerson and a petition for a writ of habeas corpus on a technicality was filed before Judge G. Fred Rush. The petition was denied.

Prohibition Poll

The complete results of the prohibition poll of nominees for congress and the general assembly of Illinois by means of a questionnaire will be published in The Tribune Sunday morning. Replies to the questionnaires received after tomorrow noon will not be included.

MASTER O. K.'S SUNDAY MOVIES FOR EVANSTON

Sunday movies in Evanston were approved yesterday by Master in Chancery George E. Gorman, who reported to William Lister, corporation counsel of Evanston, and Ross C. Hall, attorney for the theater interests. Although in a referendum, Evanston voters favored Sunday movies by a majority of 56, the city council, by a vote of ten to four, declared against them.

The matter was referred to a master after Circuit Judge David Brothers had heard a petition for an injunction to enjoin the police from interfering with the Sunday shows. The petition was filed by the Union Bank of Chicago, receiver for the Varsity Theater house.

Push Lincoln Park Frontage North at Once

Plans and specifications covering lake shore extension work north of Montrose avenue and construction of the superstructure of the Chicago river bridge for the new outer drive improvement, involving a total expenditure of $5,000,000, were approved by the Lincoln park commissioners yesterday. Bids for $2,500,000 worth of work will be asked immediately. Construction will start within two weeks.

The work to be started at once involves two major programs of extension work north of Montrose avenue. The present breakwater, which now terminates at a point opposite Wilson avenue, is to be extended northward to a point opposite Margate terrace, at a cost of $244,000.

Jetty to Cost $346,000.

A 1,800 foot jetty, extending northeast from the present breakwater, beginning opposite Galt avenue, will cost $346,000. The new breakwater and jetty, designed primarily to protect the lake shore from storm waters, will also create a new bathing beach, extending a mile north from Montrose avenue. This beach, which will displace the present Clarendon beach, will be finished by June 15, 1931, for the opening of the bathing season.

The second major program involves the construction of a fill extending from the Montrose avenue dike north to a dike to be constructed opposite Ainslie street. The fill will have an average width of 1,600 feet and will provide 122 acres of made land, which will be landscaped for park and picnic purposes. This work will cost $1,925,000.

Wait on South Parks.

The specifications for the Chicago river bridge now are virtually complete and were approved in their present form. Contracts for the bridge, which will cost $960,000, will be let as soon as the south park board is ready to fulfill its part of the contract. The south park board is to bear half of the cost of the bridge. The contract for the substructure of the bridge on the Lincoln park side has been awarded. The bridge will be a two leaf trunnion bascule span 108 feet wide with a distance of 264 feet between trunnions.

Letting of contracts for the extension work was made possible by the Superior court decision on Monday which gave Lincoln park the right to condemn the Fisk property at the foot of Wilson avenue for the purpose of extension work. The Fisk interests were paid $230,000.

SKELTON PLANE WRECK FOUND IN LAKE, BELIEF

A yellow rudder from a Waco plane, believed to have been that of Ralph Fisher Skelton, young Chicago artist and flyer who disappeared last April in a cross lake flight, was found late yesterday in the lake off Buffington, Ind., between Gary and Whiting.

Capt. J. F. Brown of the South Chicago coast guard station, who found the rudder, is positive it is that of Skelton's ship. The plane was a Waco and, although no one could be found last night who recalled the color of Skelton's ship, it was pointed out that virtually all Waco planes are painted yellow. If the rudder is identified as belonging to the artist's plane an end will be written to the mystery of his disappearance.

The rudder was sighted floating in the dense factory wastes which clog the Buffington shore and reported to Capt. Brown.

Now Is a Good Time To Buy That Suit

Back in 1780 Lord Spencer went boar hunting. His quarry suddenly charged and his lordship swarmed up a tree, losing one coat tail in the process. He cut off the other—and set a new style.

While boar hunting doesn't influence it today, style is an important factor in clothing. One doesn't necessarily have to be an exact replica of another, but unless basic fundamentals in dress are followed he marks himself a bit too different.

Clothing designers realize this trend. They are alert to changing conditions. They distinguish between established modes and passing fads.

As a result, a trip through leading Chicago stores shows an intelligently selected range of fabrics, of colors, of cuts, wide enough to satisfy any one from the sedate to the collegiate.

SAMMONS HELD IN CELL AFTER COURT BATTLE

30 Year Record Is Read to Lyle.

James [Fur] Sammons, gunman, a squat, powerful figure with staring, insolent eyes, stood before Judge John H. Lyle yesterday, the eighth of the twenty-six "public enemies" to be arraigned as vagrants.

Sammons, whose thirty year record includes convictions for murder and robbery, was arrested as he left the courtroom of Judge Philip J. Finnegan in the Criminal court on a charge of carrying concealed weapons. He was brought immediately before Judge Lyle.

Record Read in Court.

"I want to read the record of this man," said Assistant State's Attorney Charles J. Mueller. He began. As he detailed the events of Sammons' life from the year 1900 when he was first sentenced for robbery, he came to the point where Sammons, sentenced to be hanged for murder, was reprieved, escaped from prison, and was returned, only to be paroled later.

"Nothing but political corruption could have effected the parole of this murderer," exclaimed the judge. "He is a menace to the citizenry of Chicago. It is an insult to the courts that he should be walking the streets."

"I'm going to introduce an innovation here," continued the judge. "The record of this man will be attached to the complaint, so that when a jury comes to try him it will know the character of the defendant. If a jury wouldn't convict him as a wanton criminal knowing this record of his then there is no justice left in the land.

Sets Bond at $50,000.

"Moreover, I'm going to see that he isn't let free in the meanwhile. Money and influence have helped him escape his just deserts hitherto, but they won't help him now. The bond on this charge will be $50,000, and if it appears that he's able to make it the bond will be raised higher."

To make such a bond, lawyers pointed out, $50,000 in cash or real estate worth at least $100,000 exclusive of incumbrances must be posted.

"I congratulate the police who have arrested this man frequently, according to the record, and then have seen him turned free by the courts and parole boards," said the judge. "I don't know why they stay on the job, but we thank them for doing it."

Won't Let Lawyer Speak.

Attorney Everett Jennings, representing Sammons, attempted to speak.

"I don't want to hear a word from you," said the court.

"I just wanted to speak a word for the constitution of the country," said the lawyer.

"The constitution doesn't need criminal lawyer defenders," returned the court. "The only time you consider the constitution is when you're trying to get around, under or through it."

Sammons was taken to a cell while an effort was made to find a bond for him. Bondsmen were discouraged by the remark of the judge that he would again raise the bond if surety were offered.

Sammons' record follows:

Feb. 27, 1900—Sentenced to Pontiac reformatory for robbery. Later paroled.

Feb. 18, 1904—Sentenced to Joliet penitentiary for robbery.

May 28, 1904—Taken from penitentiary to be tried for murder. Sentenced to hang June 17, 1904.

June 16, 1904—Sentence commuted to life imprisonment by Gov. Yates.

Jan. 10, 1907—Escaped from prison.

Oct. 4, 1907—Recaptured and returned to prison.

June 28, 1923—Paroled.

Jan. 28, 1926—Discharged.

June 19, 1926—Arrested for robbery. Found not guilty.

June 25, 1926—Arrested for robbery. Charge stricken off.

Nov. 13, 1926—Arrested for investigation. Released.

Aug. 12, 1927—Sentenced to Leavenworth for liquor warehouse violation.

Oct. 16, 1928—Discharged.

July 12, 1930—Arrested by county highway police for assault to kill, driving while intoxicated, and carrying concealed weapons. This case will go on trial before Judge Finnegan Monday.

Sammons will again be arraigned before Judge Lyle today when a petition for change of venue will be presented to the court.

Terry Druggan, another "public enemy" who is said to be ill in the University hospital, gained a continuance before Judge Lyle to Oct. 8. Dr. Adolph Kraft testified that Terry was suffering from bronchitis, appendicitis, prostitis, duodenitis, acidosis and gastritis.

Tony Acardo, hoodlum friend of Lawrence ["Dago"] Mangano, a "public enemy," was released by Judge Edgar A. Jonas on a charge of disorderly conduct. Mangano posted a $100 bond for Acardo with the remark: "We public enemies must stick together." Police admitted to Judge Jonas that there was no evidence of crime-doing against Acardo.

UPHOLDS WAR ON GANGS

Chief Justice Harry Olson of the Municipal court sat in temporary judgment yesterday of Danny Stanton, public enemy and prisoner accused of the murder of Jack Zuta, another public enemy, in Wisconsin.

Judge Olson learned from Coroner Bundesen and Acting Police Commissioner Alcock the nature of the evidence against Stanton. He learned, too, of revelations regarding gun purchases in which Frank McErlane, living public enemy, and John "Dingbat" Oberta and Sam Melaga, dead public enemies, were vitally interested. Every gang shooting had a relationship to at least one other, it was shown.

Stanton Held for Wisconsin.

"Stanton is obviously a dementia praecox case," Judge Olson said after he remanded the gangster to the county jail without bail to await extradition to Wisconsin for trial on the Zuta murder charge. "Stanton couldn't associate ideas. It wouldn't occur to him that it could be proved that a bullet taken from the head of the murdered Zuta was fired from his pistol or, of course, he would have disposed of the gun.

"I have issued a warrant also for the arrest of Edgar Smith, who was arrested with Stanton in the automobile in which the pistol was secreted. If they are both placed on trial together they can't shift responsibility from one to the other for ownership of the gun.

"In Wisconsin proof of possession of the gun will almost be enough alone to convict Stanton of the Zuta murder. A man of good character might be able to prove an alibi or to explain his possession of the gun, but a man of Stanton's type can't produce the kind of witnesses to convince a Wisconsin jury of his innocence."

The bullets taken from the body of Zuta, who was the schemer and financial genius of the Bugs Moran gang of booze handlers and gambling and vice racketeers, were examined by Lieut. Col. Calvin H. Goddard, ballistics expert. When Stanton's gun was taken to Lieut. Col. Goddard he demonstrated that one of the bullets from Zuta's body had unmistakable signs of having passed through its bore.

Then the pistol was traced from factory to dealer and finally to Benjamin Tamen, 4933 South Ashland avenue (the Saltis-McErlane-Oberta district), who sold it to Melaga, Oberta's chauffeur and bodyguard. Melaga was killed with Oberta.

Then it was disclosed through Coroner Bundesen's investigations that another gun bought at the same time and place by Melaga was found beside the bed of McErlane in the German Deaconess hospital last February when an attempt was made by two men to kill McErlane.

"It looks now as though Oberta tried to kill McErlane, who had once been his ally, and then Stanton killed Oberta for McErlane," Judge Olson was told. "Stanton naturally appropriated the revolvers of his victims and one of them was used against Zuta a few months later."

"There is some criticism of our present methods of procedure against the public enemies," Judge Olson said. "Comment is made because we are trying them for vagrancy instead of murder. Well, even a bit of extra-legal activity is better than having vigilantes on the lake front."

Employer Tells Racket Jury He's Made to Pay Union Dues

The state's attorney's office was given a copy of the by-laws of the Truck Drivers and Chauffeurs' union yesterday by a man whose name was withheld for fear of intimidation, and who testified before the grand jury that he was a victim of the alleged racket operated by the Oil Wagon Drivers and Filling Station Attendants' union.

"Only those who are employed as teamsters or chauffeurs and men owning not more than one wagon or auto truck and driving same, and are of good moral character, are eligible for membership in this union," reads section 14 of the pamphlet given to Prosecutors Charles J. Mueller and Charles Lounsbury in charge of the racket investigation.

By-laws Violated, Claim.

The prosecutors pointed out that the evidence they have so far gathered does not show that various officials of the union are living up to the by-laws. They point out that for instance, such men as George [Red] Barker, William J. [Three Fingered Jack] White, ex-convict officials of branches of the teamsters' unions, Bernard O'Donnell and others do not come within the classification of "good moral character."

The man, who brought the copy of the by-laws to the prosecutors' office, said he wanted to show how unjust it was to make him pay dues as a member of a union when he is an employer. He owns a gasoline filling station.

Forced to Continue Dues, Claim.

The witness told the prosecutors that he was a member of the union more than one year ago when he was employed as a gasoline station attendant. Since that time, he said, he purchased a station and employs two men, one by compulsion of the union. He was recently made to join the union and pay up thirteen months' dues as well as a $5 fine, he testified.

He further said that for a time he was employing an extra helper on Saturday afternoons and Sundays. He was informed that if he employed a man for part time he would have to give that employé full work or receive no gasoline. He said that his gasoline was shut off until he complied with all the union demands.

Denies Assessment Report.

Milton Booth, president of the Coal Teamsters union for the last 25 years, denied reports that the coal teamsters and hikers were to be assessed for a defense fund for White, Barker and other hoodlums under arrest as public enemies and vagrants.

"The assessment story is bunk," he said.

Barker and John Sheridan Jr., the latter secretary and treasurer of a teamsters' union, were questioned for two hours yesterday about their income taxes. Robert N. Neeley, chief deputy collector of the internal revenue department, declined to discuss the meeting. F. C. Frederich, a public accountant, accompanied the men to the income tax department. They were instructed to return Tuesday.

LAKE COUNTY TO ORGANIZE SECRET CRIME FOE GROUP

Organization of the Lake County Citizens' league, a group described as the equivalent of the Secret Six committee in Chicago, was announced yesterday by Eugene Armstrong, secretary of the Libertyville-Mundelein chamber of commerce.

The league's membership will be kept secret, Mr. Armstrong said. Its object, he said, is to raise $100,000 within the next few months to prevent racketeers from gaining a foothold in Lake county, to coöperate with authorities in crime suppression, and to secure evidence of racketeering through private investigations. Politicians are barred from membership, according to Mr. Armstrong.

U. S. DISCLAIMS ORDER TO FREE CAPONE'S ALLY

Tagenti Turned Loose by Police, Agent Says.

The United States government yesterday declined to accept any responsibility for the release by the police of Tony Tagenti, Capone bondsman. Tagenti was freed before he was questioned as to how a secret police list of 31 hoodlums scheduled for arrest as vagrants got under his pillow at the Carleon hotel, 2138 South Wabash avenue.

Chief of Detectives Norton has maintained that he released Tagenti and nine others arrested with him in a federal raid at the hotel because he was told to do so by federal agents. Clarence Converse of the special intelligence unit, internal revenue department, who led the raid, said yesterday, however, that Tagenti, and only Tagenti, had been released when he went to the detective bureau to look over the prisoners.

Finds the Bondsman Gone.

The raid was conducted at 1:30 p. m. last Thursday and the prisoners were taken to the detective bureau at 3:30. At 6:30 Converse arrived at the bureau from the federal building.

"When I got there Lieut. Walter Storms informed me that they had let Tagenti go," Converse said yesterday. "He said they had put Tagenti through the bureau of identification and found he had no record.

"'We didn't want any heat,' Storms told me," Converse said. He added that Tagenti was the only one of the prisoners who had been released.

Norton Says It's a Lie.

When apprised last evening of Converse's statement, Chief Norton replied:

"Converse is not telling the truth. A. P. Madden, head of the intelligence unit, called me up and said the government didn't want any of the ten men who didn't have records. I told him he'd better send some one to look them over before I released them and he sent Converse and another agent."

"Had Tagenti been released when Converse arrived?" Chief Norton was asked.

"He had not," said the chief.

Acting Commissioner Alcock said yesterday he had been too busy with the proceedings against Danny Stanton, wanted in Wisconsin for the murder of Jack Zuta, to carry out his projected investigation of the mystery surrounding the disappearance of the list of gangsters from the detective bureau and its discovery in the hotel. There have been reports that as many as twenty detectives are slated for a transfer as a result of the incident.

ADVERTISE IN THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE

NAB MATT FOLEY ON CHARGES OF LOTTERY FRAUD

Ex-Newspaper Executive Captured in Home.

CRIMINAL COURT.

Alex Rosenberger, burglary, sentenced to 1 year to life in the penitentiary by Judge Philip Finnegan.

Willie Wilson, larceny, sentenced to 1 to 10 years in the penitentiary by Judge L. I. Frankhauser.

Frank Malone, robbery, sentenced to 1 to 20 years in the penitentiary. Robert Converse, burglary, sentenced to 1 year to life in the penitentiary, by Judge Charles A. Williams.

Matt Foley, who as assistant circulation manager of the Chicago Herald and Examiner operated a fake lottery on the last Kentucky Derby, according to indictments pending in the Criminal court, was arrested yesterday at his home, 5140 Wilson avenue. The arrest was made by Detectives Robert Calkins and Tony McDonough of the detective bureau after the sheriff's office had spent more than two months in a vain effort to find Foley.

Foley was indicted by the grand jury in July along with H. Goodman, who at the time was a driver for the Herald and Examiner, and Leo Schoemer, a railroad employé. They are charged in a conspiracy indictment with obtaining money by false pretenses.

Arrest of Foley Ordered.

The capias for the arrest of Foley—the others having been arrested before the preliminary hearing—was turned over to the sheriff's office for service immediately after the indictment was returned in court. Deputy sheriffs reported Foley was apparently out of the city and that he could not be found.

Michael C. Walsh, Democratic candidate for congress from the second district, who was seeking redress for some of his constituents, who allegedly were swindled by Foley and his associates, finally obtained the assignment of Calkins and McDonough to the case.

Sergt. Calkins discovered that Foley was at home by calling Foley's house on the telephone and posing as a friend with "good news." Foley answered the call, but instead of waiting to give him the "good news" over the telephone, the sergeant hurried to the Foley home and personally served the capias. The prisoner was taken to the detective bureau and later to the county jail.

Foley laughed when the detectives told him that they had searched around Channel lake and Antioch for him. He said that he had not been hiding and had been expecting to be arrested at any time. He pointed out that his weight of 225 pounds made him conspicuous.

Faces Lottery Charge.

Foley is charged by the state with having circulated thousands of tickets through the drivers of the Herald and Examiner. The charge is that at least 50,000 tickets were issued on the fake lottery.

The scheme, according to the testimony of witnesses at the preliminary hearing, held before the indictments were returned in July, was thwarted by Pat Joyce, wealthy railroad official and owner of the horse Dick O'Hara. It was asserted that Foley and his associates counted on this horse to enable them to make large profits in the lottery scheme.

The circulars announced that a prize of $50 would be given to any one holding a ticket on a horse which actually started in the Derby. On the other hand, it was announced that if a person held a ticket on a horse which did not start he would lose his money. It was thought that Dick O'Hara had no chance of starting, but Joyce, it was reported, heard of Foley's scheme and started his horse, which came in last.

Thus, it is reported, approximately 50,000 person held tickets in Foley's lottery, calling for the payment of $50 each. It is alleged that Foley left with the money paid by those who had taken tickets.

Protest to Publisher.

Walsh, who was appealed to by many Illinois Central railroad employés who were swindled in the scheme, led a delegation to the Herald and Examiner offices in July. They conferred, they said, with Homer Guck, the publisher, and were finally turned over to Roscoe Conkling ["Duffy"] Cornell, the circulation manager, who advised them to accept a settlement on their tickets. The victims refused.

Walsh said that when the case comes to trial before Judge Joseph Sabath in the Criminal court on Oct. 15 he will ask the attorneys to summon as witnesses William Randolph Hearst, who is expected to arrive before that time, Mr. Guck, Mr. Cornell and other executives of the Herald and Examiner, to tell what they might know of the statements made at the time "that big executives of the Herald and Examiner are behind the lottery."

HUNTED BY U. S.

FRANK NITTI.

The government yesterday launched a national advertising campaign in the search for Frank Nitto, alias Nitti, reputed business manager of the Al Capone gang, who is wanted on charges of evading some $277,000 in income taxes. Nitti has eluded authorities since his indictment by the federal grand jury last March.

Clarence Converse of the internal revenue department's special intelligence unit, who is directing the search for Nitti, had printed 150,000 posters bearing the Capone gangster's photograph and details of the $1,000 reward offered for information leading to his capture.

The posters will be distributed among postoffices, jails, and police stations throughout the country, Converse said. About 10,000 of them will be distributed in Chicago, which will be sufficient to post each postal substation and each precinct police station, and to provide one for each policeman, deputy federal marshal, and deputy sheriff.

PRESIDENT ASKS CUBA TO MAKE HIM 'DICTATOR'

Demands Military Rule Until After Elections.

HAVANA, Oct. 2.—(AP)—President Gerardo Machado late this afternoon submitted to the Cuban congress a message requesting that constitutional guarantees be suspended in Havana and surrounding communities until after the November congressional and senatorial elections.

Suspension of the rights outlined in the nation's constitution also would be extended to any or all parts of the country, the message specified, should the need arise.

It was understood that the action was taken to block alleged "seditious" manifestations against the existing government now endeavoring to solve the present tense political situation. In its most restricted sense the measure would create a state of martial law in this city and environs.

Would Revoke Free Speech.

Freedom of speech, liberty of the press and privilege of public assembly are listed among the most important constitutional rights which would be revoked during the period that the measure would be enforced.

As soon as the message had been received announcement was made that it would be brought up in tomorrow's special session of congress. Under the Cuban constitution congress may grant the president such powers by a majority vote. Observers predict its approval.

If the suspension of rights should be extended to cover all Cuba, the elections scheduled for Nov. 1 will automatically be postponed. If it should be confined to the greater Havana district, 600,000 citizens, nearly a fifth of Cuba's population, would lose the right to vote.

Parley Follows Manifesto.

That the president would resort to extreme measures to prevent the holding of elections became known shortly after 2 o'clock this morning when a meeting of political leaders at the presidential palace terminated.

The conference followed issuance of a manifesto by the president indorsing the activities of police in using armed force to break anti-government demonstrations Tuesday.

Washington Eyes Cuba.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 2.—[Special.]—State department officials maintained an anxious eye on the disturbed Cuban situation today as dispatches reached the capital disclosing that President Machado was preparing to suspend all constitutional guarantees as a safety measure pending the November legislative elections.

While officials declined to announce in advance what course they will take if the student riots of Tuesday and other evidences of dissatisfaction with the Machado administration are followed by open revolt, it was stated that this country's course would be guided by the Platt amendment as interpreted almost 30 years ago by Elihu Root, then secretary of war. It was recalled in this connection that Mr. Root stated that the third clause of the Platt amendment, governing American relations with Cuba, was not synonymous with intermeddling or interference with the affairs of the Cuban government.

INVITES SCIENTISTS TO EXCAVATE TOADS BURIED 300 YEARS

Oklahoma City, Okla., Oct. 2.—(AP)—An invitation to skeptical scientists to visit an Indian mound near Gate, Okla., and excavate for themselves toads which he claims have been buried alive for more than 300 years was issued today by J. B. Thoburn, curator of the Oklahoma Historical society.

Advised that scientists of the Museum of Natural History at Washington, D. C., had expressed doubt as to the age of three toads which he and two archaeologists removed from the mound, Thoburn challenged them to come to Oklahoma and repeated his statement that he believed the reptiles were not less than 300 years old. He expressed the belief that many more toads would be found in the mound, as only a small part of it had been excavated.

One of the Gate toads, brought here to Oklahoma City university and placed under observation of Dr. Frank G. Brooks, biologist, died today. Last night each of the three was fed one fly. Apparently, Dr. Brooks said, the toads had forgotten how to eat.

Their eyes opened shortly after they were brought to the surface and their mouths opened yesterday.

PLAN AUSTRALIAN STATE WAGE CUT TO SAVE $20,000,000

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

CANBERRA, Australia, Oct. 2.—In order to balance the budget the cabinet proposes to recommend to a Labor caucus meeting Oct. 27, reductions in the salaries of ministers of 15 per cent, members of parliament 10 per cent, and public service employés from 2½ to 15 per cent on a graduated scale. The submission of the proposal to parliament, which meets Oct. 30 for a special financial session, is dependent on the endorsement of the caucus. In the meantime an effort will also be made to induce public service employés to accept voluntary reductions.

James E. Fenton, minister for trades and customs, at the conclusion of the cabinet meeting stated that the cabinet had agreed on a reduction of expenditures of approximately $20,000,000 annually and that an increased taxation on income from property is probable.

28 Nations Sign War Loan Pact; Aids Attacked States

[Copyright: 1930: By the New York Times.]

GENEVA, Oct. 2.—A convention, whereby the league of nations' council can provide financial assistance to a country it is unanimously decided is the victim of aggression, was signed here today by 28 nations. Under the stipulations of the treaty, signatures, representing a combined guarantee of a loan service of $9,750,000, are required as a minimum for it to go into effect, and today's signatures represent a service of $10,171,000.

In other words the council can immediately guarantee a victim of aggression, even at 7 per cent interest, a loan totaling more than $140,000,000.

22 European States Sign.

The signatories to the pact included Great Britain and two of her dominions, Australia and Ireland, France and all of its allies. Germany, Italy and Japan failed to sign, for though all their foreign ministers were in favor of the convention, all their finance ministers are holding up the signature. All the states of Europe signed except Hungary, Lithuania and Switzerland. Non-European signatories were Abyssinia, Boliva, Cuba, Peru and Persia.

Each signatory agrees to guarantee the same proportion of loan service as it contributes to the league budget, which is divided into 986 parts, of which Britain pays 105 and France 79. Todays signatures represent a total of 520 of these 986 parts, into which the loan service is thus likewise divided, with the British and French by far the heaviest backers of financial aid to the victims of aggression. If all members of the league ratify the treaty, the council can aid an attacked state with a $300,000,000 loan.

The financial value of such a loan to a small state and the important moral and political value to a big state of having the council find it deserving of assistance instead of its adversary was stressed by Nicholas Politis, the chairman of the commission which drafted the convention.

War's "Fire Extinguisher."

Since the council will give aid only as it deems it just and right to a victim of aggression, he held that "all states will have a much greater sincerity than heretofore, because they who might trouble peace are warned that they will be automatically held up for public approbation. Therefore, they'll hesitate before they launch themselves into tragic adventures.

"This convention is a choice object added to our precious collection of measures for preventing war. It is also rather like a fire extinguisher against 'war flames.'"

Rafael Orich, in behalf of Finland, which first proposed this convention, said he hoped that the convention will be a good augury for disarmament. Due to British action the convention provides that it will not go into force until the league's general disarmament convention does.

SOUP KING WILLS 150 MILLIONS TO KIN; NO CHARITIES

Only Son Is Left Largest Share.

Mount Holly, N. J., Oct. 2.—[Special.]—Bequests totaling $150,000,000 to members of the family are made in the will of Dr. John T. Dorrance, former president of the Campbell Soup company, at Trenton, N. J., who died last Sept. 21.

The will, which was probated here today, is the largest ever filed in this part of New Jersey and gives the soup manufacturers' 11 year old son, John T. Dorrance Jr., an income of $20,000 a month. His widow and the other children divide the remainder. There are no bequests to charitable institutions.

Thirty-five Page Document.

The will, a thirty-five page document of 10,000 words, was signed May 15, 1928. Dr. Dorrance named as executors and trustees his brothers, Dr George Morris Dorrance and Arthur C. Dorrance; his widow, Mrs. Eleanor T. Dorrance, and the Camden Safe Deposit company. While no total valuation of the estate is contained in the document, the proctor of the will, former Judge W. D. Lippincott, estimated the properties as worth $150,000,000.

A $350,000 trust fund is established for Dr. Dorrance's sisters, Alice Dorrance Hood, Mrs. E. W. Dorrance Dudley, and Mrs. Marie Dorrance Blake. Income from this fund is to be paid to the sisters equally in quarterly installments.

Special Bequests to Family.

The will provides that the widow shall receive $100,000 cash as soon after Dr. Dorrance's death as may be possible, and there is a bequest of $50,000 for a family mausoleum.

Mrs. Eleanor T. Dorrance, the soup manufacturer's mother, is to receive an income of $800 a month for one year after his death. A trust fund of $200,000 is also established for her.

The remainder of the estate is divided among the immediate members of the family. One-quarter of the net income, in monthly payments, is left to the widow. The children, Mrs. Eleanor Dorrance Hill of New York, Ethel M. Dorrance, 21; Charlotte K., 18, and Margarget W. Dorrance, 14, receive $10,000 a month, while the only son received twice that.

The boy received his father's valuable library and a treasured grandfather clock, both of which he is to keep until he is fifty or they will be transferred to the widow.

Founded Big Soup Company.

Dr. Dorrance, who was the founder of the Campbell Soup company and originator of the canned soup industry, was educated as a chemist at Massachusetts Institute of Technology and Gottingen university. Declining opportunities to join the faculties of three universities, he went to work for his uncle for $7.50 a week. In 1899 he produced the first lot of canned soup and within a few years he had built up the soup company.

He asked in his will that his son be educated in the business of soup manufacturing and he devoted several pages of the document to a discussion of the soup company's future.

5 KILLED, 9 HURT IN COLLAPSE OF N. Y. TENEMENT

New York, Oct. 2.—[Special.]—Five persons were killed and nine injured today when a four story rooming house in Greenwich village collapsed. With all but two of the persons in the building at the time still asleep, the crash sent them plunging downward amid tons of debris as the structure vanished abruptly into a mass of bricks and tangled beams.

The sudden collapse was laid to lack of proper shoring by a wrecking company demolishing a group of tenements next door, just across the street from the new women's prison at Jefferson market. The building which crashed was on Greenwich avenue and housed mainly French restaurant and hotel workers.

The dead are Frank Bourdon, 25; Mrs. Victorine Courtaide, 48; Marguerite Courtaide, 27; Carlos Tornaghi, 29, lodger, and an unidentified man about 25.

Mrs. Marie Sargousse, 70, proprietor of the place and a well known figure in the "Village" for some years, was the most seriously hurt. She was in St. Vincent's hospital with internal injuries in a critical condition.

The roar of the collapsing structure aroused the neighborhood about 6:10 a. m., and within a short time a crowd gathered as fire engines and police department emergency wagons clanged their way through the streets.

District Attorney T. C. T. Crain, who with Police Commissioner Edward P. Mulrooney conducted an investigation, ordered the arrest of officials of the Fine Wrecking company, which was demolishing the buildings next door.

Lake Forest Woman Sues Operator of Beauty Shop

Mrs. Louise Sanborn, 145 East Westminster avenue, Lake Forest, filed a $10,000 damage suit yesterday in the Lake county court against Miss E. Jenny O'Neill, operator of the Vanity Beauty shop, 251 East Market square, Lake Forest. The bill, as drawn by Attorney Tyrrell Krum, alleges that on last Jan. 29, while Mrs. Sanborn was having her hair waved at the beauty shop, celluloid combs used by the operator became ignited, burning Mrs. Sanburn about the head, face and arms.

PLEDGES MORE ROAD WORK IN CHICAGO AREA

Governor Gives District Benefit of Savings.

BY HAL FOUST.

Gov. Emmerson, in Chicago yesterday, announced that the state will build approximately $2,000,000 worth of highway improvements in the metropolitan area in 1930 and '31 in addition to the program drafted by a citizens' advisory committee last winter.

"The business lull has reduced construction costs appreciably," he said. "The advisory committee listed projects estimated at $19,000,000 for construction during the biennium. It now appears that we will be able to complete this program for about $17,000,000.

"The state administration is going to spend the full $19,000,000 in this area in accordance with the promise made to the people of this district. In 1931 we'll be able to let contracts for $2,000,000 worth of projects suggested by the advisory committee for 1932 work.

"During my administration, I expect to see the state bond issue system completed. The state is obligated to build these roads, although some seem to be of secondary importance.

"We'll also continue the widening program which has gained considerable headway this year. And we're going to devote more attention to the separation of grades at the intersections of busy pavements."

Receives Report on Roads.

The governor received a report from Director Cleaveland of the department of public works and from State Highway Engineer Sheets that contracts let for the metropolitan area this year total $6,837,631 and that the citizens' committee estimate for these same jobs was $8,498,554.

The state this year has built, is building, or has let contracts to build, 72.61 miles of the 105.45 miles of widening proposed by the citizens' committee for 1930 and '31 construction. The 1930 contracts cover 18.27 miles of new forty foot pavement; the committee listed 38.25 miles for the two years. In one year the state has let contracts for 65.92 miles of the 106.45 miles of twenty foot pavement set forth in the citizens' program.

Lag in Grade Separations.

The state highway department is ahead of the schedule set for it by the governor's advisors in all construction except the building of grade separations. The committee recommended 48 railroad grade separations and five highway grade separations. Work has been started on only six of these projects, all of them railroad separations.

"We have been disappointed," said Mr. Cleaveland, "in our attempts to get right of way for grade separations. I want to see a concentration of effort on these structures this winter. The wider roads will not give their maximum relief to traffic as long as this increased volume of automobiles is halted by heavy cross traffic at busy highway junctions. Furthermore, construction this winter will help the employment problem."

Gov. Emmerson was called upon yesterday by a delegation from Joliet, petitioning for the widening of Joliet road to Chicago. This road, carrying a heavy truck and bus traffic between Springfield and St. Louis, was widened this summer only as far as the Willow Springs road. The delegation also asked for a grade separation on the highway at the crossing of the Alton and Santa Fe railroads south of Joliet.

FREE CHICAGOAN OF SOUTH BEND MURDER CHARGE

South Bend, Ind., Oct. 2.—[Special.]—Henry Siwinski, 5639 South Sawyer avenue, Chicago, who was arrested yesterday as a suspect in the murder of Alice Woltman, 16 years old, was released by authorities here tonight.

Detectives seized the youth on information that he had attended the funeral of the Woltman girl, bent over her casket and whispered: "You'll know better next time." At the inquest here tonight, conducted by Coroner C. B. Crumpacker of St. Joseph county, Siwinski denied the remark, and denied he was in South Bend the evening of the murder. His alibi was supported.

The inquest was ordered held open pending further inquiry. Police have several workable clues, Coroner Crumpacker said.

The coroner also postponed inquiry into the slaying of Marverine Appel, 8 years old, until tomorrow, pending action of the grand jury in the case of George S. Meyers, odd job man, who "confessed" the killing. Officials doubt his story, and will wait for a report of the jury tomorrow.

FIND AGENCY IS NOT CONNECTED WITH R. CAPONE

The federal grand jury investigation of the John T. Lyon agency, 175 West Jackson street, Chicago, representatives of the Grand Central Surety company, has disclosed no connection between it and Ralph J. Capone, Assistant United States Attorney Daniel Anderson said yesterday.

Reports published last week, based on statements of Edward A. Collins, a former employé of the surety company, charged that Ralph Capone put up half of the $16,000 required as security by the New York office when the local agency opened last April.

Mr. Anderson said the grand jury probably would issue a statement absolving the company from any Capone influence.

HOOVER SAYS COURAGE IS KEY TO PROSPERITY

inflation and speculation. They must direct credit to commerce, he said. Furthermore, they must study measures in the business world or in cooperation with the government to develop policies to remedy the present depression and prevent future ones.

President Hoover asserted that the government has sought to revive business and that business men have given their coöperation. Wages generally have been maintained, he asserted, employment has been distributed and large construction undertaken.

As other constructive measures, the President suggested that the railroads could be helped by removal of some restrictions in the transportation act of 1920 which have proved hampering, and that an inquiry may show the advisability of changing the tax on capital gains, which had proved to be one cause for inflation.

Mr. Hoover's optimistic utterances, however, were not entirely supported by addresses before the morning session of the convention. Fred W. Sargent, president of the Chicago and North Western railroad, charged that government subsidies for inland waterways and highways, coupled with restrictions on railroad earnings, are stifling American railroads and virtually confiscating their property.

Greeted in Noonday Parade.

President Hoover arrived at noon and was met by a committee of city officials and citizens. Mrs. Hoover, who arrived last night, joined the President at the railroad station and together they led a parade through crowd lined streets to the Cleveland hotel, where special quarters had been prepared for the presidential party. The parade was accompanied by mounted military detachments.

A luncheon for the President was served by the Cleveland reception committee. Mrs. Hoover attended a luncheon at the Woman's club.

Text of President Hoover's Address Before American Bankers' Convention in Cleveland

Cleveland, O., Oct. 2.—(AP)—Following is the text of the address delivered by President Herbert Hoover before the bankers' convention:

"Members of the American Bankers association and guests: I am glad to meet with this assembly of representative bankers from every state and almost every county of our country. During the last year you have carried the credit system of the nation safely through a most difficult crisis. In this success you have demonstrated not alone the soundness of the credit system but also the capacity of our bankers in emergency.

"We have had a severe shock and there has been disorganization in our economic system which has temporarily checked the march of prosperity. But the fundamental assets of the nation, the education, intelligence, virility, and the spiritual strength of our 120,000,000 people, have been unimpaired. The resources of our country in lands and mines are undiminished. Scientific discovery and invention have made further progress. The gigantic equipment and unparalleled organization for production and distribution are in many parts even stronger than two years ago.

Strength to Overcome Decline.

"Though our production and consumption has been slowed down to 85 or 90 per cent of normal, yet by the very fact of the steady functioning of the major portion of our system do we have the assurance of our ability and the economic strength to overcome the decline. The problem today is to complete the restoration of order in our ranks and to intensify our efforts to prevent such interruptions for the future.

"And it is not a problem in academic economics. It is a great human problem. The margin of shrinkage brings loss of savings, unemployment, privation, hardship, and fear, which are no part of our ideals for the American economic system.

"This depression is world-wide. Its causes and its effects lie only partly in the United States. Our country engaged in overspeculation in securities which crashed a year ago with great losses. A perhaps even larger immediate cause of our depression has been the effect upon us from the collapse in prices following overproduction of important raw materials, mostly in foreign countries.

Causes Lie Outside U. S.

"These major overexpansions have taken place largely outside of the United States. Their collapse has reduced the buying power of many countries.

These and other causes have produced in some of the countries affected some political unrest. These economic disturbances have echoed in slowed down demand for manufactured goods from Europe and ourselves, with inevitable contribution to unemployment.

"But the readjustment in prices, which were also inevitable, are far along their course. Most of these commodities are below the level at which sufficient production can be maintained for the world's normal needs, and therefore sooner or later must recover.

"Because the present depression is world wide and because its causes were world wide does not require that we should wait upon the recovery of the rest of the world. We can make a very large degree of recovery independently of what may happen elsewhere.

"I should like to remind you that we did precisely that thing in 1922. We were then experiencing the results of the collapse of war inflation in all commodities and in every direction. We had less organized coöperation between the business community and the government to help mitigate that situation. The rest of the world was in chaos from the war far more menacing both to economic and political stability than anything confronting us today.

"Our difficulties at that time were far more severe than they are at present.

"But we led the world in recovery. It was our independent recuperation from the depression and the economic strength which we so liberally and largely furnished to other countries that was the very basis for reconstruction of a war demoralized world.

Can Overcome World Influence.

"We are able in considerable degree to free ourselves of world influences and make a large measure of independent recovery because we are so remarkably self-contained. Because of this, while our economic system is subject to the shock of world influences, we should be able in large measure to readjust ourselves. Our national production is over one-third of the total of the whole commercial world. We consume an average of about 90 per cent of our own production of commodities.

"If, for example, we assume a restored normal home consumption and held even our present reduced basis of exports we should be upon a 97 per cent of normal business basis. Even this illustration does not represent all of our self-contained strength.

"We shall need mainly to depend upon our own strong arm for recovery, as other nations are in greater difficulty than we. We shall need again to undertake to assist and coöperate with them. Our imports of commodities in the main depend upon our domestic prosperity. Any forward movement in our recovery creates a demand for foreign raw materials and goods and thus instantly reacts to assist other countries the world over.

Relation of Bankers.

"I wish to take your time to discuss some of the pivotal relationships of the bankers not only to the immediate problem of recovery but to the wider problem of long-view business stability. Any discussion of the one involves the other.

"Before I enter upon that subject, however, I wish to say that no one can occupy the high office of President and conceivably be other than completely confident of the future of the United States. Perhaps as to no other place does the cheerful courage and power of a confident people reflect as to his office.

"There are a few folks in business and several folks in the political world who resent the notion that things will ever get better and who wish to enjoy our temporary misery. To recount to these persons the progress of coöperation between the people and the government in amelioration of this situation, or to mention that we are suffering far less than other countries, or that savings are piling up in the banks, or that our people are paying off installment purchases, that abundant capital is now pressing for new ventures and employment, only inspires the unkind retort that we should fix our gaze solely upon the unhappy features of the decline.

"And, above all, to chide the pessimism of persons who have assumed the end of those mighty forces which for 150 years have driven this land further and further toward that great human goal—the abolition of intellectual and economic poverty—is perhaps not a sympathetic approach. Nevertheless, I always have been, and I remain, an unquenchable believer in the resistless, dynamic power of American enterprise. This is no time—an audience of American leaders of business is no place—to talk of any surrender. We have known a thousand temporary setbacks, but the spirit of this people will never brook defeat.

"Our present situation is not a new experience. These interruptions to the orderly march of progress have been recurrent for a century. And apart from recovery from the present depression, the most urgent undertaking in our economic life is to devise further methods of preventing these storms. We must assure a higher degree of business stability for the future.

No Simple Explanation.

"The causes advanced for these movements are many and varied. There is no simple explanation. This is not an occasion for analysis of the many theories such as too little gold or the inflexible use of it. Whatever the remote causes may be, a large and immediate cause of most hard times is inflationary booms.

"These strike some segment of economic life somewhere in the world, and their reëcholing destructive results bring depression and hard times. These inflations in currency or credit, in land or securities, or overexpansion in some sort of commodity production beyond possible demand even in good times—may take place at home or abroad—but they all bring retribution.

"The leaders of business, of economic thought, and of government have for the last decade given earnest search into cause and remedy of this sort of instability. Much has already been accomplished to check the violence of the storms and to mitigate their distress. As a result of these efforts the period of stable prosperity between storms is longer, the period of storm is shorter, and the relief work far more effective. But we need not go beyond our situation today to confirm the need for further effort.

Depressions Not Inevitable.

"The economic fatalist believes that these crises are inevitable and bound to be recurrent. I would remind these pessimists that exactly the same thing was once said of typhoid, cholera, and smallpox. If medical science had sat down in a spirit of weak-kneed resignation and accepted these scourges as uncontrollable visitations of providence, we should still have them with us. This is not the spirit of modern science.

"We have all been much engaged with measures of relief from the effect of the collapse of a year ago. At that time I determined that it was my duty, even without precedent, to call upon the business of the country for coördinated and constructive action to resist the forces of disintegration.

"The business community, the bankers, labor, and the government have coöperated in wider spread measures of mitigation than have ever been attempted before. Our bankers and the reserve system have carried the country through the credit storm without impairment. Our leading business concerns have sustained wages, have distributed employment, have expedited heavy construction.

"The government has expanded public works, assisted in credit to agriculture, and has restricted immigration. These measures have maintained a higher degree of consumption than would have otherwise been the case. They have thus prevented a large measure of unemployment. They have provided much new employment.

Human Problems Solved.

"American business has proved its capacity to solve some great human problems in economics. The relation between employers and employé has here reached a more stable and satisfactory basis than anywhere else in the world. We have largely solved the problem of how to secure the consumption of the gigantic increase of goods produced through that multiplication of per capita production by the application of science and the use of labor-saving devices.

"That solution has been attained by sharing the savings in production costs between labor, capital, and the consumer, through increased wages and salaries to the worker, and decreased prices to the consumer with consequent increased buying power for still more goods. Every step in that solution is a revolution from the older theories of business.

"We may safely assume that our economic future is safe so far as it is dependent upon a competent handling of problems of productivity. But one result is to render further advance toward stability even more urgent, because with higher standards of living the whole system is more sensitive and the penalties of instability more widespread.

Importance of Bank Reactions.

"There is no one group of which the public expects so much in assuring stability as the bankers, because in the vortex of these storms many values lose their moorings. Nor can any other group contribute so much in constructive thought and action to solve the problem either today or in the long run.

"Three most important relationships to these business movements lie in the banker's field. The first is what, for lack of better terms, we call psychology—both that contagious overoptimism which accelerates the inflation of the boom and those depths of fear and pessimism which deepen and prolong the depression.

"The American banker has come to occupy a unique position in the strategy of stability, for he is the economic adviser of American business. He is the listening post of economic movement. He in large measure makes or tempers its psychology.

Become General Advisers.

"I do not suppose the banker has consciously sought this new function of general adviser, but such he has become. His business is no longer the simple function of discounting commercial bills and lending money on first mortgages. That is today but part of his work. These days, when he establishes a line of credit to a business, or furnishes loans upon securities of a business, or advises investment in a business, he must know the elements which make for success and failure of that business. And he must form judgment as to the future trend of business in general.

"On the other side, the American business man, big and little, the farmer, and the labor leader are coming more and more to consult with the banker on problems of his business. Whatever the origin of his position may be, the banker is now the economic guide, philosopher, and friend of his customers, and his philosophy can dampen our enthusiasm and equally it can lift our courage and hope.

Credit Business Foundation.

"The second point of the banker's unique position in relation to business trends lies in the part which credit plays in the whole business process. Obviously during the inflationary period the use of credit for unwise expansion and speculation draws away the supply of credit from normal business. It imposes upon normal business an interest rate which strangles the orderly commerce of the country.

"Commerce sickens under this pressure, its pace slackens and contributes to collapse. Therefore, I wish to emphasize what has long been recognized—that is, that the flow of credit can accelerate and it can retard such movements. Equally a wise direction of credit provides a large contribution to recovery from depressions.

"The third reason why this is so much a banker's problem is that banking is the one great line of business activity that is in itself interconnected. Each credit institution shares the credit burdens of others and all are largely coördinated through national organization—the federal reserve system.

Coöperation by Reserve System.

"The reserve system and its member banks and the treasury participation, in fact, form a widespread coöperative organization, acting in the broad interest of the whole people. To a large degree, it can influence the flow of credit. Bankers themselves are represented at each stage of management. And, in addition, the various boards and advisory committees represent also industry, agriculture, merchandising, and the government.

"The reserve system, therefore, furnishes an admirable center for coöperation of the banking business with the production and distribution industries and the government in the development of broad and detached policies of business stability.

"You have gained much experience from the two great crises of recent years. I trust you will seriously and systematically consider what further effective measures can be taken either in the business world or in coöperation with the government in development of such policies, both for the present depression and for the future.

Assistance by Government.

"The government should coöperate. It plays a large part in the credit structure of the country. Its fiscal system has most important bearings. For instance, I believe an inquiry might develop that our system of taxes upon capital gains directly encourages inflation by strangling the free movement of land and securities.

"The regulatory functions of the federal and state governments also have a bearing on this subject through their effect upon the financial strength of the railways and utilities. During a period of depression the soundest and most available method of relief to unemployment is expansion of public works and construction in the utilities, railways, and heavy industries.

"The volume of possible expansion of construction in these private industries is about four or five times that in public works. During the present depression these industries have done their full part, but especially the railways have been handicapped by some provisions of the transportation act of 1920. With wider public vision the railways could be strengthened into a greater balance wheel of stability.

"We have need to consider all of our economic legislation, whether banking, utilities, or agriculture, or anything else, from the point of view of its effect upon business stability.

Direct Action Not Approved.

"I have never believed that our form of government could satisfactorily solve economic problems by direct action—could successfully conduct business institutions. The government can and must cure abuses. What the government can do best is to encourage and assist in the creation and development of institutions controlled by our citizens and evolved by themselves from their own needs and their own experience and directed in a sense of a trusteeship of public interest. The federal reserve is such an institution.

"Without intrusion the government can sometimes give leadership and serve to bring together divergent elements and secure coöperation in development of ideas, measures, and institutions. That is a reënforcement of our individualism. It does not cripple the initiative and enterprise of our people by the substitution of government.

"Proper coöperation among our people in public interest, and continuation of such institutional growths, strengthen the whole foundation of the nation, for self-government outside of political government is the truest form of self-government. It is in this manner that these problems should be met and solved.

Stresses Bankers' Influence.

"I wish to revert to the influence of the bankers, through encouragement and leadership, in expedition of our recovery from the present situation. You have already done much, and at this juncture the responsibility of those in control of money and credit is very great. Without faith on your part and without your good offices, the early return to full prosperity cannot be accomplished. This depression will be shortened largely to the degree that you feel that you can prudently, by counsel and specific assistance, instill into your clients from industry, agriculture, and commerce a feeling of assurance.

"We know that one of the prerequisites of ending a depression is an ample supply of credit at low rates of interest. This supply and these rates are now available through the coöperation of the banks and the federal reserve system.

"The income of a large part of our people is not reduced by the depression but it is affected by unnecessary fears and pessimism, the result of which is to slacken the consumption of goods and discourage enterprise. Here the very atmosphere of your offices will affect the mental attitude and, if you please, courage of the individuals who will depend upon you for both counsel and money.

"Many, perhaps all of you, have been through other periods of depression. Those of you who have had occasion to review the experience of the past will, I believe, join in the thought that there comes a time in every depression when the changed attitude of the financial agencies can help the upward movement in our economic forces.

Human Happiness at Stake.

"I started with the premise that this question of stability was much more than a problem in academic economics—it is a great human problem, for it involves the happiness of millions of homes. A continued unity of effort, both in our present situation and in establishing safeguards for the future, is the need of today. No one can contribute more than our banking community.

"It appears from the press that some one suggested in your discussion that our American standards of living should be lowered. To that I emphatically disagree. I do not believe it represents the views of this association. Not only do I not accept such a theory, but on the contrary, the whole purpose and ideal of this economic system, which is distinctive of our country, is to increase the standard of living by the adoption and the constantly widening diffusion of invention and discovery amongst the whole of our people.

No Retreat for U. S. Standards.

"Any retreat from our American philosophy of constantly increasing standards of living would become a retreat into perpetual unemployment and the acceptance of a cesspool of poverty for some large part of our people.

Our economic system is but an instrument of the social advancement of the American people. It is an instrument by which we add to the security of richness of life of every individual. It by no means comprises the whole purpose of life, but it is the foundation upon which can be built the finer things of the spirit. Increase in enrichment must be the objective of the nation, not decrease.

"In conclusion I would again profess my own undaunted faith in those mighty spiritual and intellectual forces of liberty, self-government, initiative, invention, and courage, which have throughout our whole national life motivated our progress and driven us ever forward. These forces, which express the true genius of our people, are undiminished. They have already shown their ability to resist this immediate shock. Any recession in American business is but a temporary halt in the prosperity of a great people."

ARRAIGN BANDIT IN LAKE FOREST; ADMITS ROBBERY

Antonio Rendon, the robber who broke into the Lake Forest home of Mrs. Leverett Thompson late Wednesday night, terrorized the household, and escaped with $50 after a vain search for Mrs. Thompson's jewels, was arraigned yesterday before Police Magistrate Samuel Sorenson of Lake Forest and held to the grand jury in bonds of $20,000.

Identified by a housemaid, Mrs. Owen Gerrard, from whom he took $15, and by Mrs. Thompson's brother, Abram Poole, New York artist, who gave him a watch and $35, the prisoner confessed the robbery. He denied having been implicated in the robbery last Sunday of the home of William V. Kelley of Lake Forest.

In his confession the robber named the maid as a fellow conspirator, claiming she had admitted him to the house. His statement prompted Samuel Insull to direct his employé, Hinton G. Clabaugh, former chairman of the state board of pardons and paroles, to take a hand in the investigation, the maid having formerly worked in the Insull household at Libertyville and her husband being Mr. Insull's butler. After exhaustively questioning both Rendon and the maid, Mr. Clabaugh declared himself satisfied that the maid was in no way involved.

LEGION GROUPS START TO BOSTON FOR CONVENTION

The drum and bugle corps of the Chicago Board of Trade post, American Legion, numbering more than one hundred members, recent winners of first prize in the Illinois veterans' day contest at Springfield, departed yesterday aboard a special train of the Pennsylvania railroad for the annual American Legion convention in Boston.

The corps formed on the main trading floor and marched through the loop to the Union station. This afternoon a delegation of one hundred Legionnaires from South and North Dakota will pass through Chicago in a special train bound for the convention. Tomorrow 32 members of the Chicago Elevated Railway post will join the Boston bound caravan. On Saturday the Milwaukee Legion Ladies' band of fifty pieces will pause in Chicago on its way to the convention.

$22,500 PAID FOR ACCIDENTALLY KILLING A MAN

Omaha, Neb., Oct. 2.—(AP)—Arthur J. Hanford, wealthy Sioux City business man, today paid the widow of Fred Slayden, Omaha hotel porter, $22,500 in compensation for the death of her husband, who was killed, police say, when he suffered a skull fracture in a fall to the street after being struck by Hanford. Slayden, the police report read, had been attempting to aid Hanford in entering the hotel while he was in an intoxicated condition.

Shortly after Mrs. Slayden had made public the payment made her by Hanford the county attorney's office announced she had written asking that prosecution against Hanford be dropped. The county attorney said she termed the affair "purely an accident."

Hanford previously had told police he did not recall striking Slayden.

Mounted Policeman Gilbert Wilson, 27 years old, was fatally injured at La Salle street and Wacker drive, lower level. Policeman Wilson, a member of the force for 22 months, had just come on duty when his horse, frightened by the noise of a garbage wagon, reared, throwing him under the wheels of a truck hauling three trailers, which passed over him. He was unmarried and lived at 4921 Norwood Park avenue.

Dorothy Kelter, 7 years old, 6513 South Damen avenue, died last night, the second victim of an auto tragedy in which an entire family was run down by an auto on Sept. 1 at Ashland avenue and 72d street. Her brother, Victor, 6 years old, died a few hours after the accident and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kelter, are patients in the hospital, the mother in a serious condition. John Craven, 22 years old, 6500 South May street, the driver, is being held in the county jail.

The two Cook county deaths and three others increased the motor toll for the year to 769. The victims:

William Dudek, 15 years old, 3243 Hirsch street. Died at Alexian Brothers hospital of injuries received on Wednesday when he fell from the running board of an auto in front of 910 North Western avenue.

With her was her sister, Mrs. Annie Baulsir, 1927 West 47th street, who was also hurt.

Seven persons were injured, one critically, when two cars collided at St. Louis avenue and 16th street. At the Mount Sinai hospital, where all were taken, physicians said Morris Behr, 18 years old, 7645 South Morgan stret, was in a serious condition. The other car sped away.

Hunt Jeweler After Wife Gets Note for Ransom

Lieut. Phil Carroll's detective bureau squad last night searched over the west side for clews to the disappearance of Marian Arthur Sensenbrenner, manager of the Wolf Jewel shop at 4118 West Madison street, who has been missing since Saturday. Sensenbrenner's wife received a letter, purporting to be from kidnapers, instructing her to leave a package containing $1,100 at Karlov and West End avenues. A "decoy" package was left at the spot, but the police reported that no one tried to pick it up.

2 SLAIN, 2 SHOT IN GANG ATTACK ON LIQUOR CAMP

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 2.—[Special.]—The cold and vicious rattle of a machine gun at dawn today heralded the outbreak of armed hostilities between the Cuckoo gangsters of St. Louis and the Shelton mob of Illinois bootleggers.

When the shooting ended two men lay dead. They were:

Peter McTigue, Cuckoo gangster and gunman.

William Boody, a plumber, who had been employed by the Cuckoos to build stills.

The bodies were found by officers who visited the scene of the shooting.

Two of the dead men's companions were critically wounded. These men are:

Sam Therina, 2936 Folsom avenue, an associate of McTigue and Boody. He was shot in both hips. He is in the city hospital here.

Joe Mocerl, young St. Louis Italian, who was found shot below the heart lying beside an old wagon road half a mile from the scene of the shooting.

A fifth man, James Dormondy, Cuckoo gangster, escaped, but was arrested several hours later and with two companions, Dominick Page and Tony Boniro, both of St. Louis, was jailed at Waterloo, Ill., for questioning.

Spent and wounded, Therina drove up to the city hospital in Boody's automobile at 7:50 a. m., honked his horn, and was carried inside on a stretcher. He told how he and the other men had been ambushed in a shack on an island in the Mississippi river near Valmeyer, Ill., while operating a still a ainst orders of the Shelton gang, which has issued an underworld manifesto against Missouri bootleggers operating in Illinois.

Therina held a handful of discharged cartridges that had been ejected from the machine gun He had driven the forty miles from Velmeyer to bring word of the shooting.

"There were five of us," he said. "I think they got the other four. They killed Pete McTigue, all right. I saw them turn the muzzle of a machine gun right into Bill Boody, and I am afraid Jim Dormondy is wounded.

"We all stayed at the place on the river last night. It was formerly owned by the Shelton brothers. We slept in a shack next to the barn where the big still was.

"At 6 a. m. I was awakened by machine gun fire along the side of the house. The bullets crashed through the boards and the window, and I was struck in both hips by slugs that went through the walls.

"I next saw the door open and two men rushed in, one carrying a machine gun. He pointed it at McTigue, who was still asleep on a cot in a far corner of the room. Pete was dead right away. He never woke up.

"I fell from my cot to the floor. Bill Boody, who had been sleeping with us, got up and ran out of the shack. The two men followed him down the road, shooting at him with a machine gun. After they had gone a few hundred feet they dropped him and I am sure he was dead for they fired more bullets into his body.

AUSTRIA FACING FASCIST RULE AND CIVIL WAR

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VIENNA, Austria, Oct. 2.—A Fascist dictatorship, with the strong possibility of a general strike, a civil war, and foreign intervention, loomed for Austria tonight when the Heimwehr issued a violently phrased manifesto, signed by Prince Ernest von Starhemberg, minister of the interior and youthful commander in chief of the Heimwehr, declaring that the Fascist organization will not recognize the election on Nov. 9 if it goes against them.

The general consensus is that seizure of the government by the Heimwehr following the election will be met by the Socialists' favorite weapon—a general strike. This result will inevitably lead to a civil war, with the possibility of intervention in favor of the Heimwehr by Italy and Hungary and in favor of the Socialists by Czecho-Slovakia.

Illinois Mother Knew Best

WISE mothers find the things that keep children contented, happy, well. Most of them have learned they can depend on one thing to restore a youngster's good nature when he's cross, fretful, upset.

The experience of Mrs. P. H. Reser, 5642 Division St., Chicago, is a typical one. She says: "I have used California Fig Syrup with Betty Lou and Mardeau for more than four years. Whenever they're the least bit constipated or restless I give them a little. It has them comfortable, happy, well in a jiffy. Their splendid condition proves I knew best when I decided to use this wonderful preparation with them."

Physicians endorse the use of pure vegetable California Fig Syrup when bad breath, coated tongue, dullness, feverishness, listlessness, etc., show a child's bowels are in need of help. Weak stomach and bowels are toned by its gentle aid; appetite increased; digestion and assimilation are so assisted that weak, undernourished children quickly improve in weight, strength and energy.

The genuine always bears the word California. So look for that when buying. All drugstores have it.*

CHOP DOWN EVIL PROHIBITION TREE, PLEA OF LEWIS

Quotes Scripture to Wet Egyptian Crowds.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

West Frankfort, Ill., Oct. 2.—James Hamilton Lewis, campaigning in a string of wet Egyptian counties today, told his audiences that although some of the professional drys are depicting him as wearing horns and cloven hoofs, his plank against prohibition is an effort to lead America back to scriptural doctrine as well as constitutional principles.

The Democratic nominee for senator declared New York Republicans had lifted the platform of the Democrats of Illinois, while in New Jersey Dwight W. Morrow is running for senator on the same platform as the Illinois Democrats, with Herbert Hoover giving him his blessing.

"What we Democrats are striving for," said Mr. Lewis, "is to bring you back to the doctrine set forth in scripture, 'if a tree shall not bring forth good fruit, cut it down.'

What's in President's Mind.

"Changing thought on prohibition, a tree which has brought forth evil fruit is shown in the land. The Republican party of New York now goes forth to the country on the policy advanced by the Democratic party of Illinois.

"And what must be in the mind of President Hoover when in his desire to execute the law against crime and obstruct the injustice to the people under the national administration of prohibition he indorses as candidate for the senate from New Jersey Ambassador Dwight Morrow on his platform of repealing the eighteenth amendment and substituting control of the states over the subject—the Democratic platform of Illinois. Truly, my friends, we are living in a changing age.

"I invite your attention to the platforms of the Republican party of New Jersey, California, Iowa, Maryland, and the state of Washington—all going to the fundamental doctrine of our government as laid down by the fathers and promulgated in this state by Abraham Lincoln.

About Personal Temperance.

"All of these now place the temperance and our salvation in political morality and personal temperance of the citizen upon the return to the states of a home government that shall give the states the control of both the subject of temperance and morality."

The Democratic cavalcade had a colorful October day touring Egypt. Accompanying Mr. Lewis were Edward J. Barrett, nominee for state treasurer and Walter Nesbit of Bellville, candidate for congressman at large.

At Sparta, Pinckneyville and Duquion, large audiences were gathered. One feature of this campaign is the unusual size of both Republican and Democratic meetings."

At Sparta, in Randolph county, which probably was hit harder by the drought than any other Illinois county, Mr. Lewis told the farmers that on farm relief the Hoover administration had "bored him to death."

"You called for farm relief," he said. The President named five boards, and during the drought after great fulmination a drought board was created, and word from Washington was that the President was working on the farm relief day and night so assiduously that he would give up his summer holiday.

Goes Back to Rapidan.

"Now Mr. Hover has gone back to the Rapidan to finish his book on fishing—I wonder whether he will have a chapter on how to catch suckers—and after conferences and conferences, between Mr. Legge, Secretary Hyde, and the President, the farmers were told they had better give up the idea of farm relief and return home and apply for loans to the local banker. Then the Republican masters still parade their old theory that you should be thankful they are allowed to serve you."

Unemployment and the tariff were themes here tonight in the heart of the coal regions.

SAFFORD COMMENDS MRS. O'NEILL AT M. E. CONFERENCE SESSION

The senatorial candidacy of Mrs. Lottie Holman O'Neill was applauded yesterday at the meeting of the Rock River conference of the Methodist Episcopal church at Wilmette. Dr. George B. Safford, superintendent of the Illinois Anti-Saloon league, praised Mrs. O'Neill for her prohibition stand and criticized Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick for her "attempt to lead the league into the wet camp."

Dr. Safford declared that the league would refuse to recommend any one who will vote for the repeal of the 18th amendment under any circumstances. He pointed to Mrs. Cormick's willingness to vote for repeal if the wets win in the coming wet-dry referendum. Dr. Safford indicated that the league would prefer the candidacy of James Hamilton Lewis to that of Mrs. McCormick.

The Rev. Dr. W. L. Whipple of Geneva was appointed head of a committee of fifteen to consider the proposal to unfrock the Rev. James A. Wilson of Mendota. Mr. Wilson was sentenced to the penitentiary for one to fourteen years for shooting the janitor of the Mendota church.

No further move has been made by John A. Logan Warren, unfrocked former pastor of the Durand Methodist church, in his appeal for reinstatement.

EDITOR OF 'PURE' BIBLE OBSERVES 90TH BIRTHDAY

Frank R. Chandler, a resident of Chicago since 1860, celebrated his 90th birthday yesterday in the home in which he has lived for 51 years at 744 Rush street. His first home on that site, built in 1868, was burned in the Chicago fire.

Mr. Chandler, dressed in a frock coat and wing collar, was found seated before a walnut table writing a poem to read at the birthday dinner he was giving for family and friends.

A "Twentieth Century Bible" has been compiled and but recently published by Mr. Chandler, he said.

"In it I have expurgated all immoralities, indelicacies, and irrelevancies," he explained. "I have left stars to denote the deletions. For instance, in the Bible Noah gets drunk. Now why do you need to know that? As the Bible stands now I would not want a daughter of mine to read it. But expurgated, as I have made it, it is fine literature."

MRS. McCORMICK LAUDS HOOVER; ATTACKS LEWIS

Talks on Rum, Farm Aid, and Unemployment.

Beardstown, Ill., Oct. 2.—[Special.]—Lauding President Hoover and the G. O. P. and attacking Lewis for his "subtle appeal" to the people that there existed no difference between Republicans and Democrats, Mrs. McCormick addressed an audience of 1,000 here tonight.

"As we approach the election," she said, "I am amused at the subtle attempts of my distinguished opponent to convince my people of the 13th district that there is no difference in parties."

She challenged the statement of Lewis, saying that during Wilson's administration Lewis preached Wilsonian policies and upheld Wilsonian doctrines, believing as all Democrats in the league which the Republican party opposes.

Keep Faith in Hoover, She Pleads.

She asked the people to keep faith in Hoover and the G. O. P. Enumerating action of the administration and its faithfulness to pledges on farm relief she said, "I do not believe in the purchase of surplus, but favor the equalization fee and heartily approve of the farm board. We are going to assist farmers by stabilization corporations as agriculture is the only industry in which the producer does not control his product. There will be relief for the farmer soon."

She traced unemployment and the depression to end of the war which found the United States inflated after having been urged to produce so much for other nations during the conflict.

Asserts She's Dry.

Mrs. McCormick listed old age pensions, five day weeks, and more extensive public building program as an aid to unemployment.

"I decline to acknowledge that there is a wet and dry question," she said. "That is a social issue, and it should be settled in the communities. I have no alternative but to abide by the results of the referendum, but I am publicly, legally, privately, and politically dry, which has nothing to do with the question.

"When we allow ourselves to dominate our minds with one question, such as the prohibition issue, we are not performing our duty as citizens. I have tried to evade the question, because it is not a political one, but I have been forced to talk about it in this campaign.

"The law is not enforced, and that is the root of all the trouble, but I say now that it can be enforced if the problem is dealt with as a social one in the communities."

Crowd Greets Mrs. McCormick.

Pekin, Ill., Oct. 2.—[Special.]—One of the largest crowds to attend a political meeting in Tazewell county in recent years tonight greeted Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick, candidate for United States senator. The Circuit court room, where the meeting was held, was packed with an overflow in the corridor.

HULL PROPOSES PLAN TO SMASH BOOTLEG RINGS

BY PARKE BROWN.

Congressman W. E. Hull of Peoria yesterday proposed a plan of prohibition enforcement that he said would lower the cost of whisky to $1.85 a pint and thereby put the bootlegger and the booze crime rings out of business.

The congressman has voted dry in the past. This has been considered remarkable, since in ante-Volstead days he was a big man in the so-called Peoria whisky trust. But in a letter to THE TRIBUNE, in answer to a questionnaire sent to all nominees for congress, he now says that he will vote for repeal of the eighteenth amendment if his district votes that way in the referendum on Nov. 4 and that he will vote to modify the Volstead act if a majority of his district votes that way.

It was in this latter connection—the possibility of amending the present enforcement system without waiting for repeal of the eighteenth amendment—that he proposed to smash the bootlegger by taking the profit out of his business.

W. E. HULL.

Congressman Hull's letter, the substance of which he incorporated in a speech at Pekin last night, said:

"The Republican party of Illinois has submitted in its platform the following: 'The Republican state convention, adhering to the doctrine of majority rule, pledges its representatives in the congress of the United States to vote consistently to carry out fully the expressed will of the people of their districts at the referendum on these questions of public policy in the election of Nov. 4, 1930.'

Will Follow Popular Mandate.

"Therefore I shall act in accordance with the vote of the majority of the people in the Sixteenth district.

"If a majority of the voters in the Sixteenth congressional district of Illinois should cast a majority vote for the repeal of the eighteenth amendment, then I would favor a plan based on the following lines:

"Either the repeal of the eighteenth amendment or an amendtment to it which will provide that each of the 48 states shall have the sole right to have manufactured under the supervision of the United States government liquors and beers. The said states shall have the sole right to control the sale of such liquors and beer within their own borders. The government shall have full control over the transportation of liquors from one state to another.

Gives His Liquor Plan.

"Also, if a majority of the voters of the Sixteenth district should cast a majority vote for the modification of the Volstead law, then I would favor the following feasible plan:

"The enactment of a law authorizing the manufacture of beer under the supervision of the United States government through a permit system by breweries designated by the government, the alcoholic content of this beer not to exceed 3¼ per cent alcohol by volume, which would actually mean 3 per cent beer, and in my judgment this is not intoxicating; light wine running from 10 to 15 per cent, and hard liquors, known as whisky, rum, gin, and brandy, running from 80 to 100 proof, to be sold under the medicinal clause of the present law through the druggist and through a permit system formulated so that doctors instead of writing prescriptions will be allowed to furnish permits to patients for $1 for one pint of whisky for medicinal purposes.

"A clause should be written into the law authorizing the government to let contracts to distillers on a basis of 10 cents a gallon net profit to the distiller for the manufacture of liquors. By so doing a four year old, high grade bourbon or rye whisky will not exceed an actual production cost, including the revenue tax, of 40 cents per pint. This whisky should be sold through the retail druggist at a price not to exceed 85 cents per pint.

"By making these provisions in the law you will largely do away with illicit liquor and the temptation to adulterate medicinal whisky would be eliminated.

"In my judgment a law of this kind will relieve the very serious condition now existing throughout the country, brought about by the illegal selling and profiteering in the sale of intoxicants.

"Take the profits out of the liquor business and more will be accomplished than by any other procedure.

"I am irrevocably opposed to the return of the saloon in any shape and I believe that temperance should be taught in our public schools."

Washington, D. C., Oct. 2.—(AP)—The navy was informed today that Lieut. William A. Watson was killed when his airplane fell near Cape Charles, Va., this afternoon and that Chief Aviation Pilot Marion J. Simpson apparently escaped serious injuries by jumping with a parachute.

Boy Killed; Hit by Plane.

Attica, O., Oct. 2.—(AP)—One boy was killed and another seriously injured in the Attica fair grounds late today when they were struck by an airplane which crashed in attempting to take off. The three occupants of the plane escaped injury. Franklyn, Croxton, 11, was killed.

TUTTLE SAYS HE WOULD NOT SIGN STATE DRY LAW

New York, Oct. 2.—[Special.]—In answer to the challenge issued by Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Charles H. Tuttle, Republican nominee for governor, announced today that if elected governor he would not sign a statewide law enforcement act passed in the legislature conforming to the provisions of the Volstead act.

"For reasons which I have stated heretofore, I would not approve a statewide law following the provisions of the Volstead act," Mr. Tuttle said.

The nominee said the United States Supreme court has held that the constitution and the laws of the United States are as much a part of the law of every state as its own local laws and constitution.

"This means that the peace officers of the states are already under the duty of sustaining the national prohibition law with as much vigor as they would any state law.

Then he called attention to the state public nuisance act, which furnishes "immediate and effective means of dealing through our state courts and police with resorts where crime and vice breed upon the illicit sale of liquor."

RUTH McCORMICK TO TALK TONIGHT IN CHICAGO RALLY

G. O. P. Will Show United Front, Snow Says.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Chairman Snow of the Republican county central committee told the organization leaders at their regular weekly meeting yesterday that the massmeeting in the Coliseum tonight will be an irrefutable demonstration of the solidarity of the party in the present campaign.

It is not known whether Mayor Thompson, who has taken no interest in the campaign so far, will be present, but the Deneen forces will be represented by Roy O. West, national committeeman and head of their state organization, by Jacob D. Allen, executive of their county organization, District Attorney Johnson, Postmaster Lueder and other leaders.

The forces of Former Attorney General Brundage will be represented by Thomas O. Wallace, former vice chairman of the county committee. Charles V. Barrett, one of those who opposed Mayor Thompson in 1927 and now a mayoral possibility for next spring, will be present. Fred Lundin is out of town, but his candidate for treasurer, Walter Bacon, will represent him. Mrs. Bertha Baur, national committeewoman, also will be present. State Chairman T. J. Doyle is expected.

Snow Replies to Igoe.

Chairman Snow, after reviewing this situation, began to speak slowly about the charge made on Wednesday by Michael L. Igoe, Democratic national committeeman—a charge that the only purpose of the Republican organization is to reelect Mayor Thompson next year. Before Snow had finished he was speaking at the top of his voice.

"I was amused this morning," he said, "to read of the utterances of one of the Democratic leaders yesterday. It was a characteristic outburst. Like other Democratic leaders he sees red when he recognizes that we are wiping out the factional disturbances that have marred our unity in the past and so he charges that there is disruption in our ranks.

"It is merely the Democratic method of trying to drive a wedge between our leaders. The Republican party of Cook county is more united in spirit today than it has been at any time in the last ten years."

Ruth McCormick to Speak.

Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick is to be the principal speaker at the massmeeting. She will speak at 9 o'clock and from 9 to 9:30 her speech will be broadcast over KYW.

The other speakers, as Chairman Snow explained, are intended to present a cross section of the Republican ticket. Five men from as many different factions have been chosen. They are Howard P. Savage, nominee for county treasurer; Municipal Judge William Helander, for county judge; Otto F. Reich, for president of the county board; Francis L. Bouteli, for assessor; and Joshua D'Esposito, for drainage trustee.

United States Senator George H. Moses of New Hampshire, president pro tem of the upper house of congress and chairman of the Republican senatorial campaign committee, will be one of the principal speakers at the eighth annual convention of the Illinois Republican Women's Clubs at the Congress hotel on Oct. 14 and 15. He will talk at a luncheon on the second day. Mrs. McCormick, Mrs. Baur and Mrs. Walter Wolf will be other speakers.

Democrats predicted that at least 160,000 names will be stricken from the polling lists for the November election because that number of the legally required notices concerning the proposed constitutional amendment were returned "not found" to the offices of the election commissioners.

County Clerk Sweitzer also announced that complaints had been filed with him concerning the first day of registration in the country towns of the county under a new state law. He said he was informed that some judges and clerks copied the old list of voters without requiring their personal appearance in many instances.

The last chance for such voters to qualify themselves to vote on Nov. 4 is the second and last day of registration, next Tuesday, Oct. 7.

The bandits took $150 from Lakovic and an automatic pistol from the guard, escaping in an automobile.

BETTING LOSSES BARED IN SHOUSE TAX CUT APPEAL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 2.—[Special.]—An attempt by Jouett Shouse, chairman of the Democratic national executive committee, to deduct $1,750 election bet losses from his income in computing his federal income taxes was revealed today in the records of the United States board of tax appeals.

After a bitter fight lasting a couple of years, during which the treasury sought to collect from Mr. Shouse an alleged income tax deficiency of more than $4,840, a compromise has been effected fixing his unpaid tax bill at $1,218. At the beginning of its attempt to collect from the Democratic leader the government sought additional tax payments of $1,212 for 1923, $2,547 for 1924, and $1,081 for 1925. The compromise between his attorneys and those of the treasury lowered his bills for the year to $223, $894, and $101, respectively.

Thousands Lost on Races.

The records reveal Mr. Shouse as a poor selector of winning horseflesh, his net losses on horse race bets at Maryland and Kentucky tracks totaling $5,500 in 1923, $10,904 in 1924, and $6,054 in 1925. Further losses on race horses owned in partnership totaled $1,430 in 1924 and $843 in 1925.

The treasury refused to countenance the following reductions, which would have further reduced Mr. Shouse's income:

1. Dues paid to the City club, Athletic club and University club, all of Kansas City, and the Metropolitan club of Washington, totaling $352 for 1923, $280 for 1924, and $236 for 1925.
2. The loss of $1,750 suffered through wagers made on the national election in Maryland in 1924.
3. The cost of entertaining at home and in his clubs for a total of $18,000. Mr. Shouse estimated his expenditures were $6,000 annually for the three years.

Lost on Maryland Election.

In 1924 Marylanders cast 162,414 votes for Calvin Coolidge for President, 148,072 for John W. Davis, the Democratic candidate, and 47,157 for Senator Robert M. La Follette, Progressive. Mr. Shouse contended he should be allowed to deduct his election bet losses from his taxable income because if he had won his gains would have been properly taxable. The treasury, however, refused to countenance the losses "since they were the result of an illegal transaction."

The Democratic leader contended his club dues and entertainment costs should be deductible as business expense. The treasury, however, declared the club dues were personal rather than business expenses, and that it could not countenance the entertainment expense deductions.

Mr. Shouse, in those years a member of a law firm doing business in Kansas City and Washington, was making the rounds of the Democratic national conventions. He contended his large expenditures were necessary to his business successes, which netted him over $50,000 in good years.

"The petitioner, in conducting his business," he said in his appeal to the board, "has been compelled to expend large sums in entertainment and travel. The business with which the petitioner has engaged has resulted largely from contacts established as a result of large expenditures of time and money.

"The petitioner has spent in excess of $3,000 a month for living expenses, a large part of which represents traveling and entertainment expenses. The amount of $6,000 a year as claimed is conservative and should be allowed as a deduction from income."

BRUCKER HELD G. O. P. NOMINEE FOR GOVERNOR IN MICHIGAN RECOUNT

Lansing, Mich., Oct. 2.—[Special.]—Wilber M. Brucker, attorney general, was officially certified today by the board of state canvassers as the nominee of the Republican party for governor.

Brucker's plurality over Alex J. Groesbeck, former governor, as determined through a state-wide recount just completed, was 4,161. Groesbeck, who demanded the recount, charging fraud and irregularities, following the primary Sept. 9, made a gain of 565 votes as a result of the second count. Both candidates' totals were reduced, as the canvassers threw out many defaced ballots previously counted. Brucker's vote, as recounted, was 368,518 and Groesbeck's 364,357.

Groesbeck's counsel insisted the canvassing board was unfair and had discriminated in favor of Brucker in its rulings.

A congressional recount in the Seventh district, where Jesse P. Wolcott, St. Clair county prosecutor and a wet, apparently defeated Representative Louis C. Cramton, dry leader, is yet to be completed.

CHICAGOANS FACE 20% INCREASE IN TAX NEXT SPRING

Experts Make Estimates on Collections.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

The taxpayers are facing larger collections by the local tax expending agencies. Although there was a reduction in collections last July, that loss is to be recouped and more added next spring. The next tax bills will be 20 per cent higher than those paid last July.

The increase is large. Leaders in the special session of the legislature last January feared a protest by property owners during the next mayoralty campaign. To avoid that they declined to have the legislators set the next tax payments for Feb. 1 as recommended by the Strawn citizens' committee and deferred the collection until April 1, when the mayoralty campaign virtually will have been completed.

Prepare Tax Estimate.

The estimate of a 20 per cent increase was prepared by Douglas Sutherland of the Civic Federation and Prof. Simeon E. Leland of the University of Chicago. Its purpose was to show how little or much the emergency financial legislation passed by the general assembly in special session would affect the taxpayers.

This 20 per cent increase was calculated before the 14 proposed bond issues, totaling $42,540,000, which will be submitted to the voters on Nov. 4, were brought forward. If these bonds are issued they are certain to increase taxes still more. Without these bonds a 20 per cent tax increase is forecast, and for many property owners that esimate is too low.

In the 1927 assessment the tax rate was $4.85 per $100 assessed valuation in the towns of South Chicago [which includes the loop], Hyde Park and Lake on the south side. On the 1928 taxes, paid last July, the rate was $5.15. These figures indicate an increase of more than 6 per cent; but the assessed valuation for the 1928 taxes was lower than for 1927. Mr. Sutherland and Prof. Leland place that valuation decrease at 14.2 per cent, so that in their calculations there was an average decrease of 8.9 per cent in taxes paid last July.

To illustrate the saving, Mr. Sutherland and Prof. Leland assume that a property owner was paying taxes for 1927 on a valuation of $1,000. By the reassessment this valuation was reduced to $858. A tax rate of $4.85 on $1,000 valuation caused the property owner to pay $48.50 in taxes for 1927, as compared with $44.18 for 1928.

Rate to Be Increased.

On April 1 of next year the tax expending bodies will retrieve the loss of 8.9 per cent and add on 11.12 per cent to obtain an aggregate increase of 20.02 per cent.

Instead of a tax rate of $5.15, the next rate will be $6.19, according to Mr. Sutherland and Prof. Leland. The man who paid $44.18 in taxes last July will pay $53.11 next April. In the opinion of Mr. Sutherland and Prof. Leland, only 4.44 per cent of this 20.02 per cent increase is attributable to the financial relief legislation adopted by the last general assembly. They hold that the remaining 15.58 per cent is due to the way the local governments are operated.

Other Estimates Given.

Mr. Sutherland and Prof. Leland have also worked out estimates of the increase in taxes next April for the north side and the west side. The increase on the west side, for the man with $1,000 worth of property, is from $44.44 to $51.99, or a trifle more than 17 per cent. On the north side immediately north of the river the boost is estimated at 19.6 per cent, and in the town of Lake View 18.7 per cent, but in the towns of Rogers Park on the north side, Jefferson on the northwest side, and Calumet on the southwest side the boost probably will be much larger.

The reassessment did not reduce property values here as much as in the sections close to the center of the city. Therefore the average increase probably will be about 20 per cent.

Various candidates seeking election in November have proclaimed that taxes are a major issue in the campaign, but not one of the more than 200 aspirants on the Republican or Democratic tickets has made any explanation of the probable tax increase, nor indicated to citizens what the increase will be. Part of the increase is due to offices to be filled on Nov. 4 as well as to city offices to be filled next February and April.

MEETING TODAY MAY DISCLOSE PROGRESS OF SUBWAY PLANS

All of the subway planners are to meet this morning in the offices of Attorney Walter L. Fisher and from this gathering is expected an authoritative statement of the progress made.

At the session will be all of the engineers; Robert Ridgway, chief consulting engineer; R. F. Kelker, chief engineer; and the board of advisory engineers, George M. Wisner, Edward J. Noonan, George C. Lenth and David A. Wallace. In addition all of the lawyers are to be present. Besides Mr. Fisher they are George A. Mason, Joseph J. Sullivan, and Allan T. Gilbert. The party will be completed by the presence of President Faherty of the board of local improvements and Ald. Joseph B. McDonough, chairman of the local transportation committee of the city council.

Mr. Faherty has announced he will have a public hearing on the State street subway on Oct. 17. The engineers are not ready. It is expected that they will disclose this morning whether they think they will be; and if not how much time they need. Also Mr. Faherty is expected to say definitely whether he intends to proceed with the public hearing, if the engineers are not prepared.

Strange, but true, Konjola, time after time, has appeared at the very peak of its powers when pitted against ills that have defied and resisted all else tried. Find out all about this modern medicine of 32 ingredients . . . ask any druggist, but right now read the words of Mr. Presnell:

"For 25 years I suffered from stomach trouble. Many times it kept me from my work. I ate only liquid foods, for anything solid caused bloating and burning. I was weak, worn out, and underweight. That was eight months ago, and Konjola has ended my health troubles for good. I feel like a new man; eat all I want and I am glad to endorse Konjola."

NORTHCOTT, BOY MURDER RANCH SLAYER, HANGED

Leaves Confession Admitting Triple Crime.

San Quentin, Cal., Oct. 2.—(AP)—Gordon Stewart Northcott, 23, chicken rancher of Wineville, Cal., was hanged here today for the murder of three young boys after he had left a written confession of his crime and faked a suicide attempt.

Northcott was led blindfolded to the gallows and collapsed as he stumbled up the thirteen steps to the scaffold platform. Guards held him until the trap was sprung at 10:09 a. m., just as the Rev. Larry Newgent, Los Angeles evangelist, was intoning verses of consolation from the fourteenth chapter of St. John. Northcott exclaimed, "Don't, don't!" and fell through the little door to the beyond he had averred he did not fear. He died of strangulation twelve minutes later, while 140 witnesses watched in silence. One man fainted.

Fakes Suicide Effort.

About an hour before the execution Northcott sent a hurry call for Mr. Newgent and Warden James B. Holohan and said to the warden: "Well, I've done it. I've beat the noose."

A small bottle crashed to the floor. The warden hastily called Dr. L. L. Stanley, prison physician, who applied a stomach pump, but found no trace of poison.

"Northcott has been dramatizing again," was the warden's conclusion.

Most of Charges Admitted.

The confession, one of many, was written in longhand. It admitted in substance most of the charges against Northcott, implicating his aged father, Cyrus G. Northcott, and, by inference, his mother, Sarah Louisa Northcott, and his cousin, Sanford Clark, who first told authorities of the murders. Mrs. Northcott is serving a life sentence here for her alleged participation.

Northcott was convicted of murdering Louis and Nelson Winslow, brothers, and an unidentified Mexican boy. Walter Collins, a fourth boy allegedly slain by the Northcotts, was slain by the father, after being mistreated, the confession said. Mrs. Northcott was convicted of the Collins murder, but the father was exonerated.

DIVERSITY OF LAWS AND PEOPLE IN THE UNITED STATES.

A writer in the Voice of the People has disposed of state jurisdiction in prohibition to his own satisfaction by reference to slavery, state rights in the south, Lincoln and his famous "half free, half slave," but the doctrine that there must be uniformity in the United States and uniformity established by federal law is not that simple or clear.

It is well to recall that one of Lincoln's most earnest declarations was his promise to the south that he would not touch the institution of slavery where it existed. He hoped that would be heeded, but it did not make any impression. The fate of slavery was out of man's hands. Only the way and time of its disappearance were controllable. If that were true of alcoholic beverages there would be no intelligent dispute as to the issue. It would be foreseen.

If uniformity were a necessity in law there would not be so many diversities as are found in the United States. A person may be put to death for crime in some states. In others he may not be. That, at least to the person involved, is a most serious difference, but the federal government has not been given authority to require the death penalty or to abolish it. There are people who think there should be uniformity in marriage and divorce laws, and they try to make a case by exhibiting some serious absurdities, but shall the federal government tell South Carolina that it must allow some legal causes for divorce, New York that it must allow more, and Nevada or Illinois that it cannot have so many? Wise people know that state opinion must prevail. It will not do to interfere with the convictions of these various bodies of citizenship in any such fashion. The remedy would be worse than the ills. When the states are ready for uniformity they will come to it by their independent action, and if they take a lesson from experience they will not make it a matter of federal constitution, but will retain the power to modify their statutes as they please.

In the greatest essentials of life there is a diversity of law in the American Union and it is recognized that this is the safest structure the country can have. The people of Kansas and the people of New York will not see eye to eye or come to the same conclusions. It has been found to be very painful folly to try to force them to walk the same road. There is diversity of law the country over because there is diversity of habit and opinion. It is found in education, in amusements, in politics, in almost all things, large and small, which make the total of living. It is a wise plan which favors the enforcibility of law and it is not true that the use of alcoholic beverages is inherently an exception to the applicability of this general principle. On the contrary, it is true that the regulation of the use of liquor is precisely what requires state and not federal authority.

NO LIGHT BETWEEN THE SUN AND EARTH.

Light is a transaction between atoms, a modern scientist suggests; and as for the well known notion that the sun's rays waggle away generally into space, it is all a mistake. Neither the sun's rays nor any other rays can radiate generally away in all directions into space, because there is no general space, nor is there any ether there to waggle in. Space is a relationship between bodies, said Dr. E. B. MacGilvary recently in a lecture before the class in contemporary thought at Northwestern university, and where there are no bodies there is no space.

From Herr Einstein's revolution in modern science strange notions have arisen. Space and time are relationships, like "plus" or "friendship," and where there are no bodies or events thus to be related there can be no "plus" nor "friendship" nor space nor time. As absolutes space and time have disappeared. No one can find, or see, or feel a piece of space or time, and now another scientist suggests that light cannot travel across the intervening space between the sun and earth because there is no intervening space to travel in. There is no light between the sun and earth: an event occurs upon the sending sun, followed by an event upon the receiving earth, but to assume that anything is "between" them has no scientific basis.

To the innocent bystander such remarks have, no doubt, the flavor of an ultimate insanity, but new ideas are strange, brain wrenching things that usually seem insane. Copernicus, with his strange ideas of our planet's going around the sun; Galileo, Faraday seemed as insane in their day, no doubt, as Einstein, Bridgman, G. N. Lewis, Russell, and Eddington seem today. But scientists are cautious folk and their seeming wild ideas usually have good basis.

To a new world the layman may as well be reconciled. The collapse of space and time as absolutes is but one aspect of the revolution. Matter, motion, gravity, life, reproduction, art, society, politics, and other human interests present new architectures and strange façades. Into a new city of knowledge and of human action man wanders with unsure feet.

THE IMPERIAL CONFERENCE.

In a powerful group of men seated about a table in London are the representatives of Great Britain and the dominions in imperial conference. They would seem to hold in their hands the destiny of much of the world's area and hordes of its peoples. They could control opportunity, but it is hardly to be expected that they will.

There is a great deal of slack on the island and seemingly limitless resources in the dominions, but time, place and men cannot be made to click. There is an inertia or an incapacity which prevents the juncture of effort and opportunity. British Africa alone might restore full health to the empire. Civilized people are better prepared than ever for the conquest of new soil. Transportation has taken the hardship and danger out of emigration. Without the loss of a convenience settlers can be placed in new lands. There is no substitute for work and intelligence and no certain prevention of disappointment and loss, but the world has not been exhausted for the sustenance of men. It hasn't been opened up.

When Englishmen settled the American colonies sea travel was a terror. Men flinched from the miseries of seasickness and, if they escaped storms, accepted scurvy as virtually inevitable. Their implements for the conquest of the wilderness were simple. The work was slow and painful. They did not know how to combat disease, and public health was wretched. They could not guarantee themselves adequate or proper food supplies. Very soon the savages with whom they disputed for the land were armed nearly as well as they were. Their communications were difficult. They could not carry much of their civilization with them. They had to build it anew.

All this is changed. Travel is easy. Communications remain open. Health can be protected. Defense is easily maintained. Machines have supplanted tedious hand labor. Security and even comfort can go with the advance upon unused resources, but the conviction of success is lacking. Men suffer at home without much hope rather than attempt enterprise in which even if they had some suffering they would have much hope.

The dominions and colonies of the British empire should be able to add their young strength to the structure of an empire of unpredictable duration. Englishmen going from the mother country could strengthen the political bonds of the federation. Even now Rhodesia, to take one instance, is asking whether it is to develop as a democracy of free white labor or to become an aristocracy of whites living upon the labor of the blacks. Opportunity is lessening for the people who remain in England, and opportunity under the same flag abroad apparently does not attract families which confess the hopelessness of their situation at home. That most of them may not now be fitted for such rigors as their progenitors survived and conquered in America does not impose the desperate conclusion that they could not be fitted.

Great Britain cannot compel the settlement and development of the empire areas abroad, but it would not appear to be beyond the power of an imperial conference to encourage a march in that direction.

BUY THE GALAPAGOS.

The world ends in the Galapagos, and as the sun sets over the broken hills the traveler wonders if it will ever find its way again to that strange, twisted land. It is the planet's cul de sac, and the oddities and leftovers of life have gathered on the island shores or lodged themselves among the lava plains and the wrenched, contorted slopes of the interior. Six hundred miles west of Ecuador these islands hang like torn clothes pinned up to dry on the equator. Strange beasts and birds, elsewhere unknown, inhabit them. The seas are full of giant fish.

The Galapagos should be a sanctuary for wild life, for the world has no place like them. Few men live there, but new visitors and hunters soon will leave them bare. Already the giant tortoises, or galapagoes, are almost gone. The flightless cormorants, the dwarf penguins, the iguanas and sea lions, tame as puppy dogs, are killed off more and more. The islands should at once be made a wild life refuge.

With this in mind THE TRIBUNE has suggested that the nation buy the islands from Ecuador, establish there a wild life sanctuary, and open them to tourists and world visitors. Following this suggestion a group of wealthy men proposed the purchase in part by private funds. The islands would be given to the government for protection. In case of war between a group of major powers in the Pacific these islands will no doubt be seized by one power or another because they bear upon the Panama canal. Purchase by America will guard against all this, and although the Galapagos might become in war a casual refuge anyhow, their prime use will not be military or political. Purchase now will be for interests nonpolitical and peaceful. The islands will attract trips and tourists and become a gate to western South America.

The suggestion, we understand, has aroused great interest and has been well received in South America, once the southern countries were assured of a nonpolitical purpose. As a stimulus to trade and travel to the west coast of South America the purchase of the islands would be of great importance. Another Yellowstone, a strange, exotic, unworldly national park off Ecuador would bring visitors by thousands. Millions of Americans now travel to our national parks. As a wild life refuge and a volcanic park the Galapagos would draw a great quota, too.

Editorial of the Day

A DISCREDITED COMMITTEE.

[Kansas City Star.]

Senator Roscoe C. Patterson was justified in not signing the report of the senate committee that has been investigating primary campaign expenditures. The public is in sympathy with the purpose of the senate in establishing the committee. But it believes the committee has completely discredited itself in the methods used in the investigation of the expenditures in Illinois.

The committee disavows responsibility for the disreputable methods used. It says in its statement that "no member of the committee . . . is in any way responsible." But it refused to allow Mrs. McCormick's evidence to be produced and it fled from Chicago when the evidence was pressed on it.

In view of the committee's conduct the public will regard its statement only as an evasion. The Star is deeply concerned in honest primaries and elections. It regrets that the senate committee charged with the important responsibility of investigating these matters should have forfeited public confidence.

MEDICINE FOR WORMS.

WHAT is the best worm medicine?

We have answered as to hookworm, the answer being a mixture of carbontetrachloride and chenopodium. What is the answer as to some other common worms?

The roundworms, called ascarids, are not very important. However, after ascarid eggs have hatched the young bore through the tissue, pass into the lungs and finally get back to the intestines to develop into mature worms. Traveling this same route in hogs, a kindred worm causes a hog disease known as thumps. It is possible that some part of the supposed colds and pneumonias from which children suffer is due to ascarids.

The best medicine for roundworms is chenopodium. The advantages are effectiveness, relative safety, simplicity of administration, the few after effects, and the low cost. All worm medicines are somewhat poisonous. Any child who takes any one of them is in some danger, particularly if the dose is large enough to be effective. Chenopodium is safer than santonin, the remedy which it displaced. It is also more effective and cheaper.

The best medicine for ordinary tapeworm is extract of male fern. Extract of pomegranate is good. An efficient dose of tapeworm treatment is rather dangerous, so much so that the people had better leave this treatment in the hands of the doctors.

The thread worms are generally limited to the large intestine. Worm medicine given by mouth is ineffective against them. The best remedy in the case of this worm is quassia tea, but it is not given by mouth.

The symptoms of trichinosis do not appear until the young worms have left the alimentary tract and have bored their way into distant locations. In these new locations they presently wall themselves off. Worm medicine, taken by mouth and intended for the parasites within the alimentary tract, are of but little service in trichinosis.

Liver flukes do not trouble people in this part of the world and we need say no more about them. The man who travels in Eygpt needs to know the best medicine for liver fluke.

While the amœbæ are not of the worm family they are animals and they infect the intestinal wall. The best remedy against amœbæ is ipecac and its alkaloid, emetine.

LOW BLOOD PRESSURE.

E. R. writes: What can be done to increase blood pressure? Mine is 90. My age is 60.

REPLY.

A low blood pressure may be a guarantee of long life. In some cases the pressure is raised by living on meat, eggs, fats, vegetables, and fruit, and eating very little starchy and sweet foods. Other cases wear bands and abdominal supports. Others attend baseball games and horse races and play the stock market.

CEMENT FLOOR AND FEET.

Mrs. S. B. J. writes: What effect, if any, would standing and walking all day on a cement floor have on a workman's health? If injurious, could one purchase shoes that are especially constructed to overcome the ill effects?

REPLY.

A cement floor is as good as any. It is a little hard on the feet and that is about the only objection. Cement flooring has no spring and it is cold in cold weather.

TREATING KIDNEY STONES.

L. D. S. writes: Can one take any medicine and thereby dissolve kidney stones?

REPLY.

No.

In a given case the pain may disappear because of the passage of the stones, or because they have become fixed and immobile.

LOT SHOULD BE FENCED IN.

Chicago, Sept. 29.—[Friend of the People.]—On March 17 we wrote you regarding a vacant lot located in the back of a junk yard on Michigan avenue, near the C. & E. I. tracks.

We received an answer stating that this matter would be taken care of, but to date noting has been done and five months have all ready elapsed, so we are therefore asking that you please take care of this unsightly lot covered with tall weeds, old junk cars, wagons, etc. This is a hangout for the hobos and is used at night for sleeping quarters, thereby making it an unpleasant and unsafe neighborhood, especially at night.

L. N.

Report is made that at the time the first complaint was made, in March, pursuant to notice from this bureau the junk man removed ten truck loads of miscellaneous stuff. He has been interviewed again and states lot will be cleaned by him but that in the future he will not be responsible for its condition, as much of the dumping is done at night by unknown persons.

Owner should fence this property as the only way to prevent further dumping and he has been notified to do so. However, we cannot compel him to do so.

JOSEPH J. BUTLER,
Superintendent of Streets.

WANTS GATES CLOSED.

Chicago, Sept. 30.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I own a summer resort and part of it is divided into lots. During the summer the lots are occupied by tenants who erect cottages. In the contract the tenants are given road privileges. On the road in question there are two gates and the tenants say that they don't have to close the gates when they enter or leave the premises. The road runs through my property. Can the tenants be compelled to close the gates?

I. L.

Technical rights depend largely on the wording of the papers giving the right of way. Apparently the simplest course would be to attach springs or weights in such a way that the closing would be automatic.

LITTLE 'BOUT EVERYTHING.

The Athletics licked the Cardinals two games, but that was in Philadelphia; tomorrow the clubs play in St. Louis and the Cardinals will win unless the frenzied population lynch the Athletics before the third inning. The Association Against the Prohibition Amendment issues a statement that these here United States of America are now spending close to three billion dollars a year for likker. Wonder where people get all the money the bootleggers take away from 'em. Gangsters fight strenuously against going on trial in Wisconsin. Wisconsin doesn't put anybody to death for murder, but the way they slam 'em into the big house for the rest of their natural lives is simply nobody's business. New York is still bragging over the fact that it was bought from the Indians for twenty-four bucks. But it'll cost 'em more than that today if they try to buy it from Tammany. The weather man keeps hinting about frost, but it seems to us the way the cold wind blows that we ought to have three or four feet of snow by tomorrow night at the latest. The governor of this commonwealth says next week will be Fire Prevention Week. Well, if it wasn't that it would be Apple Pie Week or Sweep Under the Kitchen Sink Week, so it might just as well be Fire Prevention Week.

SONNET 34.

Bitterest of all for me to bear is knowing beauty stands away, apart, holding back the flame that warms my heart.
Like the hagglers at a country fair
we bargain over love, and in the blaze of morning sun seek wisdom with our brains.
What hands are these for counting foolish gains, what throat is this to sob for other days?
Yours is the creed I love, and yet to you
I spoke of wisdom and security.
Now I wonder what my heart will be when torn between the wiser and the true.

Beauty waits for me to light the flame and yet my lips are sealed against her name.

MUSSOLINI proposes death for speculators who bring on financial crises. Which might scare the speculators to death, only they know that the Duce proposes death for somebody or other every day just to keep on the front page. One day it's the stock speculators' turn, but another day it will be lawyers, and another day Rotarians, and another day peewee golf players. And sometimes he's going to behead all the people who are rich and some day he's going to shoot down everybody who wears gray spats. So, why get apprehensive about it? It's just his way.

AN UNSUNG HERO.

The gas stations have announced that they will soon receive and deliver telegrams. Right now they only sell gasoline, oil, ham sandwiches, soft drinks, boiled eggs, pie, tires, chains, postcards, toy balloons, caps socks, gents' neckties, maps, guide books, phonograph records, and ice cream. And answer all questions from: "Is there any construction work on the road within fifty miles of here?" to "Where is a good tourists' home that hasn't got a radio?" And they cheerfully pour water down your radiator free and crawl under the car to see if there's anything wrong with any of the do-funnys there. And the gas station man doesn't hang around for a tip, but if you force a couple of bits on him he looks like he's going to burst out crying from sheer surprise and gratitude. In this mad machine age the kindly, helpful, all knowing, always present oil station man is a friend who never fails. Let us, then, give him three rousing cheers!

THE CHICAGO NEWSPAPERS are full of words and pictures of the dinner given here by Gov. Kohler in honor of Wisconsin's prize cow, Mme. Korndyke Heather, who was very much present at the head of the table. We didn't go, because Gov. Kohler didn't invite us, and we're old-fashioned about such things, and also because we don't think cows are interesting as after dinner speakers. A head writer on THE TRIBUNE expressed our opinion about such things in a caption he had on the market page yesterday: "Medium, Weighty Steers Continue Dull." And, as far as we are concerned, that goes for cows; they're not only dull, but they never tell any good stories. When Gov. Kohler gets hold of a cow for a dinner guest that says, "That reminds me of the story about the two Irishmen and the Jew," then we'll go. But we'll bet a nickel we've heard the story before.

Bluffer you are, dear—
I've a keen hunch
Orchids you give me
Mean you have no lunch.

Operas we honor—
We sit in a box;
(Dear one, I'll wager
You've holes in your sox).

Cables you've sent me—
They took your last cent,
Money gone like that
To you is well spent.

Bluffer you are, dear—
Where's your gold spoon?
Spender gay gone broke
Decades too soon.

Wounded you'd be if
I asked what you earn—,
We'll go on playing
You've money to burn!

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

OCTOBER 3, 1914.

LONDON.—The third week of the battle of the Aisne as it will be known to history, closed without either side appearing to have any decided advantage. The length of this terrible conflict and its awful carnage has astonished military experts and the world in general. The battle of Mukden in the Russo-Japanese war, which continued from Feb. 24 to March 12 1905, inclusive—17 days—previously held the record for continuous fighting in recent wars. The French bulletin on the battle yesterday indicates that the allies have progressed under a terrific fire. On the other hand, the Germans contend that the great battle remains a draw, except that at certain points they have repulsed the allies.

ANTWERP.—The Llerre and Waelhem forts protecting Antwerp were attacked by the Germans again last night. The Belgians made a sortie from the former and in a bayonet charge drove the Germans back with severe loss. The attack on Waelhem was repulsed with gun fire. Termonde was also attacked and the Germans were repulsed.

LONDON.—The great struggle between the armies of Russia and Germany, the latter reinforced by the remnants of the Austrian army, has begun. Upon the outcome of the series of battles now in progress all along the great front from the Baltic on the north to the Austrian stronghold of Cracow on the south the fate of Germany hangs, military experts believe.

BORDEAUX.—The German cruisers Scharnhorst and Gneisenau on Sept 22 bombarded and half destroyed Papeete, the principal town and port of the French island of Tahiti, the most important member of the Society Islands in the Pacific.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

WETUMPEKA, Ala.—Winfield Townsend, a Negro, was burned at the stake in the little town of Electric, fifteen miles from this place. His crime was an attempted assault on Mrs. Lonnie Harrington, whose husband set fire to the fuel that reduced Townsend's body to ashes.

WILKESBARRE, Pa.—"The strike is drawing rapidly to a close," President John Mitchell of the United Mine Workers told 20,000 striking anthracite miners here. Then came a surprise when he announced that he had brought no news of a compromise.

CHICAGO.—Miss Myra Wilson, daughter of Mrs. A. H. Wilson of Evanston, and Charles G. Little were married at the home of the bride's mother by the Rev. Charles Little, father of the groom.

MELBOURNE.—It is announced that Melbourne will be the capital of confederated Australia.

EARL, Ill.—The first stop of the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy train upon which President Hayes and his party are traveling from Chicago to Omaha was made at Naperville, where the President briefly addressed the 105th Illinois volunteers, who were holding a reunion there. Gen. Sherman was cheered when he appeared with the President and Mrs. Hayes. At Aurora Senator Logan joined the party.

CHICAGO.—A 40 foot flagpole was planted in the mud in front of the beer saloon at Western and Blue Island avenues in honor of Hancock and English, and the lower extremity of Blue Island avenue was warty with Democrats in celebration thereof. The air was heavy with sour beer and enthusiasm. J. R. Doolittle Jr. was chairman of the meeting and Gen. Lieb and the Hon. E. F. Dunne made speeches.

CHICAGO.—Two games of baseball were played between Chicago and Troy yesterday, Chicago winning the first by a score of 1 to 0 and losing the second, 5 to 1. The Chicago lineup follows: Dalrymple, lf; Gore, cf; Williamson, 3b; Anson, 1b; Kelly, c; Burns, ss; Corcoran, p; Quest, 2b; and Flint and Poorman, rf.

SQUAD CAR COURTESY.

Chicago, Sept. 24.—I want to report an incident that happened to us on Wednesday evening, the 24th of September, at 11 o'clock at night.

We were riding east on Douglas boulevard and pulled up for the stop light at Kedzie avenue. Douglas boulevard there is a one way street and we were at the northwest corner. We had just buried my husband's mother that day and were coming home from taking a young lady home who had attended the funeral.

Squad car twenty-one pulled up a car's width from us and called very loudly and very toughly, "Who's car is that?" My husband answered, "Mine." The man alongside the driver said, "You got a bill of sale?" My husband answered "Yes, do you care to see it?" This man alongside the driver said, "O, you're one of these tough guys, huh? Pull over to the curb."

They crowded us into the curb and were out of their car and alongside of ours in nothing flat. If they showed half as much speed getting those big shots they're after they would accomplish something.

They proceeded to pull my husband out of the car and start to search him. My husband had his wallet in his hand ready to show them the bill of sale.

They said, "O, you're drunk," threw the arm on him, almost pulled the clothes off him and started dragging him to the squad car. Of course, my husband resisted. We hadn't done anything that we should be treated like a couple of desperate characters. I started to follow them and one of them grabbed my shoulders and pushed me towards my car, saying, "Get in there and follow us." I cannot drive, so one of the men from the back seat of the squad car got in and drove.

We followed them to 26th and California, where they got out and came back to our car. The leader said to the man that drove me, "C'mon, Alec, we'll let them go this time."

While this policeman was driving me there I told him that it was men like him that gave people who would ordinarily support them the wrong impression of policemen.

I'm from Chicago, been born and raised here, but I can't say I care for the rest of the slogan, "From Chicago and Proud of It."

This was the middle shift at eleven o'clock at night.

COIN 2½ CENT PIECES.

Chicago, Sept. 24.—I wish to make a comment on your editorial in the Sept. 24 TRIBUNE in regard to 3 cents postage. Why not suggest to have the government coin 2½ cent pieces instead of making the postage 3 cents? This would also stop the dishonest practice of the merchants who advertise ½ cent prices. Not all Americans are in the "racketeering business" yet. Hundreds of ½ cents do make a difference to the average American these days.

A. SOMMER.

PALOS PARK AND ELECTRIFICATION.

Palos Park, Ill., Sept. 22.—There is nothing that will do more to add value and desirability to real estate than clean, quiet, and quick transportation on the part of the railroad serving that community.

The southwest approach to Chicago has only the Wabash railroad to depend on for suburban service, and its power to create land values in the communities it serves has reached its limit. In fact, its passenger service is becoming worse instead of improving. People today are demanding quicker service, cleaner service, and more of it, and the steam railroads are not able to compete with those roads which have adopted electricity as a motive power.

A great part of the residents of Palos Park are daily commuters to Chicago and will welcome a change in transportation from the slow moving steam train to a clean and swift method afforded by the use of electricity.

I am greatly interested in THE TRIBUNE'S effort to bring about the electrification of all passenger service roads into Chicago and will lend every effort possible in this vital matter.

J. W. MAHAFFAY,
Mayor, Palos Park.

CELLO.

Chicago, Sept. 18.—Mr. W. A. Harper inquires as to the proper pronunciation of "cello." The first letter has the sound of English "ch" and the word is pronounced "chello" to rhyme with "mellow." But why worry about this one word in the musical vocabulary where 90 per cent are mispronounced by 90 per cent of the announcers? Let's advise them to buy a copy of a musical dictionary so they won't sound quite so inexperienced in matters musical.

PUSSYFOOTING ON PROHIBITION.

Waukegan, Ill., Sept. 24.—When Ruth Hanna McCormick says that prohibition is not a political issue in the present campaign she willfully and knowingly evades the question.

Our next United States senator from Illinois must be the man who fearlessly and honestly declares himself to be wet because it is for the good of the nation. Such a thing as pussyfooting on the paramount issues of the day should not be countenanced.

UNITS OF BRITISH EMPIRE ASK FOR OWN GOVERNORS

Delegates Discuss Status of Crown's Envoys.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 2.—The imperial conference got down to brass tacks today and discussions were opened in committees on the most important subjects which must be settled by the British commonwealth of nations to enable it to become a smooth working machine and not one constantly suffering from friction.

The heads of the delegations met this morning at 10 Downing street and plunged at once behind closed doors into constitutional questions. The two chief questions discussed were these of the powers, status, and appointment of governors general, and the nature and composition of the proposed empire tribunal which is intended to settle disputes between the units of the empire.

The plenary meeting of the imperial delegates appointed subcommittees to discuss relations betwen the members of the empire, mandates, arbitration and disarmament, war graves, and defense; and the economic committee named four subcommittees to take up questions of vital interest to all members. These will deal with civil aviation, cables, overseas settlement and forestry.

The general economic committee today considered a reciprocity in old age pensions, the standardization of a form of invoice for customs purposes, and regulations regarding marks of origin.

The question of governors general discussed today is one full of possibilities for disagreement. It has been the practice in the past for the British government to appoint as governors-general distinguished Britons. Ireland has already secured recognition of the right for the governor-general of the Free State to be appointed by the king on the advice of his Irish ministers, which means, of course, that he is appointed by the Irish government. No other dominion has secured this right, but South Africa and Australia are both pressing for it and it is bound to be granted.

On the empire court appear also many thorny points. Will it be confined to adjudicating disputes between states or will it be called on to decide appeals by citizens of states against their own courts? If the latter Ireland and South Africa will not accept it. The British view so far as disputes between states are concerned is that it would be absurd to carry them to any outside tribunal, such as Geneva or The Hague, but the Irish very definitely insist on preserving their right to appeal to The Hague against any British court and it is believed that they will be supported again by South Africa.

BRITAIN PROPOSES TO MERGE LONDON'S TRANSPORT SYSTEM

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 2.—Details were issued today by Minister of Transport Herbert Morrison of the government's vast plan for the consolidation of London's transport services.

The suburban services of four main lines are left outside of the scheme, but the district tube railways, omnibuses, tramway and metropolitan railways are to be brought under one single ownership. The government will create a central body and will actually take over the railway, omnibuses, and tramways controlled by the Underground Electric railway and the Metropolitan Railway tramways, owned by local authorities in the London area, including London county council vehicles and other omnibus services.

The idea is to cut out costly and unnecessary competition, substituting a single form of ownership combined in principle and commercial management.

The area, which will come under the new body control, will be roughly begun within a 20 mile radius of Trafalgar square.

The capital and cost of the undertakings to be brought under public ownership are estimated at between $575,000,000 and $625,000,000.

The minister of transport who has had a series of conferences with representatives of the various bodies concerned with the provision of passenger transport in and around London, stated that while the inquiries are not yet complete, the government has proposed to proceed at once with the object of introducing legislation and opening early discussions.

LARGER BUSINESS UNITS PREDICTED FOR U. S. TRADE

Growth of Corporation Farming Cited.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

Trends of American business, with particular bearing on management and investment, were discussed at the American Life convention at the Stevens hotel yesterday by W. J. Donald, Ph.D., director of the American Management association of New York.

"The first and probably the most important trend," he said, "is toward large scale operations, the success of which is based on the substitution of good management for poor management.

"America today exhibits the spectacle of many large and too self-satisfied corporations—depending on their bigness. Furthermore, it presents exhibits of whole industries which compare unfavorably with other lines of business—industries which in general are in the doldrums and which, with the exception of a few companies, are likely to stay in the doldrums for a number of years or indefinitely.

Seek External Conditions.

"Such industries in general attribute their current weakness to external conditions. They find the reason elsewhere than in themselves. Usually it is the prevailing point of view in such an industry that new business methods can be learned only from others in the same line of business, but, in a number of such cases, the general level of management is so low as to offer little hope of escape in that direction.

"An average of what American business has accomplished or is planning has little significance as compared with what is developing especially in powerful quarters and through the example of large American corporations which we are all inclined to imitate.

"We are all familiar with the cataclysmic spread of the consolidation movement during the last four years and, while it has temporarily subsided in large degree, we should not reach the conclusion that the trend has ended or in some lines of business even more than scarcely begun.

Corporation Farming Grows.

"In this era of business change effective business management demands the highest grade of all around executive ability and, in addition, it demands the use of the specialized knowledge of particular classes of executives.

"Let us consider, for instance, the economic trends in agriculture which are of vast concern to a great number of life insurance companies. The extent to which the farm corporation is spreading over agriculture is generally unknown to American business men.

"There are those who predict that another to 10 to 15 years will bring about a very wide spread of large scale operations in agriculture, which, in general, will take the form of corporation farming. If this trend continues, it may well be that 15 years from now insurance companies will be buying farm corporation bonds rather than farm mortgages.

Produce Wheat for 35 Cents.

"When I can say on the best of authority that wheat is being produced at less than 35 cents per bushel on corporation farms [I have one reliable quotation that wheat is being produced for less than 25 cents per bushel on a corporation farm], it may be evident that the advantages of large scale operation in agriculture through good farm management on a large scale will be seized upon in the next decade. To my mind it is safe to make the prediction that the insurance companies, to be successful, will have to operate on a scale that will afford high salaried investment executives.

"The weakness of the merger movement usually appears at the top and is not infrequently the result of a vicious compromise in regard to executive positions aligned with financial control.

Need Management Technique.

"Assuming that large scale operations will more and more take a major place in American business, it is necessary to work out a new technique in management to meet the new situation.

"The growth of large scale operations will gradually affect all lines of business with the public interest, possibly not in the common law sense, but, nevertheless, in an economic and social sense."

H. P. Wright, member of the board of directors of the Kansas City Life Insurance company, said that evolution of banks and insurance companies was constantly making their relation a closer one.

LAUREL ESTATE LEGAL CONTEST APPEARS LIKELY

New York, Oct. 2.—(AP)—A contest over the $100,000 American estate of the former actress, Kay Laurel, who was the estranged wife of Winfield R. Sheehan, general manager of the Fox Films company, appeared imminent today with the disclosure that on Oct. 14 attorneys for the decedent's brother will ask the Surrogate's court to approve his account as administrator of her estate.

Mrs. Sheehan died in childbirth in London three years ago, leaving a will which named Joseph Whiteside Boyle of London beneficiary of her entire estate in England.

The document did not mention the American estate, nor did it mention a child whose father was Boyle.

Amazing Prescription, Acidine, Ends Gas, Pain After All Else Failed

"I suffered for months with acid indigestion and gas on the stomach," writes Mr. C. Bedford of Detroit, Michigan. "Couldn't eat a meal without being troubled with gas and pain, also dizzy feeling. I tried all kinds of medicines, but nothing really helped until I took ACIDINE. Got relief from the very start. Now I am entirely well, no pains at all."

Thousands are astonished how this new scientific prescription, ACIDINE, succeeds where other known remedies fail. The reason is that it is entirely different. Contains the marvelous digestant, Japtase. In laboratory experiments Japtase has been tested on certain very heavy, lumpy, starchy foods, which cause so much distress. It digested 800 times its weight of such foods in only 30 minutes! Five other ingredients in ACIDINE stop burning acid, soothe irritated stomach lining, stop gas and headache from acidity. No other known remedy contains this scientific combination to end acid stomach. Physicians are prescribing ACIDINE, and thousands of people have found it the only real relief from acid indigestion, dyspepsia, heartburn, coated tongue, bad taste, dizziness, gas and headache from acidity. Pain goes like a flash.

Don't take chances with acidity and gas that often lead to serious and more painful troubles. Get ACIDINE from your druggist today. Watch how quick pain and gas end. Smoke, eat and drink what you want. Results guaranteed. If not delighted, maker refunds money.

We Say To Those Who Have Had Difficulty In Securing "Becoming" Eyeglasses

Try This "Litewate" Colonial

TRUE, the Almer Coe exclusive "Puritan" is ideal for seven out of ten, but many whom no other lens shape will become, find in this smart Colonial their solution.

And no other eyeglass, on the person to whose features it is adapted, can be so neat, so unobtrusive, so good-looking. The slim white-gold mountings (solid gold) hold lenses lightly, firmly at just the right distance from the eyes. And the Colonial costs no more than other styles—$9.50 and up according to your lens requirements. So we say, stop in at any Almer Coe store and try on this Litewate Colonial.

GERMAN GENIUS OF FINANCE HERE ON LECTURE TRIP

BY TOM PETTEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 2.—[Special.]—Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, Germany's financial strong man who did a lot toward stabilizing the mark when a whole pocketful of them were not worth as much as a cigaret coupon, came to town today to look over our financial situation and do a bit of lecturing on economic subjects between here and the Pacific coast.

Son to Work in Chicago.

First of all Dr. Schacht is going to take his son Jens, 20, out to Chicago and get him a job in a bank. He wants his son to get his training there, the doctor explained, "because Chicago is more truly American than New York and other eastern cities." Dr. Schacht said Jens would start "job hunting" in about ten days.

Dr. Schacht is a tall, vigorous, steel gray haired man of 53 years. His mustache is as close cropped as his words and his cheeks as red as twin apples. He has decided opinions. This afternoon he told interviewers in precise English that he would discuss economics, but not politics.

"I am not a politician," he declared with conviction. Until last May he was president of the Reichsbank.

"Everywhere I hear the words," the doctor said, "that Germany must be reasonable. I say that the world must be reasonable."

Approves Dawes Plan.

Dr. Schacht, a supporter of the Dawes plan and opponent of the Young plan, indicated he was unchanged in his belief that it is impossible for Germany to meet the heavy international obligations fostered by the Young plan.

The German economist was evasive when asked if he advocated erasing all the debts growing out of the world war.

"An interesting question," he remarked, "and one I shall dwell upon without reservations in by lectures."

SAYS DEMOCRATS VOTE FOR TARIFF, THEN KNOCK IT

Watson, on Air, Names 'Contortionists.'

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 2.—[Special.]—"Intimate sketches of Democratic contortionists," was the title given by Senator James E. Watson [Rep., Ind.], majority leader of the senate, to his remarks tonight over the radio in behalf of Republican senatorial and congressional candidates. Senator Watson asserted that, notwithstanding the votes cast by most of the Democratic senators against the new Haley-Smoot tariff law, these same senators furnished such votes as were needed to place numerous high duties in the bill.

What They Tell People Now.

"Every Democrat in the senate made as vigorous a fight as he could wage to secure the highest rate of duty on all the products of his own state, either industrial or agricultural, while at the same time, in most instances, he proclaimed in the loudest tones against the tariff on the products of other states," said Senator Watson. "In this way, each one of them grabbed off what he could for himself, so that he could say to the manufacturers in his state that he had stood by them, while at the same time he could make the most vicious speeches against the 'tariff monstrosity' as a whole.

"The most violent assaults upon the tariff bill as 'vicious,' 'illogical,' 'inequitable,' and 'infamous' are now being made by the very men who voted to protect the interests of their own states. Thus, on the one hand they got what they wanted for home consumption, while at the same time they stood by the time honored Democratic doctrine of free trade."

Lists 19 Who Do About Face.

Senator Watson said there were 19 Democrats "who did an about face on the proposition of limiting tariff revision to agricultural products and among them were the very gentlemen who have been wailing and gnashing their teeth about this 'robber tariff' as they so dub it." Among the 19 he named Senator Pat Harrison [Dem., Miss.] "ever the stalwart champion of the farmer;" Senator Tom Connally [Dem., Tex.], "arch foe of all protective tariffs except for the state of Texas"; Senator Royal S. Copeland [Dem., N. Y.] "who voted religiously for the highest protective rates and then laments that heartless Republicans are robbing the people by outrageous tariff exploitation," and Senator Kenneth McKellar [Dem., Tenn.], "whose generous heart so often has been torn by righteous indignation against every protective rate that did not affect the industries of his own state."

Others of the 19 "versatile" Democrats, Senator Watson said, were Senators Barkley, Black, Bratton, Sheppard, Fletcher, George, Harris, Swanson, Glass, Stephens, Hawes, Hayden, Pittman, Simmons, and Tydings.

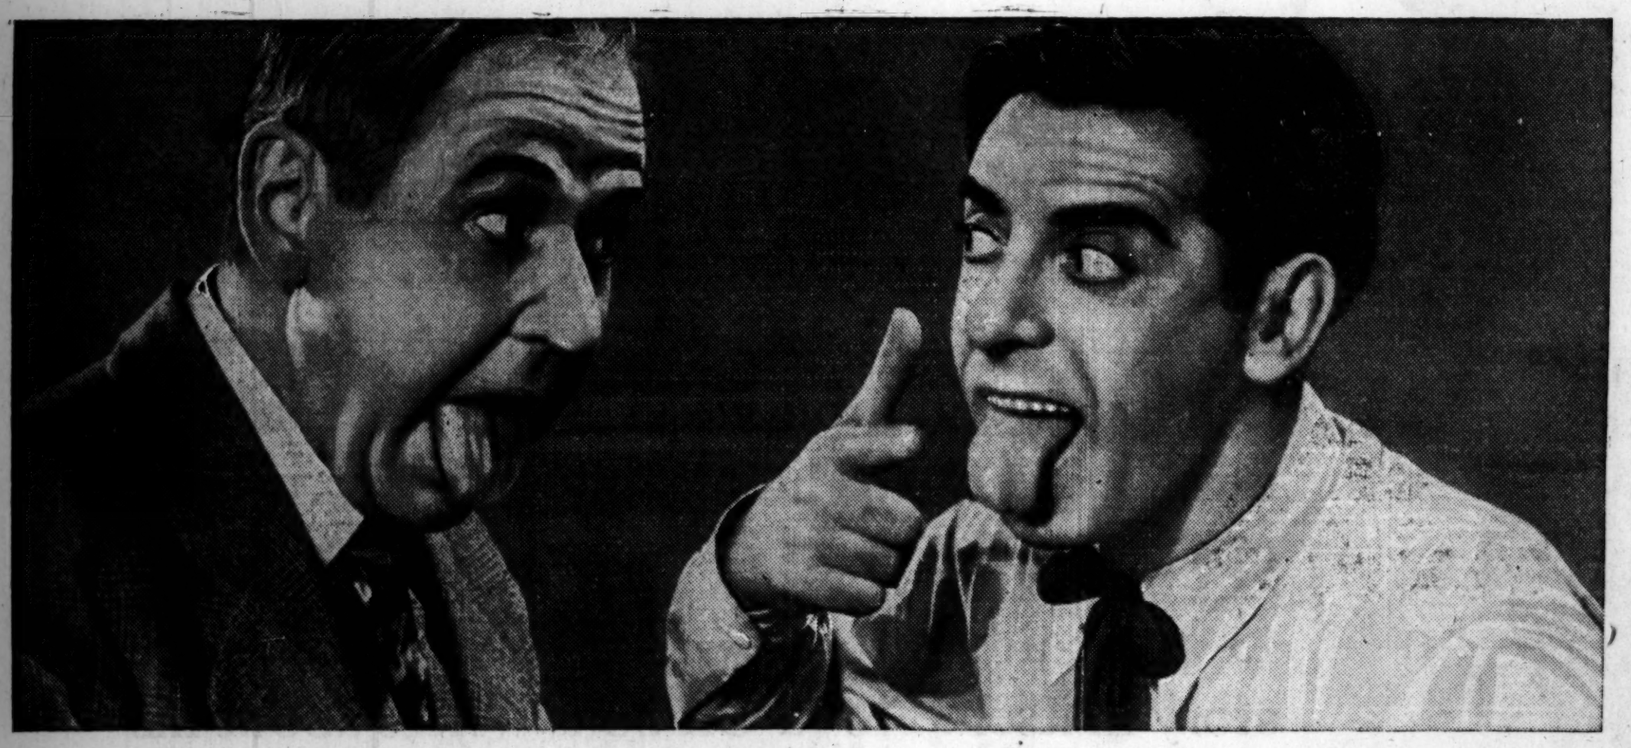
WARNING!



if your heart is weak, don't come to see Eddie Cantor in "Whoopee"

Music by Walter Donaldson. Lyrics by Gus Kahn. From the musical comedy by William Anthony McGuire. Founded upon the stage play by Owen Davis entitled "THE NERVOUS WRECK". Based upon the story "THE WRECK" by E. J. Rath in collaboration with Robert H. Davis. Produced on the stage by Lewis & Gordon.

IS YOUR heart, weak—so weak that you can't stand waves of laughter that rock your whole body?

Are you a sour cynic who doesn't care for a sweet, pure romance that twines gentle fingers around the tenderest chords of your heart?

Do you dislike ravishingly beautiful girls in a bewildering parade of fashion and shapeliness?

. . . Then don't see Whoopee!

For in this great picture Samuel Goldwyn, the screen's most daring pioneer, and Flo Ziegfeld, the master of stage production—have captured the Living Essence of Broadway's most vividly beautiful stage success.

A new perfection of reproduction brings you at last the real, living self of Eddie Cantor—the screamingly funny Eddie as you'd actually see and hear him in a center-aisle seat on Broadway.

Whoopee is as alive as the breath in your nostrils—a swirl of Love and Laughter, and Beautiful Girls—a pulsating panorama of spine-tingling magnificence in scene and spectacle. You simply can't afford to miss it!

Eddie Cantor in Whoopee . . . Newer and Finer Technicolor—The All-talking, All-music, All-laughter, All-love, All-beauty Show. With new songs and music played by George Olsen's Band. Presented by the Geniuses of Screen and Stage, Samuel Goldwyn and Flo Ziegfeld.

BRUNDAGE FINDS NEW DEFECT IN TAX AMENDMENT

Improperly Prepared for Ballot, He Says.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Edward J. Brundage, for eight years attorney general of Illinois, pointed out what he termed a new defect yesterday in the referendum on the adoption of the proposed amendment to the revenue section of the state constitution—commonly known as the income tax amendment.

Attorney Colin C. H. Fyffe already has attacked the method followed in submitting the proposed amendment to the voters in the election of Nov. 4. He showed that there had been complete disregard of the statutory requirement that the general assembly—not a commission created by it as was done this year—must prepare the explanation of the change which is sent to all registered voters.

Now Mr. Brundage discloses that the legislature, after approving the amendment last June, failed to comply with the mandate of the law that it must decide upon the form in which the amendment is to appear on the official ballot.

Brundage Scans Records.

At the request of a representative of THE TRIBUNE last week, the former attorney general made an examination of the records of the legislature on this subject and yesterday said he was satisfied there had been a material disregard for the law in the manner in which it had been handled.

"It seems clear," he said, "that when amendments are to be submitted to the voters it is the general assembly that shall prepare a brief explanation of the amendment and a brief argument in favor of it and that the general assembly shall also prepare the form in which the amendment shall appear on the official ballot.

"There also is a provision whereby a minority opposed to the amendment may also prepare and issue a statement of its position.

"On examining the laws passed at the special session of the legislature held in June of this year I find that the only action they took was by resolution, to the effect that a special committee 'on constitutional amendment,' to consist of fifteen members, five from the house of representatives, five from the senate, and five appointed by the governor, was authorized to prepare a brief explanation of the proposed amendment.

Finds No Evidence of Action.

"There is nothing in this resolution giving power to the committee other than to prepare this explanation. There is nothing in the session laws to indicate that the committee ever made a report submitting a resolution prepared by them or that the general assembly ever adopted any resolution prepared by this committee.

"Nor did the legislature thereafter adopt any form of brief argument in favor of the amendment for submission to the voters. Under these circumstances it appears to me that the election upon this proposed amendment at this time will be void of results."

Mr. Brundage also criticised the terminology of the amendment itself.

"There is no definite statement in it," he said, "whether or not real and personal property may be classified for purposes of taxation except the bare statement that real property shall be in one class except that mineral lands and lands devoted to reforestation may be in different classes."

Opposed by Civic Groups.

August Knickels, president of the Amalgamated Improvement associations, announced that the delegates of that organization had adopted the report of its committee on taxation, A. J. Hoffman, chairman, recommending that the proposed amendment be defeated. The committee report emphasized that the amendment would permit sanitary districts, park boards and similar municipalities to make improvements by special assessments.

At a luncheon in the Knickerbocker hotel William Nelson Pelouze, a large realty holder, spoke against the amendment, saying that real estate interests are mistaken in their belief that adoption of the amendment would give them relief.

The amendment was dissected in a debate at the Chicago Woman's club last night. About thirty women heard John Pratt, executive secretary of the Association of Real Estate Tax Payers, and John S. Hicks, secretary of the Illinois Revenue Investigation commission, speak in favor of the amendment. Arguments against the plan were given by David S. Clark, associate counsel of the Illinois Manufacturers association, and Attorney William H. Holly.

Fire Damages West Side Factories; Loss $75,000

Fire which attacked a two story factory building at 1102 South California avenue, occupied by the Radio Cabinet company and the Progress Duster company, caused damage estimated at $75,000 early this morning. Residents of several nearby apartment buildings left their homes in haste, but firemen confined the flames to the factory building. Fire Marshal Corrigan said he believed the fire was caused by spontaneous combustion in the quarters of the cabinet concern on the first floor.

SHIP BUFFETED BY HEAVY SEAS; NAVY SENDS HELP

Washington, D. C., Oct. 2.—(AP)—The destroyer flagship Concord and the S. S. Orbita tonight were fighting through heavy seas to the assistance of the U. S. S. Montcalm, naval station ship at Guantanamo, Cuba, which called for help from a point 500 miles southeast of Charleston, S. C., late today.

The Concord in a message to the navy department late tonight said rough weather would prevent her reaching the Montcalm before dark tomorrow.

The commandant of the Sixth naval district at Charleston advised the department he had been informed by the Orbita, carrying mail for Europe, she also was heading for the naval vessel and would stand by to take off the crew if necessary.

The Montcalm, a small ship, was proceeding from Guantanamo to Norfolk, Va., when she ran into heavy seas and radioed for a convoy.

COAL • HEAT • COSTS • LESS

This Company gets the most safety, evenness and quietness in heat at a saving of $3,517.90

every five years

THE comfort that comes from the evenest heat, the complete relaxation which comes from the quietest heat, the absolute sense of security founded on the most dependable and safest heat—these you get with coal, alone. And you get them at a cost considerably under that of other fuels.

At just how much less cost is well illustrated by an analysis of the Peoples Furniture Co.'s fuel bills.

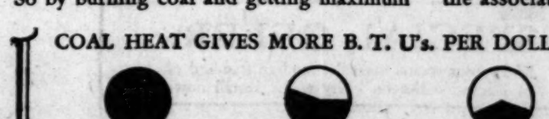
To heat their spacious, beautifully appointed store, 2,002,980,000 B. T. U's. (heat units) have been required yearly. $897.12 worth of coal supplies this number of heat units. To secure them from the two fuels that can be substituted for coal would cost $1,600.70 in one case and $3,577.50 in the other.

So by burning coal and getting maximum safety, quietness, evenness, and dependability, the Peoples Furniture Co. is actually saving $3,517.90 over the cost of one fuel, and $13,401.90 over the other every five years.

Such savings are surely worth while. Particularly when you stop to consider that even the automatic temperature control which other fuels claim as their chief merit is equally applicable to coal.

Such savings are had in their fullest measure when you buy your coal from a member of the Chicago Coal Merchants Association, who has back of his pledge of full weight the association's guaranty.

COAL HEAT GIVES MORE B. T. U's. PER DOLLAR



In burning one dollar's worth of fuel A (coal) you get 1,540,000 B. T. U's. (heat units)*

In burning one dollar's worth of fuel B you get 773,396 B. T. U's. (heat units)*

In burning one dollar's worth of fuel C you get 463,737 B. T. U's. (heat units)*

*Figures based on average prices and burning efficiencies of fuels, determined by Julian C. Smallwood, Johns Hopkins University, and the United States Government. They include conservative estimates on equipment and operation.

The MURDER at the VICARAGE

BY AGATHA CHRISTIE

SYNOPSIS.

Mr. Clement is vicar of a country village in England. His wife, Griselda, is nearly ten years his junior. The vicar's young nephew, Dennis, lives with them. Col. Protheroe, a pompous parishioner, who makes life miserable for his daughter, Anne, and his second wife, is expected at the vicarage at 6:15 one evening. At 5:30 the vicar is called to visit a dying parishioner and leaves word for the colonel that he will be late. On returning at 7 the vicar meets Lawrence Redding, an artist who is living in a studio on the vicarage grounds, coming out of the house in an agitated state. Shortly before the artist and Mrs. Protheroe had confessed to him their love for each other. In his study the vicar finds the colonel dead, murdered apparently. No weapon is found. Dr. Haydock is called, and he says Protheroe has been dead half an hour and informs the police. A note which the colonel started to write to the vicar is headed 6:15. A clock, overturned when the colonel fell forward, stopped at 6:22, but it was known kept fifteen minutes fast.

Lawrence Redding and Mrs. Protheroe both confess to the murder.

Miss Marple, a near neighbor, saw Anne Protheroe go to the vicarage about 6:15 and then to the studio. She had no place to conceal a weapon. Redding came along shortly after and joined her at the studio. They came out a little later and walked through the village.

Lawrence and Anne admit they had confessed the crime thinking the other had committed it. Lawrence said he had come back to see the vicar after leaving Anne and had found his pistol and thought Anne must have taken it.

Murder by person or persons unknown is the verdict given at the inquest.

A man who represents himself to be Dr. Stone, an archaeologist, is thought to be the murderer. His secretary, Gladys Cram, was seen by Miss Marple going in the woods at midnight carrying a suitcase and returning shortly after without it. The vicar searches the woods and finds the suitcase. Inspector Slack examines the contents and finds some valuable old silver which belonged to Col. Protheroe.

INSTALLMENT XLI.

A POSSIBLE SOLUTION.

"Col. Protheroe said that he was going to have all his things valued—a man down from London. For probate—no, that's when your dead—for insurance. Some one told him that was the thing to do. He talked about it a great deal, and the importance of having it done. Of course, I don't know that he had made any actual arrangements, but if he had . . ."

"I see," I said slowly.

"Of course, the moment the expert saw the silver he'd know, and then Mrs. Protheroe would remember having shown the things to Dr. Stone—I wonder if it was done then—legerdemain, don't they call it? So clever—and so, well, the fact would be in the fire, to use an old fashioned expression."

"I see your idea," I said. "I think we ought to find out for certain."

I went once more to the telephone. In a few minutes I was through to Old Hall and speaking to Anne Protheroe.

"No, it's nothing very important. Has the inspector arrived yet? O, but he's on his way. Mrs. Protheroe, can you tell me if the contents of Old Hall were ever valued? What's that you say?"

Her answer came clear and prompt. I thanked her, replaced the receiver.

"That's very definite. Col. Protheroe had made arrangements for a valuer to come down from London on Monday—tomorrow—to make a full valuation. Owing to the colonel's death the matter has been put off."

"Then there was a motive," said Miss Marple softly.

"A motive, yes. But that's all. You forget. When the shot was fired

"You don't take too many, I hope," I said.

Hawes had just joined the others, or was climbing over the stile in order to do so.

"Tea," said Miss Marple thoughtfully. "So that rules him out."

. . . . . .

I returned to the vicarage to find Hawes waiting for me in my study. He was pacing up and down nervously, and when I entered the room he started as though he had been shot.

"You must excuse me," he said, wiping his forehead. "My nerves are in pieces lately."

"My dear fellow," I said, "you positively must get away for a change. You shall have you breaking down altogether and that will never do."

"I can't desert my post. No, that is a thing I will never do."

"It's not a case of desertion. You are ill. I'm sure Haydock would agree with me."

"Haydock—Haydock. What kind of a doctor is he? An ignorant country practitioner."

"I think you're unfair to him. He has always been considered a very able man in his profession."

"O, perhaps. Yes, I daresay. But I don't like him. However, that's not what I came to say. I came to ask you if you would be kind enough to preach tonight instead of me. I—I really do not feel equal to it."

"Why, certainly. I will take the service for you."

"No, no. I wish to take the service. I am perfectly fit. It is only the idea of getting up in the pulpit, of all those eyes starting at me . . ."

He shut his eyes and swallowed convulsively.

"It is clear to me that there is something very wrong indeed the matter with Hawes. He seemed aware of my thoughts, for he opened his eyes and said quickly:

"There is really nothing wrong with me. It is just these headaches—these awful racking headaches. I wonder if you could let me have a glass of water."

I went and fetched it myself from the tap. Ringing bell is a profitless waste of exercise in our house.

I brought the water to him and he thanked me. He took from his pocket a small cardboard box and opening it extracted a rice paper capsule, which he swallowed with the aid of the water.

"A headache powder," he explained.

"You don't take too many, I hope," I said.

"No—O, no. Dr. Haydock warned me against that. But it is really wonderful. They bring instant relief."

Indeed he already seemed calmer and more composed.

He stood up.

"Then you will preach tonight? It's very good of you, sir."

"Not at all. And I insist on taking the service, too. Get along home at once. No, I won't have any argument. Not another word."

He thanked me again. Then he said, his eyes sliding past me to the door, "You have been up at Old Hall today, haven't you, sir?"

"Yes."

"Excuse me—but were you sent for?"

I looked at him in surprise, and he flushed.

"I'm sorry, sir. I—I just thought some new development might have arisen and that that was why Mrs. Protheroe had sent for you."

I had not the faintest intention of satisfying Hawes' curiosity.

"She wanted to discuss the funeral arrangements and one or two other private matters with me," I said.

"O, that was all. I see."

He did not speak. He fidgeted from foot to foot and finally said:

"Mr. Redding came to see me last night. I—I can't imagine why."

"Didn't he tell you?"

"No—he just said he thought he'd look me up. Said it was a bit lonely in the evenings. He's never done such a thing before."

"Well, he's supposed to be pleasant company," I said smiling.

"What does he want to come and see me for? I don't like it." His voice rose shrilly. "He spoke of dropping in again. What does it all mean? What idea do you think he has got into his head?"

"Why should you suppose he has any ulterior motive?" I asked.

"I don't like it," repeated Hawes obstinately. "I've never gone against him in any way. I never suggested that he was guilty—even when he accused himself I said it seemed most incomprehensible. If I've had suspicions anybody it's been of Archer—never of him. Archer is a totally different proposition—a godless, irreligious ruffian. A drunken blackguard."

"Don't you think you're being a little harsh?" I said. "After all, we only know very little about the man."

"A poacher, in and out of prison, capable of anything."

"Do you really think he shot Col. Protheroe?" I asked curiously.

Hawes has an inveterate dislike of answering yes or no. I have noticed several times lately.

"Don't you think yourself, sir, that it's the only possible solution?"

"As far as we know," I said, "there's no evidence of any kind against him."

"His threats," said Hawes eagerly. "You forget about his threats."

I am sick and tired of hearing about Archer's threats. As far as I can see there is no direct evidence that he ever made any.

"He was determined to be revenged on Col. Protheroe. He primed himself with drink and then shot him."

"That's pure supposition."

"But you will admit that it's perfectly probable?"

"No, I don't."

Hawes glanced at me sideways.

"Possible, then?"

"Possible, yes."

"Why don't you think it's probable?"

Hutchins' Own Students Get Working List

It's Freshman Work and Co-eds Face It, Too.

A list of more than 200 classics of the western world, ranging, chronologically, from the works of Homer to those of Freud, has been supplied. It will provide the reading material of twenty selected University of Chicago freshmen, ten of them co-eds, who will study in a special literature course for the next two years, under the personal tutelage of President Robert M. Hutchins. He will be assisted by Dr. Mortimer Adler, associate professor of philosophy.

The Hutchins-Adler course, an innovation in major college study, because of the personal rôle of the university president as a teacher, includes the reading and study of sixty of the prescribed authors or books. Considerable elasticity is allowed the students in the selection of works to be digested, although the authors will for the most part be prescribed. The first ten authors already have been chosen for the first quarter, allowing liberal privilege in student preference.

Appended is the first-quarterly list:

Homer—The Iliad, The Odyssey. [Translations.]

The Bible—Old Testament, with the King James version recommended.

Aeschylus—Prometheus, The House of Atreus, Agamemnon.

QUEER GRAY POWDER MAY HOLD SECRETS OF THE "VITAMIN B"

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Oct. 2.—Dr. A. Seidel, Washington scientist, is near the point of identifying the mysterious life giving vitamin "B." After a series of experiments at the Pasteur institute he has succeeded in isolating the purest sample of that vitamin yet obtained.

The something over one-tenth of a gram of grayish white powder in the bottom of a glass jar which was obtained after three months of work here represents what probably is the nearest approach yet made to analyzing the true nature of the strange chemicals essential to life. Its isolation constitutes a climax of fifteen years of search.

The highly active substance which Dr. Seidel has isolated gives results that recall the black magic of the middle age. Pigeons on a special vitamin poor diet thrive and fatten when given tiny amounts of the powder, but they languish and die as soon as it is denied them.

Dr. Seidel will continue his investigations after his return to Washington in addition to his regular duties on the staff of the public health laboratories.

'Soviets Favor Birth Control for U.S.' He Says

N. W. Professor Charges Quackery, Too.

Control of birth control was urged for two major reasons yesterday by Dr. Edward Lyman Cornell before the Interfraternity club at the Hotel La Salle.

Dr. Cornell's first reason was that after a quarter century of experience as obstetrician and gynecologist he has come to realize, he said, that birth control so far is nothing but quackery. His second was that of late it has been advocated in America largely by leaders of the soviet government.

Dr. Cornell is assistant professor of obstetrics at the Northwestern university medical school and is on the staff of the Chicago Lying-In hospital, the Illinois Masonic hospital, and the Wesley Memorial hospital.

"Whether we are for or against birth control as a practice for the individual," he said, "there is no question as to where we stand when a foreign government endeavors to thrust it upon us. The soviet government wishes to break up the system of government that is the greatest obstacle to their ideas. They know that birth control never can spread among their hordes and will have little if any effect upon them. But they do know that it can assist in breaking up the American system, if they can and do spread its practices among the educated persons.

"I do not believe any of us want our young children brought into daily contact with this matter. Yet that is just what is happening throughout this country. I have seen in display windows of drug stores in this city devices, preparations, and literature concerning birth control. There is a traffic in this business that not only employs important capital but also permits of important advertising expenditure.

"Of exceptional aid to the Reds, who are so strongly behind birth control, is the greed manifested by the quacks. If the traffic is made better than self-supporting in this country it is quite likely that our children will know more about contraception than they do about arithmetic.

"There is one phase of the question on which I think we all agree. That is, if we should discover the perfect specific we of the western world would be perfectly willing to send it along to the soviets themselves and encourage them to use it among their own people."

Bishop Stewart Quits Oct. 18 as Rector of St. Luke's, Evanston

The Rt. Rev. George Craig Stewart, bishop coadjutor of the Episcopal diocese of Chicago, last night offered his resignation as rector of St. Luke's church, Evanston. After accepting Bishop Stewart's resignation the vestry of the church elected him rector emeritus. At Bishop Stewart's request the resignation will take effect on the parish's patronal feast day—St. Luke's day, Oct. 18.

A committee was elected by the vestry to select a new rector for the church. In the meantime the present staff of the church, the Rev. John B. Hubbard, the Rev. Gardner MacWhorter, and the Rev. James E. Charles, will be in charge of parish activities. Bishop Stewart will continue to live in the rectory of St. Luke's church, which the vestry has tendered for the bishop's use to the diocesan council.

During Bishop Stewart's rectorate beginning in 1904 St. Luke's church has grown in membership from 200 to 2,000, and the parish property has been increased by new buildings from a value of $10,000 in 1904 to more than $1,000,000. No names of possible successors to Bishop Stewart have been announced. It is believed, however, that a wide search will be made.

British Princess Avoids 13th Registry Place in Town of Glamis

GLAMIS, Scotland, Oct. 2.—(AP)—The birth of little Princess Margaret Rose of York was registered by her father, the duke of York, at the little village postoffice today. She just escaped being baby No. 13 on the village registration lists. Registration was delayed longer than is usual. The delay is generally explained as due to the desire of the duke and duchess to avoid the baby princess entered as No. 13.

Had her name been put down soon after her birth early in the summer, she would inevitably have gone into the 13th place, another child, however, has since been born in the village, and to this child the number 13 fell.

Bishop Anderson's Portrait Coming for Memorial Here

An oil portrait of the late Most Rev. Charles P. Anderson, former primate of the American Episcopal church and bishop of Chicago has just been completed by Frank O. Salisbury, English artist and is on its way to America. This was announced yesterday at Episcopal headquarters, 664 Rush street. The portrait later is to hang in the Bishop Anderson Memorial chapel at Western Theological seminary, Evanston. Mr. Salisbury will accompany the portrait to Chicago.

THE STAGE

THE Broadway stage is speeding up its production rate. Between now and Nov. 1, 41 play, musical comedies, and revues are scheduled for debuts along the main stem of Manhattan. Compare this number with the 27 shows that September brought in and you will see that the nights are getting brighter around Longacre square.

When you hear the oration of King Magnus in the first act of Shaw's "The Apple Cart," at the Blackstone next Monday night or later, you may be curious to know just how long it really is. Take it from one who has counted the words in the manuscript, that speech runs to 1,360 words without an interruption. In type it would fill a solid column of THE TRIBUNE without headlines.

Mr. Ziegfeld's next contribution to the gayety of the nation and the glorification of the American girl will be called "Smiles." Marilyn Miller will co-star in it with Fred and Adele Astaire as her partners in publicity. The show is scheduled for the Ziegfeld theater, New York, Oct. 27, after a week in Boston.

The "suburban night" plan promoted by the Actors' Equity association—curtain at 7 p. m.—will be tested at two New York theaters next week. "Nine to Six," at the Ritz, and "Symphony in Two Flats," at the Shubert, will try to find out how many commuters want to see a play that sends them home at 9:30 p. m.

Still bent upon starring or featuring Beth Merrill, David Belasco has selected a play called "Veiled Eyes" for her use. It was written by Patrick Kearney, author of "A Man's Man" and dramatizer of Theodore Dreiser's "An American Tragedy." "Veiled Eyes" is on the Belasco schedule for his third production of the season. Miss Merrill's last acting in Chicago was done in "Ladies of the Evening."

Having scored a New York hit with "A Farewell to Arms," Manager A. H. Woods is ready to stage another play—his third of the new season. This one is a farce by John Montague and its title, until Mr. Woods changes his mind, is "For Ladies Only."

"Princess Charming," a very expensive operetta recently staged in Boston, is changing its cast in preparation for a New York premiere Oct. 14. Evelyn Herbert, whose last Broadway appearance was in "The New Moon," is replacing Danielle Bregis as prima donna. Robert Halliday has been chosen as the hero fellow.

Mrs. Fiske gets more and more intellectual as the years roll on. She is now a member of the advisory board of the New York university department of dramatic art. C. C.

Calls Columbus Traveling Man, but Not Pirate

Genoese Names the Firm; Offers Documents.

GENOA, Italy, Oct. 2.—(AP)—An avalanche of indignation has swept over this citadel of Columbus, stirred by the recent statement of the Peruvian professor, Luis Ulloa, that the navigator was a Catalonian corsair, was not born in Genoa, and accompanied Danish corsairs to America years before 1492, by way of Iceland, Greenland and Labrador.

Genoa is pointing documents, historical records and references at Prof. Ulloa, and demanding that he come to Genoa himself to search out the truth.

Marquis Giuseppe Pessagno, Italy's foremost Columbian expert and director of the archives of Genoa, has charge of Genoa's forces.

He thus outlined his defense to the Associated Press correspondent:

"I have invited Prof. Ulloa here to examine the hundred attested documents in the state archives regarding the Genoese citizenship of Columbus. Prof. Ulloa charges these documents are false, but he never has examined them, never has accepted our invitation to come here and do so.

"Your own Boston scholar, Henry Harrisse, whose books are treasured by the city of Genoa, made a serious research of all the Columbian data, affirming that Columbus was a Genoese.

"Leaving aside all legend and tradition, there exist the following 14th century documents of notaries, known and unknown, and the registered documents of the Bank of St. George:

"1. Documents which establish the birth and family of Columbus at Genoa; genealogical tree of the Ligurian family of Columbus, and the Asserto document.

"2. Presence and life of Columbus at Genoa and in Liguria. Documents are registered in the achives of Genoa and of Milan.

"3. Maratime voyages of Columbus up to the period of his establishment in Portugal.

"4. The Portugal period, preparations for his expedition. Trip to Spain and preliminaries of the Atlantic expedition, covering the years from 1451 to 1491. Documents of De La Ronciere.

"These documents have been compared with the biographical notes of the admiral, and reported by his son and other historians. These documents cover the years, 1429, 1440, 1444, 1445, 1447, 1448, 1450, 1455, 1470, 1471, 1473, 1477, to 1494. They state the condition of the admiral's family, of contracts, sales, of the house of his father, Domoncio Columbus, and follow the family from Genoa to Savona. They record the ages of his brothers, the marriage of his sister, the admiral's early life.

"The documents of Asserto was drawn up by the notary, Gerolamo De Ventimiglia, and describes how Columba returned to Genoa on a business trip in August of 1479.

"In the act of a notary of 1470 Columbus states himself to be 19 years old, which date coincides with the date of his birth in 1451.

"Two documents, March 20 and Aug. 7, of the year 1472 record that Domenico and his son, Christoforo, were at Savona that year. His father, a weaver of wool, also kept an inn for some time.

"Genealogical papers of Columbus' grandfather are dated 1429 to 1473. In the city hall of Genoa are the two letters written in 1502 by Columbus himself to the Bank of St. George. The reply from the bank calls Columbus 'citizen.'

"The house where Columbus was born was destroyed. The house of Columbus by the St. Andrea gate was his childhood home, his father living there from 1455 to 1470.

"When Columbus was 23 years old he went to Savona, sailing not as a navigator, but as a commercial traveler for the house of Spinola. He visited Iceland and was at Bristol, England, in 1477. Prof. Ulloa has confused the voyage made by Columbus in 1477 to Iceland and Bristol.

"The Greeks Cazenov and Bisipat, said to be related to Columbus, as they bore the name of Coulomb, were not relatives of his."

HOW TO KEEP FROM GROWING OLD

That Cocktail Look Detracts from Real Beauty

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

A woman just back from a summer place famous for its beautiful houses, heavenly gardens, and festive doings launched suddenly into the subject of women and cocktails. Puncturing the conversation every now and then with a "I don't mind one myself, you know," she was released from all suspicion of Volstead arrogance. But she is an observer of women, and her professional slant whets her curiosity about why more women with money for clothes and all the decorations are not more pleasingly pictorial.

"They have the clothes; they have personal maids, many of them, for the daily personal attentions; they have all the sports an up to date seaside community offers, and they indulge in them, too. But there are them, too. But there are those tired eyes or puffy ones and a casehardened look to the face that I can't explain away by any other process than alcohol.

"And, mind you, they are not drinking women, in the old sense of the world. But their lives are days of entertaining, one after the other, and being entertained, and everywhere they go it's a cocktail or something with more of a kick in it. Not one cocktail with most of them, but two, maybe three.

"You study them alongside of their men. Men seem to stand up under the alcoholic entertainment pressure better than women, every time. Perhaps they work off the effects with more exercise, or perhaps it is just that they are the stronger sex in this regard. Anyway, I was interested enough for a month to make a deep study of this anti-beauty tonic, and I'll say that women are not made for daily cocktail parties. Whatever else it does to them, beside their men of like age or near it, they look older. And if it wern't for the swimming and tennis and golfing and their other summer sports activities, they'd look still worse.

Tunic Blouse Is Last Word for Afternoon

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special Correspondence.]—Long tunics over contrasting skirts. You see them everywhere in the most exclusive and fashionable salons in Paris. Sometimes these long tunics are jackets masquerading as blouses and often they actually are blouses. The tunic is one of the headliners of Paris autumn styles, and if it appeals to you, you can't go wrong in choosing at least one for your autumn wardrobe.

Between ourselves, tunic blouses supply a wonderful means of bringing something from your last season's wardrobe up to date. A skirt may be lengthened by a deep yoke of lining silk and topped by a tunic so that the make-shift is completely hidden, and voila you have the last word in chic. Of course, if your outfit is completely new and has a tunic, nobody is going to criticize either. In any case these tunics are worth consideration in wardrobe planning.

The model sketched illustrates one of the smartest Paris tunic ensembles for fall and winter. It combines a white, lusterless satin tunic with black broadcloth skirt and coat. Marthe et René made it. The skirt is flared by circular gores from a bit below the hips, and the tunic also begins to flare from this point, by means of a circular ruffle that is cut out in front.

The blouse part of this tunic is shirred on to a band up the center front so that the waistline is softly draped. The collar and descending band are black broadcloth, and the lower sleeves with flares at the elbows are also of black broadcloth. They can be removed leaving elbow length satin sleeves. The coat is black broadcloth trimmed with black astrakhan. The astrakhan collar ties in a scarf at the back.

Parents Can Help Child to Overcome Physical Handicap

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

A play booklet and a toy list will be sent by Mrs. Bevans on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

There are two great debts that parents owe their children who are physically handicapped. One is to leave no stone unturned to make them as normal as is possible—not only physically, but also in their mental attitude.

We are learning more and more of the necessity for after care in various illnesses, such as scarlet fever, measles and the more serious diseases, such as infantile paralysis. The part the parent can play in overcoming the temporary or more permanent disabilities, such as weakened eye sight or heart, or paralysis of the arms or legs, is increasing every day. By their persistence in following up régimes of treatment and by their maintaining a "well" attitude of mind toward the child, they will be able to help him enormously in achieving a more normal condition.

A well known surgeon has said that as the result of years of experience he is convinced that parents have great influence on the progress of handicapped children, and also that these children can do most things normal children can.

The other debt is to help them to live as much like normal children as is possible, and to treat them as such. Many children with varying degrees of physical handicaps are able to hold their own in sports and games and this we should encourage in every possible way. There is a boy I used to pass often who had lost one leg. with his crutch he could play hop-scotch and tag and hide and seek as well as the other boys.

There is a man who, in high school days, received an injury playing football, which kept his leg permanently crooked. He refused to let it interfere with his life. He made a success of his chosen profession, played tennis and golf, swam and ran an automobile.

There is a man who lost his hand as a result of a war wound. He has accepted, not resisted the situation. He can light a cigaret, get into a coat or eat a meal without any assistance. He says casually, "After I lost my hand" in a perfectly natural way. And soon you, too, are as unconscious of any differentness as he is. There are few of us who do not know of similar cases of pluck and perserverance winning through.

The easiest way to help people forget any physical imperfection is to be able one's self to be as unconscious of it as possible. A matter-of-fact attitude and an admission rather than an evasion of a disability are infinitely more helpful to your child than any pitying indulgence or undue guarding of him in his attempt to achieve independence and normalcy.

FARM AND GARDEN

BY PAUL POTTER

Prevention of fires on farms and in rural communities is to be a special phase of activity during National Fire Prevention week designated by President Hoover to occur Oct. 5 to 11, according to Secretary of Agriculture Arthur M. Hyde.

Farm fires last year were credited with taking a toll of 3,500 lives and causing property damage estimated at $100,000,000, or nearly one-fourth that for the entire country. Largely preventable, comments Secretary Hyde, citing such causes as lightning, defective chimneys and flues, careless use of matches, smoking, sparks on combustible roots, spontaneous ignition of agricultural products, careless handling and storage of gasoline and kerosene, defective wiring and improper use of electrical appliances.

Conscientious and continued attention should be paid to the elimination of fire hazards by every member of a rural community, it is urged. Inculcating realization of the responsibilities of each person to fire hazards is suggested through cooperative activity in civic organizations, schools and clubs. The United States department of agriculture and the farm fire protection committee of the National Fire Protection association are offering their assistance in the problem.

Miss Stevenson Becomes Bride of Bruce Thorne

BY THALIA

The first fashionable town wedding of the fall season, that of Miss Marianne Stevenson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Stevenson of 1349 Astor street, and Bruce Thorne, son of Mrs. George A. Thorne, took place yesterday afternoon. The service was read at 5 o'clock at the Fourth Presbyterian church by the Rev. James McClure and was followed by a wedding reception at the Casino.

The bride wore white velvet, heirloom lace and tulle, and carried a shower bouquet of white orchids and lilies of the valley. Her frock was high waisted and ankle length, with a narrow ruffle at the hem and around the neckline; her tulle veil fell from a coronet of stiffened duchesse lace. Two pieces of rosepoint lace, belonging to the groom's mother, were inserted in the veil.

The bridesmaids were effectively costumed in autumnal gold and bronze. The maid of honor, Miss Molly Dryesdale, wore pale yellow satin, and the bridesmaids, Miss Martha Clarke and Miss Harriet Ann Duell of New York City, Miss Margaret Emily Lynde, Miss Virginia Hobart, Miss Helen Bell, and Miss Elizabeth Durham, wore golden yellow.

Their dresses were long and full, with wide scarfs of the satin making a cowl neckline and falling in points over the shoulders. Their close fitting velvet hats were of tan, chartreuse green, and yellow velvet, and were gathered at the back. They carried large bouquets of small russet and golden chrysanthemums tied with wide yellow satin ribbon.

The altar was decorated with palms and two standing bouquets of large yellow and maroon chrysanthemums. Mrs. Stevenson wore black velvet trimmed with ermine, and Mrs. Thorne also was in black. Mr. and Mrs. Thorne are to reside at 31 East Elm street when they return from their wedding trip.

The Woman's Parish league of St. James' cathedral is to give a tea and exhibition of fine sewing at the parish house on Tuesday, Oct. 14, from 2 to 6 o'clock in the afternoon, this to take the place of the annual bazaar held in previous years. Orders will be taken for the articles on display, but no actual sales will be transacted at the time.

Mrs. A. C. Cox is general chairman of the committee in charge, and Mrs. Orville Taylor is to have charge of the tea. Mrs. Clement Studebaker is in charge of decorative closet fittings and is to have a fitted closet on display. Mrs. Edward L. Ryerson Jr. will have things for babies and small children, and others in charge of various groups of articles are Mrs. Charles Robinson, pin cushions; Mrs. Duncan H. Browne, lingerie; Mrs. Frederick Bullnap, towels, and Mrs. Alan C. Dixon, blanket covers. Others working on the committees include Mrs. Patrick A. Valentine, Mrs. Henry Singer Jr., Mrs. Harold O. Evenson, Mrs. John L. Senior, Mrs. James Lawrence Houghteling, Mrs. Nelson Thomasson Jr., Mrs. Fremont A. Chandler, and Mrs. Joseph T. Ryerson.

The Alfred H. Grangers of Lake Forest departed, bag and baggage, on Wednesday for their six weeks' trip abroad. Their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Edward Brown Jr., who are settled permanently in New York City now, will be on hand to see them off when they sail. The Browns have taken an apartment on Madison avenue in the 80s near Central park.

The committee was named by Mrs. E. V. L. Brown of Winnetka and Mrs. George McKibben, who are in charge of the ticket sale for the two performances. The programs will be of American folk music of every section of the nation and every period in its history and will be directed by Marx and Anne Oberndorfer.

Proceeds from the two entertainments will be used in carrying out the society's program to prevent defective eyesight and blindness in new born babies and school children, according to Russell Tyson, president.

Pittsburgh Supplies Head; Dinosaur Ready for Washington Crowd

Washington, D. C., Oct. 2.—(AP)—The decapitated dinosaur dug out of a sandstone ledge in northeastern Utah seven years ago has almost been restored to the correct semblance of his own skeleton at the National museum.

Within a few weeks four or five lesser specimens will be moved out of the honor spot near the front door in Dinosaur hall to make room for his 75 foot length.

Only one other known dinosaur exceeds him in size. That is the great dinosaur of the Carnegie museum of Pittsburgh.

The protecting Utah rock ledge ended too soon to take good care of the dinosaur, and his head, together with 22 or 23 feet of his neck, had been knocked off somewhere down the ages.

"But we were in luck!" declared Curator C. W. Gilmore. "The Carnegie experts had made plaster casts of all the bones of that dinosaur to send copies to Europe, South America, and Mexico. All we had to do was order the missing head and neck from them."

Aside from the lost head and a missing 10 or 12 feet of tail, the gigantic prehistoric skeleton was in an excellent state of preservation.

Back in 1923, at Dinosaur National park, Utah, five men spent five months digging him out.

Widower Looks in Wrong Quarters for Right Woman

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"In reference to men being altar shy, listen to my story," writes E. M. L.

"I have the intentions—long, in fact—to have a home again. I am a presentable young man, still in my twenties, and have gone with quite a few young women, all of whom enjoyed my company obviously until I told them my story. Then they dropped me like a hot potato. These women's intentions were serious until—well, here it is:

"I have been married before. My wife passed away, leaving me with a baby on my hands who at this time is 3 years old.

"Sure, they all want a good time, money spent on them, but when one acquaints them with the fact that one has a baby they don't care to assume the responsibilities of marrying under these conditions. It is easy enough to find a wife—but try to find a wife and mother in one."

I guess there is something wrong with your approach, E. M. L. First, you do not approach the right type of girl. Secondly, you talk like a sorehead, like one who thinks a woman should be glad to share your responsibility, not like one who would be deeply appreciative if some girl would help you in your responsibility.

A man with a child on his hands certainly has to look for a different type of wife than one with no incumbranches. It is no small thing to ask of another woman, if she is young and hopeful of having children of her own, to mother another woman's child.

There are any number who would welcome the chance, no doubt, but the position has to be presented more alluringly, by which I mean in a more appreciative vein from you. With a situation like yours, it is an older, steadier girl you want—one whose home record reveals that she has the qualities of the born mother in her. You cannot expect the fly-by-night pretty young creature with a flair only for the moment's good time to look upon you as one of her best matrimonial opportunities. You just change your style, E. M. L., and the haunts you've been patronizing looking for her, and you'll get the girl.

STAGE SUFFERS MORAL MALADY, CARDINAL SAYS TO LAWYERS

New York, Oct. 2.—(AP)—Existence of a "moral depression," which he said was "a shock to common ordinary decency," was deplored today by Cardinal Hayes in an address before members of the Guild of Catholic Lawyers attending the third annual red mass at St. Andrew's church.

"In the present economic rythm there is a depression of which we are keenly aware," the cardinal said. "Would that we were equally sensitive to the moral depression of the times, to the low standards of morality and a stage that is reeking with filth, and there seems to be no power in the City of New York to stop it. It is an awful shock to common ordinary decency that you would not find among the noncivilized tribes."

Cardinal Hayes declared the moral depression is accompanied by a "decided drifting away from religion and God."

More than a hundred members of the bar attended the services.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

At a recent silk sale in one of the department stores I met a friend of mine to help her select material for dresses. Having carried my new purse I did not happen to have my tape line with me, so I asked the clerk waiting on us if I might use his, as I wanted to get the length of her dress in order to know how many yards to buy.

At home I am in the habit of hanging the tape line around my neck, so when I had taken the length of her dress I put the tape around my neck, never realizing I had done so until leaving the store, when the clerk called to me, "Madam, may I have my tape line?"

Everybody laughed and I vanished with my friend in a hurry, and I always will avoid that clerk in the future. C. A. P.

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

Invite Him to Call.

"Dear Miss Blake: I love a boy who did love me. Every one tells me he does yet. What can I do? "JEANNIE."

You have the assurance that he is fond of you. Why not invite him to your home?

Nothing to Do.

"Dear Miss Blake: The boy I like likes me, but has not asked me to go out with him. I think the reason is money. What shall I do? BABE."

There is nothing you can do. A boy doesn't want to take up a girl's time unless he can make some return—and that calls for an expenditure of money.

Bright Sayings of the Children

Jean Frances thought "turn about" fair play and asked grandmother to trade places with her. Grandmother agreed and Jean, pointing to the dolls and toys scattered on the floor, said: "Now you pick all of them up right away and take them upstairs where they belong." L. H.

New Face Powder Now the Fashion

"Wouldn't you, too, like a face powder that will keep shine away—stay on longer — spread smoothly — not clog the pores — and always be so pure and fine?" asks Gene Brady, charming stage beauty. She found this kind of face powder in MELLO-GLO, made by a new French Process that brings the youthful bloom—will not irritate the skin or cause that pasty, flaky look. It is surely a wonderful Face Powder.

YOUR CHILDREN and

URE DRUGGIST

This Sign Always Says—Your Druggist

CHILDREN take sick more often and easier than grown-ups. They give little if any warning and await no one's convenience. Winter or Summer, housecleaning or vacation time, wash day or party day, "Junior" or "Sis" or "Baby" is very liable to upset all calculations with something that looks serious.

Of course, the sensible thing is to phone Dr. _____, but the doctor is out and will be for several hours on other calls. An already harassed mother is driven almost to distraction.

Then, like a flash, she remembers her own mother's advice—"When you can't reach your Doctor, call Ure Druggist." That takes care of the emergency till the doctor comes, and afterward too.

As an independent druggist, owning and managing his own store, Ure Druggist is intensely interested in the community's welfare. He marks the coming and going of every family. He notes the arrival and upbringing of every child in the neighborhood. He gathers the experiences of thousands of mothers and of many physicians and he becomes a child specialist.

Permanently located as your fellow citizen and neighbor, Ure Druggist will be the same friend and counsellor tomorrow as he is today and was yesterday.

To increase your chances for better health and longer life, make Ure Druggist, Your Druggist in all home needs as well as in sickness.

CARRY CHICAGO MESSAGE TO SIX OTHER COUNTIES

Commerce Delegation Visits Several Cities.

BY PAUL POTTER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Danville, Ill., Oct. 2.—[Special.]—Chicago's determination to rid itself of criminal underworld, its plans for a great international exposition in 1933, and its desire to coöperate with other Illinois communities in developing industrial and agricultural resources were described in six eastern central Illinois counties today by a delegation of thirty representatives of the Chicago Association of Commerce, who tomorrow complete a twelve hundred mile circuit.

"Illinois centers its interest in the coming generation, for whom millions of dollars are being invested in education to equip them for later responsibilities," declared G. L. Noble, executive of the National Boys and Girls' club committee, who described the work and ideals of 4-H club youngsters on American farms. He was one of four speakers at the banquet tonight of the Danville Chamber of Commerce, at which Howard East presided. Dr. Rudolph Clemen described briefly the transformation of the shore of Lake Michigan to provide for the 1933 Century of Progress exposition.

Promises to Oust Capone.

F. J. Ashley of Chicago declared Col. Robert Isham Randolph and his crime prevention and punishment committee fully expect to drive Al Capone and Chicago's other public enemies off the front pages of newspapers before the opening of the fair."

Earlier today the Chicago caravan had been welcomed to Mattoon, Champaign and Urbana and also was shown a typical cross section of the Illinois grain belt, some fields still reflecting a summer of drought.

"Mattoon and other so-called downstate cities of Illinois are least of all wishing for any possible separation from Chicago by state boundary," declared W. T. Osborn in the Mattoon gathering at the Grant hotel. "We and other business men of Illinois realize the dependence upon the development of the fertile Mississippi valley," he said.

Welcomed by 250.

Civic leaders in Champaign and Urbana fêted the entourage at a luncheon which 250 attended. Dean Charles M. Thompson extended the greetings and B. H. Heide, O. L. Grisamore, Mr. Ashley, and Dr. Clemen responded.

PLAN CEREMONY FOR OPENING OF DAMEN BRIDGE

Residents of the 12th and 21st wards will celebrate the opening of the new Damen avenue bridge across the south channel of the river tomorrow. Ald. Dennis A. Horan [21st] is arranging the dedication program. Construction on the project which links the two wards was begun early in 1929 and finished as a cost of over $1,000,000.

The bridge consists of two spans, the one from the north bank, which will open for ships, stretching 140 feet across the river with a 26 foot clearance. The south span of 220 feet is fixed. A 44 foot roadway is provided, with 11 foot sidewalks on each side. A viaduct approach from the south has been paved.

REPORT SHOWS RADIO'S AID IN WAR ON CRIME

Speeds Police Cars to Scene.

The running time of motorized police squads to the scene of a crime after receiving a flash over the police radio system has been reduced by 55 per cent in the last two months due to an increase from 17 to 82 in the number of cars equipped with receiving sets. This observation was included in reports on the operation of the radio submitted yesterday to Acting Police Commissioner Alcock.

"There were seventeen cars equipped on Aug. 10, when the operation of the police radio was started." read the report from William P. Hilliard, supervisor of radio. "This number was increased to eighty-two cars by Sept. 29 and thirteen additional cars are to be equipped, making a total of ninety-five in operation before the end of this year.

To Open New Station.

"Operations to date have been with the Warren avenue broadcasting plant. By Oct. 10 an additional station will be opened at the Wabash avenue police station, greatly increasing the effectiveness of the system throughout the south side of the city. The third broadcast station will go in operation at the Town Hall station early in March, 1931."

A comparative report showing the results obtained by the use of the radio during two separate periods gave the following information:

	Aug.10-25.	Sept.15-30.
Average time of response to calls, minutes	8.7	3.85
Average number of calls daily	33.3	110
Per cent of calls received by squads	92.5	97.8
Average number of arrests each day	2.3	22.8

In the last month 2,988 calls to the cruising squad cars were broadcast over the radio, including 339 fire alarms and 23 messages for the Oak Park police. The number of arrests made by squads receiving the calls was 489 and the number of crimes solved, according to the report, was 81.

'Here to Stay'—Alcock.

"In the two months that the radio has been in operation it has been proved that it is an aid in the apprehension of criminals and a good weapon against criminals in the hands of the police," said Alcock. "The radio of the Chicago police department is here to stay."

TRUCK LINE ASKS TO BE PUT ON RAILWAY BASIS

An application for a certificate of convenience and necessity to operate as a motor carrier for the transportation of property in Illinois was filed before the Illinois commerce commission by State Representative Frank E. McCarthy, attorney for the Keeshin Motor Express company, 1453 Washburne avenue. The concern operates about 150 trucks in Illinois, Iowa and Indiana.

The Keeshin company is anticipating federal legislation regulating truck movements, according to Mr. McCarthy, and wishes to be put on the same basis as railroads and other public carriers and public utilities. This application is the first made by any large motor freight company, the lawyer said.

Nine railroads and bus companies are made respondents in the application, inasmuch as they each cover some part of the territory served by the Keeshin company. These are: Chicago and North Western railway, Chicago, Burlington and Quincy railroad, Chicago, Aurora and Elgin, Illinois Central Railroad company, Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific Railway company, Railway Express Agency, Inc., Western Motor Coach company, Pickwick Greyhound Lines, Inc., and the Nash Motor Bus Line, Inc.

FOOD JOBS, NOT ALTAR, ENTICE CHICAGO CO-EDS

Science Enters Field of Cake Baking.

Few of the students of the home economics department of the University of Chicago take the courses offered by the department with the object of being a good home girl. Dr. Lydia Roberts, chairman of the department, estimated yesterday that 10 students in the entire school last year were seeking education to make them good wives and mothers.

"Many of our girls train for a professional life, that of institutional dietitians, or teaching, among other things, and after a few years marry and find their education gives them an excellent background for marriage and motherhood. But few take our courses with that in view," she said.

Complete Background Needed.

If a girl simply wants to learn to cook, she may take a class in food preparation, which does not require prerequisites. Or she may study nutrition without prerequisities. But for most of the courses in the department, having to do with food chemistry, for instance, and other advanced courses, a background of chemistry, physics, often mathematics, psychology, sociology and other subjects usually is required.

A problem in research which is being conducted in the school laboratories by Dr. Isabel Noble of the department staff, is that of trying to determine how to bake cakes so that any harmful bacteria may not survive the baking.

In her tests she has used a thermocouple to measure the interior temperature of a cake which is baking. With this apparatus she determines whether certain shaped and sized pans cook a cake more quickly or more thoroughly than another type.

The experiment began when the Ham Steaks, Pineapple; O, What a Meal!

BY WILLIAM McKAY.

You awaken to hear in your dim half consciousness the chirp and chatter and warbling of birds in the trees just beyond the windows of the sleeping porch—belated autumn migrants heading southward. The breeze stirs the still green but crinkly leaves of the old cottonwood and they rustle in an Aeolian hymn to the dawn. Gray streaks of light are shooting upward along the eastern horizon, but you don't discern them, your eyes still closed and a serene peace possessing you. You are aware of a crisp chill in the air and you wrap your light blanket around you a little tighter as you roll over into a snugger position and indulge your soul with that blissful fact that it's Sunday morning and there'll be no alarm clock to disturb you.

You relapse into that delicious state in which you are half asleep and half awake. Semi-dormant memories range through your subconscious mind. You go places, you see things, you grasp the hands of long forgotten friends, and you eat things that tickle your palate into delicious ecstasies. Elysium!

The Kitchen Symphony.

You open your eyes. Sunlight streams in. You look out and see a million diamonds glistening in the dewdrops on the trees and shrubs. Peaceful snores are wafted from the guest room, and from below stairs come sounds of kettles, pans and skillets.

Corinne, the dusky maid, has begun her daily culinary ministrations.

You preempt first rights of the shower and you emerge glowing and stimulated. You rouse the household.

Seductive odors come up the stairway and intrigue your keen nostrils. The aroma of mocha steals into your olfactories, and you hear the rhythmic beating of a kitchen spoon in a batter bowl. And then a sensuous redolence ascends as the broiling ham wafts its entrancing scents while it simmers slowly in the oven.

Soon the household and the overnight guests are assembled and Corinne has announced that breakfast is served.

"It's ham today," she says.

The previous afternoon you had visited your favorite market. Adolph, from the middle of a noble fifteen

UNITED STATES GROWS PRUNES FOR BIG MARKET

Fame of the wrinkled prune is making the United States the center of production of dried prunes, according to the United States department of agriculture, which says that of the world production, which has been averaging about 470,000,000 pounds annually, the United States supplies about 75 per cent.

Of this total, however, the United States is exporting about 50 per cent of the prunes to Europe. International trade in dried fruits is developing along lines that are making this country an increasingly important production center and Europe a larger factor in the purchase and consumption of these supplies, the government reports.

Trucks of Michigan Grapes Are Arriving

Proof that this is a grape year is found in the fact that from Michigan alone from 40 to 50 carloads of grapes are arriving daily by truck, according to W. H. Hall, fruit and vegetable expert and statistician with the Chicago bureau of the United States department of agricultural economics.

BERMUDA ONIONS ARE 3 YEAR CROP, SAYS DEALER

Bermuda onions and even some of their kindred tear producers and seasoning bulbs, which originated centuries ago in the lily plant, are a three year crop, according to a Chicago firm, which is one of the oldest dealers in onions, onion sets, and onion seed.

Much of the seed is grown and imported from the Canary islands and other supplies of set onion seed come from California and Colorado. In a section such as Racine and Kenosha counties in Wisconsin this seed is planted in May and the Bermuda sets harvested in August. Almost as soon as they can be sorted, cleaned and sized they are shipped to farmers in the south for immediate planting and harvest the third year in sections such as truck centers in Florida and Texas.

Yellow, white and red globe onions, which constitute a more northern crop, usually are grown from seed and therefore require but two years for a harvest. For the sake of an earlier market, however, many farmers in the northern states are copying the southern system and are planting set onions in order to harvest as much as a month earlier.

Sausage for Breakfast Is Hard to Beat

BY FRED PASLEY.

"The day breaks slow, but e'en must a man breakfast."

The breakfast cloth is spread. The friendly, intimate damask whose folds fall pliantly about us bespeaks the enveloping atmosphere of home.

Our beaming housewife has laid with loving hands the service for our ritual. The warm plates, the tinkling cups and saucers, the salt and pepper shakers, and the cream and sugar are grinning like school children gleaming fresh from morning soap and water.

We grope mentally for a word that can adequately describe the sirup pitcher. The word comes to us surrounded by a sort of glitter.

The word is chalice.

The maple sirup chalice: for autumn is just around the corner; the grain is harvested, the cider jug sits paunchily and smug in his cellar, the grapevine at the garden gate is leafing, the hawthorn flaunts its scarlet berries, and the bee has ceased its busy filching from the nodding wild thyme.

The Picture Before Us.

And Jack Frost peeps over the leaves, giving us the first breath of winter, when the blazing log shall cast its ruddy glow on the circled chairs before the hearthstone.

Before us rise the simmering teapot, the sputtering percolator; the warm dishes, with their crisp buttered toast; the biscuits and muffins in luscious brown; the new laid eggs, soft boiled to the exact fractional second.

Now into our favorite, our personal cup, the mistress pours the coffee, piping hot, and ere we lift it with thumb and forefinger we have a foretaste of its appetizing delectability in the spindrift of steam that spirals from the amber surface to pique and ravish our nostrils. We sip it and glow with a sense of well-being. Our pulse quickens. Our ear of a sudden becomes attuned to the beauty of the song of our pet canary. We turn to stroke our collie, lying sedately at our feet. Our eye sees agreeable prospects in hopes and undertakings that on awakening had seemed entirely bleak and futile. We sip again and

UNTANGLE THIS FOOD MIXTURE! WIN A PRIZE

$1,000 Will Be Paid Puzzle Winners.

One thousand dollars in prizes will be given by THE TRIBUNE in a "scrambled recipes" contest. The deadline for receiving entries is 6 o'clock Wednesday night, Oct. 8. Names of the prize winners will be announced in the food section of next Friday's TRIBUNE, Oct. 10.

Miss Meta Given, TRIBUNE cooking editor, has done the scrambling of recipes. It is up to the women who wish to share in awards of $1,000 to unscramble them. There are three separate dishes, roast beef hash, cheese soufflé, and French fruit salad. The ingredients of all three, in the correct proportions, are listed together. The puzzle is to separate them successfully.

Surely every woman, whether she is noted for her cooking, knows how to prepare French fruit salad. Even the most undomestic woman, who entered matrimony armed with a can opener and a cook book she had never opened, has slung together the wherewithal for roast beef hash. Even the most frivolous woman, whose repertoire of dishes is meager and whose education is limited to what her husband has taught her about cooking, knows how to make a cheese soufflé.

Here is a complete list of the ingredients to be unscrambled:

2 cups chopped roast beef	3 tablespoons flour
1 orange	1 banana
1 cup cheese	3 eggs
1 dozen walnuts	3 tablespoons fat
1 cup milk	4 cups chopped boiled potatoes
4 tablespoons butter	French dressing
½ lb. Malaga grapes	½ teaspoon salt and pepper
1 cup beef gravy

Here, likewise, is a list of the prizes to be given to the successful unscramblers:

Five first prizes, $100 each; five second prizes, $50 each; five third prizes, $25 each; five fourth prizes, $10 each;

Now, housewives one and all, here is a gentle hint: the French dressing does not go with the roast beef hash. The grapes do not lend themselves to the cheese soufflé. What is more, pepper is seldom if ever used in fruit salad.

Men May Not Enter.

Men may gnash their teeth with rage that the women are given so simple a way of making money, but nevertheless they—the men—are barred. The contest is open only to women and girls. Every woman and girl, whether maid, wife or widow, housewife, wage earner or schoolgirl, whether she is unmarried or whether she already has led a man firmly to the altar, is eligible.

Professional women who earn their living in whole or part as teachers of domestic science or cookery, dieticians, and employes of THE TRIBUNE or members of their families, may not enter, however.

Solutions of today's recipe puzzlers may be submitted on the recipe blanks provided elsewhere in this issue, or on a separate sheet of paper.

Awards will be made to the persons who send in the most nearly correct arrangements and the neatest sets of recipes. In case of ties, duplicate prizes will be given.

Give Prizes for Sections.

To assure the widest possible distribution, the prize money will be scattered over the Chicago area. This district has been divided into five main divisions—north, northwest, west, southwest and south. Fifteen prizes will be awarded to successful contestants in each division. For instance, one $100 prize will be given in each section, one $50 prize, and so on.

Meta Given will be the judge and her decisions will be final. Entries should be mailed to "Scrambled Recipes," THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, Postoffice Box 0000, Chicago, Ill. No entries will be returned.

All entries must be in THE TRIBUNE office not later than 6 o'clock, Wednesday night, Oct. 8.

GINGER ALE OFFERS VARIETY OF FLAVORS FOR HOSTESS' NEEDS

BY H. EARLE KIMBALL.

[President the Cliquot Club Company.]

Ginger ale is of ever increasing importance nowadays in refreshment menus and beverage recipes. Every woman who entertains even in the simplest fashion will find it worth while to know about the different flavors of ginger ale, and how and when to serve them.

Best known perhaps is the variety known as dry. The word "dry," as applied to beverages, means "not sweet." The best dry ginger ale has a tingle and snap which is just what is needed to give character to combinations of fruit juices and other beverages.

For persons who like a sweeter drink and are particularly fond of the good old fashioned ginger flavor there's the delicious sweet ginger ale. When properly made of fine Jamaica ginger, pure sugar, and fruit juices the sweet ginger ale is a wonderful drink by itself. It is especially good for children, convalescents and for everybody who needs a little extra energy food between meals. The frequent use of this ginger ale actually improves appetites and keeps the whole system in condition.

There is a newer and more epicurean ginger ale. This is the driest of all ginger ales, and many think it the most delicate and piquantly flavored. This variety has a beautiful color and a high sparkle and is delightful either by itself or in combination with other beverages. It is the ginger ale to offer to discriminating guests on a tray with your finest crystal.

With such a variety of flavors every taste can be suited and a woman need not fear monotony, though she serves ginger ale in some form every day.

SAUSAGE FOR BREAKFAST IS HARD TO BEAT

Glittering Service Sharpens Appetite of Diner.

life becomes rosy hued. We are ready to greet the world.

Ah!

Borne aloft by housewifely fingers—gently, aye, reverently—and ensconced in august parsley spangled state, arrives the supreme motif of our ritual—the summum bonum, the ultimata, the chef d'oeuvre, of our matin feast.

The sausage is served!

Gastronomic Pageantry.

Methinks never did mortal behold so felicitous a spectacle of gastronomic pageantry as this apotheosis of His Esculency, the fledgling pig. There they lie upon the broad platter, sizzling in their tawny jackets and opulent pungency—each tender integument a promise of linked savor long drawn out. Verily, the fledgling pig, rendered into breakfast sausage, should be preceded by a solemn service of music, and heralded by a trumpeter.

Our knife descends, and a link becomes twain. The unctuous crackle—the piercing pfft—as the blade slits the jacket and the pent redolency is released, whets our appetite the more. We raise the fork, and our lips instinctively purse for a gustatory smack. We consign the morsel to its christening by the gastric juices. . . . We lean back in our chair. . . . Fate cannot harm us; we have broken our fast on breakfast sausage.

THESE SEA FOOD DISHES WILL LIVEN A MEAL

Two sea food dishes that may be prepared in a hurry, making interesting meals which might otherwise be dull, are shrimps with hominy, and oysters a la Newburg.

Shrimps with hominy are good with corn sticks and a green vegetable salad. The oyster dish makes a successful after theater supper for hungry husbands. The recipes follow:

SHRIMPS WITH HOMINY.

1 lb. raw shrimp.
½ cup butter.
Salt and black pepper.
2 cups cooked hominy.

Shell the shrimp, put them into a saucepan in which the butter has been melted, add the seasonings, and stir until the shrimp are hot. They may then be covered, stirred occasionally, and allowed to cook for ten minutes. Serve with the hot hominy. Yield: 4 servings.

OYSTERS A LA NEWBURG.

3 dozen oysters.
1 cup heavy cream.
1 tablespoon butter.
2 tablespoons flour.
Yolks of 3 hard cooked eggs.
½ cup sherry flavoring.
Cayenne pepper and salt to taste.

Cook the oysters in their liquor until the edges curl, then drain off the liquor. Heat the cream very hot and add the flour and butter creamed together and the hard cooked egg yolks, mashed fine. Cook together until thick and then add the sherry. Season with cayenne and salt [little if any salt will be needed if a salted sherry has been used] and mix with the oysters. Put into a shallow baking dish, cover with buttered crumbs, if desired, and bake in a moderately hot oven [375 degrees F.] for about twenty minutes. Yield: 6 servings.

FRUIT CAKE.

1 lb. sugar.
12 eggs.
1 lb. flour.
¾ cup brandy or cooking sherry.
¾ cup rosewater.
½ oz. cinnamon.
1 nutmeg, grated.
½ teaspoon cloves.
Grated rind of one orange.
2 lbs. seeded raisins.
2 lbs. currants.
1 lb. citron, cut in small pieces.

Cream the butter and sugar well together and stir in the 12 eggs, which have been well beaten, add enough of the flour to the fruit to cover it well and sift the cinnamon, nutmeg, and cloves with the remainder of the flour. Add this alternately with the liquids to the first mixture. Then stir in the grated orange rind, and lastly the floured fruits.

Grease a large pan well, line it with brown paper, and grease the paper. Pour in the cake batter and bake in a slow oven [300 degrees F.] for about 4 hours. This will make about 10 pounds of fruit cake.

AN EARLY AMERICAN DINING ROOM

Wouldn't a Thanksgiving dinner taste delicious eaten at this appropriate early American maple dining table? Of course the plates in the open cupboard are pewter, and a quaint white glass hen, really an egg dish, is seen at the lower right.

CHICAGO U. GIRLS STUDY FOOD FOR JOBS, NOT ALTAR

Science Enters Field of Cake Baking.

bacteriology department of the university found that staphylococci germs in cakes purchased at a certain bakery had made persons eating the cakes ill. Members of the department reaffirmed their judgment by isolating some of the staphylococci, growing cultures and dining on a portion of them. They then asked the home economics department to inoculate some fresh cake batter with the staphylococci, and to determine what methods of baking would kill them, and what methods would allow them to live.

Although the experiment is not complete, Dr. Noble has found at least that the bacteria do not survive her way of baking cakes. She believes in baking cake thoroughly. She now is trying baking by means of a low fire, and less thoroughly.

Dr. Roberts in her thesis last year showed the disadvantage of begting a cake too long. She devised an apparatus for measuring the carbon dioxide liberated by baking powder as a cake was being beaten, and while it was in the oven as well.

ROSY CHEEKED APPLES KEEP THE LONGEST

Rosy cheeked apples of the greatest size are the ones that will keep the longest, according to horticulturists who have found that the most highly colored apples have developed to a greater extent the wax coating on the skin and will, therefore, keep much longer than green specimens on which this wax coating has not developed.

This information is being passed along to farmers, shippers and consumers alike by R. L. McMunn of the pomology division of the college of agriculture of the University of Illinois.

Apples for storage, he says, should naturally be selected on the basis of soundness, otherwise the injured fruits will become infested with diseases and will, in turn, be a source of infection for the sound fruits. Even the sound fruits should be separated into two lots containing those that are well colored and those that are not. The better colored apples will not only keep longer, but will have a better flavor and retain this characteristic over a longer period.

LEAVENING ACTION IS CALLED SECRET OF BAKING SUCCESS

Women interested in baking know that the leavening action of every baking powder takes place in two phases, in the mixing and in the actual baking. This action has frequently been referred to as a "double action" and recently aroused interest has brought forth important facts regarding the proportion in which this action should take place.

Food chemists and cooking authorities generally are agreed that perfection in baking is most easily achieved when the leavening action takes place in what is known as the "two to one" proportion, that is, two-thirds taking place in the mixing and the remaining third occurring when the bake is exposed to the heat of the oven.

The advantage of leavening action in this "two to one" proportion has been established by many authorities and the basis for their conclusions has been not only scientific experiments, but experience with actual baking.

On the other hand, it is pointed out, when too much leavening gas is released in mixing, the bake resulting from the dough so mixed is likely to be dry and crumbly. And when leavening action is delayed to the point where most of it is developed in the heat of the oven, there is grave risk of producing cakes or hot breads which are heavy and soggy.

HAM STEAKS AND PINEAPPLE MAKE GUSTATORY POEM

With Cakes and Coffee, What a Breakfast!

pound ham, had cut you three one-quarter inch steaks, each the whole width and circumference of the sturdy member, in the center of each the round bone with its store of marrow.

Thoroughly Sugar Cured.

Over night these ham steaks had reposed in a huge bowl of water into which Corinne had dropped half a cupful of brown sugar and from this saccharine bath she had lifted them, thoroughly "sugar cured," for breakfast. Half way through their cooking Corinne had laid upon the slowly simmering ham steaks cross sections slices of a pineapple. These added their fragrance to the kitchen odors. And as the broiling continued to its finish, the delicate fragrance of south sea island fruit were blended with the wholesome and more material scents of the products of Illinois and the midwest prairies.

Let us pause to give our meed of praise to the pig. Take away the pig and what would Chicago be? What use for the lush prairies of Chicagoland unless we had the pig to fatten on its corn and give us its bacon and its sausage and its delectable ham?

Corinne brings in an imposing platter. Often it has been the stately resting place of a Thanksgiving turkey. The ham steaks are cut into individual servings, each bearing on its surface a semi-frittered slice of pineapple and round about garnishments of red pimentos and green parsley—a fetching picture to those who revel in things of the earth and the creature comforts.

Wheat Cakes, Too.

Alongside the ham platter Corinne arrays dishes of eggs "sunnyside up," platefuls of corn hominy immersed in the ham gravy, and, as her final contribution to the delights of the Sunday morning breakfast, stacks of wheat cakes, and a wide lipped jug of New Orleans molasses.

But, your grilled ham and pineapple is the piece de resistance. Who can find words fittingly to extoll its exquisite flavor, the savor of its invigorating juices? It lends itself in benign affinity to the wheat cakes and the hominy, the gravy and the molasses. You push back your chair with your "innards" and your soul in perfect harmony, all the world at ease, and you are ready and prepared for anything that adventure can suggest.

ORIENTAL DISHES GAIN FAVOR IN HOME KITCHENS

BY S. NAGANO.

[President Fuji Trading Company.]

Chop suey foods have increased tremendously in popularity during the last five years, particularly with Chicago women in their home preparation.

For years the American public has been able to obtain favorite oriental dishes in restaurants where they are emphasized. The recent trend, however, has been toward an invasion of the individual kitchen.

Cooks have weighed them in the balance for the variation and novelty they offer, and have not found them wanting. Among the foods best known to the housewife are chop suey sauce, chow mein noodles, mixed vegetables, bead molasses and bean sprouts.

GLORIFYING MEAT MADE EASY BY MODERN IDEAS

Sausage and Bacon Prove Favorites.

BY E. J. ENGEL.

[President Mickelberry's Food Products Co.]

E. J. ENGEL.

There is a story of a house wife who wished desperately that someone would invent another animal—she and her family were getting tired of an endless round of pork, mutton, beef and fowl.

That must have been a long time ago. No modern housewife would ever have found herself in such a predicament, or if she did, the handiest recipe book would have helped her out.

The various meats we grow so tired of when served in a straightforward form can now be dolled up in such a number of different guises that the problem of variety in a menu is really no problem at all.

Sausages Great Aid.

Every woman who has a hungry family knows what a blessing sausage are in pepping up a languid menu. Combined with macaroni or noodles and baked in a casserole, they are delicious, though many women say the masculine praise goes chiefly to sausage "au naturel" fried just right and arranged grandly around a heaping drift of "mashed."

Bacon is another aid to a varied menu. Its familiar use with beans is too well known to mention. Some people don't realize, however, that the larger lima variety of bean is fully as delicious with bacon as the commoner navy kind. Cook bacon with onions and tomatoes, then combine it with rice to make a delightful "pilaf" that gets an A-1 rating wherever it is served.

Cold Meal Is Favorite.

The occasional cold meal is becoming an established custom in many and more American households. For only does the housewife or maid delight to serve an "easy meal" once in a while, but the family appetite will appreciate the variety supplied by a well chosen meat plate. Any cold meats you happen to have on hand can be used together with several of the finer flavored sausages, such as the liver sausage and braunschweiger sausage which you may buy under reputable brand names at any meat market.

The progressive meat packer is a great assistance to the housewife whose job is glorifying the American meal.

GEORGE RECTOR DISCUSSES THE JOYS OF EATING

Food Is Important, Even at Meals, He Says.

BY GEORGE RECTOR.

[Director of cuisine for the Milwaukee road.]

Food is an important accessory, especially at meals. No less an athletic authority than the late Charles Courtney assures us that eating is the greatest of competitive sports.

Napoleon said that an army moved on its stomach. As a reward for this culinary epigram, he had a piece of French pastry named after him. Bismarck never said anything about food but he had a herring named in his honor just the same.

The importance of food in history is readily be recognized when you realize that the Versailles delegates sat down to three dining tables and had one conference table a day. Although Diamond Jim Brady was probably the greatest amateur eater of many times he was not the originator of the habit.

A Tale of Diamond Jim.

Speaking of Diamond Jim Brady reminds me of the story that was told about him in New York. He was invited to the home of a lady in high society to dine. This lady, mindful of the fact that Diamond Jim enjoyed sea food and shell fish, saw to it that Mr. Brady would have his oysters, clams and lobsters.

During the course of the dinner his hostess remarked of the huge appetite that he had and was curious to know exactly when this marvelous appetite was sated. In reply Diamond Jim told his fair hostess that he always took it a point to allow four inches from his waist line to the table and when his waist line reached the table then he would move back four inches.

In the Olden Days.

Many centuries ago the world's greatest men strove for laurels at the table as pigs strive at the trough. A large and permanent paunch was considered the visible emblem of health and success. Thin and meager men were looked upon with suspicion, even as the "lean and hungry Cassius." While the fat flourished and grew content, the skinny and hungry waxed more and more attenuated.

The feeling of the starved against the satiated was summed up by John Ball in 1360 when he complained, "How have wife and spices and fair drink and we eat oatcake and drink and water to drink." So many must have been of John's opinion for they followed Wat Tyler in his rebellion. Before Wat got his chance to split up on wine and spices he had the honor of being assassinated by the lord mayor of London in the reign of Richard II. It was dangerous to criticize the cooking in those days.

The Origin of Cannibalism.

It is a terrible feeling to walk slugging into your own dining room every day, knowing just what is going to be served and seeking some way in which to avoid it. When the men of Africa started the neat habit of eating one another it was not so much because of the flair for cannibalism as a desire for a change from the chronic diet of plantains and bananas.

There was a theatrical boarding house not far from Rector's where the inmates called mutton 365 because they got in every day in the year. No wonder they went insane during the leap year, when they decided over that extra day, and disbanded their landlady with a barrel of greasy mutton chops.

Illinois Husking Contest to Be Held Early Next Month

Galesburg, Ill., Oct. 2.—[Special.]—The Illinois corn husking contest will be held the first week in November in Knox county, it was learned today. The Eugene Funk farm near Bloomington has been chosen for the site of the contest.

KNOWS HIS FOOD

George Rector, director of cuisine for the Milwaukee road, knows what men like at their meals, and he'll tell you what famous men of the past favored.

BEAU-TI-FUL SOUP—THICK OR THIN—HOW DO YOU PREFER IT?

The Mock Turtle who sang to Alice in Wonderland in the famous book of that name by Lewis Carroll, of "beauti-ful soup, Soup of the evening, Beau—ootiful, beau—ootiful, soup," may or may not have meant thick soups which have considerable nourishment in them. Methinks, since he sang of soup of the evening, he meant clear, pungent, tasty broths which serve so well to introduce a hearty dinner, and add to its dietetic value, too.

But who knows? Maybe he meant the other type of soup which is thick and nourishing because it has in it meat and vegetables, often rice and potatoes. This type may be served admirably either for the one hot dish at a home luncheon or at a dinner composed of "pickups" which might not be as ample as the family could wish, and which is more than amply compensated for with the addition of the delicious and nourishing soup.

Here are a couple of such soups which you may be interested in trying:

Italian Beef Soup—Cut one 12 ounce can of roast beef in small cubes, add to seven cups boiling water (or seven cups beef stock) with four bouillon cubes one 6 ounce can tomato paste, one-half teaspoon kitchen bouquet, and simmer gently for 30 minutes. Season to taste with salt and pepper and add one and one-half cups boiled macaroni (cut in short pieces). A very nutritious, full meal supper or luncheon soup. Yield: Eight servings.

Vegetable Chowder—Saute four tablespoons chopped onion and four tablespoons chopped green pepper in four tablespoons of butter for five minutes. Add one No. 3 can tomatoes, two teaspoons salt, two cups vegetable liquor (from carrots and potatoes) and simmer for 30 minutes. Add one cup cooked carrot cubes, two cups cooked potato balls, one-half of a 11 ounce can peas (with liquor), one cup canned corn, and simmer for ten minutes more. May serve with a spoonful of sour cream on top of each serving. Yield: Eight servings.

RAISIN PRODUCT OFFERS VALUE OF PURE MILK

BY JAMES LADAS.

[Ladas Malted Raisin Company.]

A new food discovery, in the form of malted milk and raisins is helping mothers to solve the problem of giving their children sufficient milk.

Raisins are rich in iron, as well as in other important minerals, and as a result, some people say that raisins and malted milk are more healthful than pure milk itself. This food can be served warm or cold and may be used in cake, cookie and bread recipes with delicious results.

BEATING A CAKE BEATS GOLF FOR GENUINE THRILL

Here's Adventure Right in the Kitchen.

BY META GIVEN.

[Tribune Food Editor.]

A big yellow bowl, an egg beater, a little flour and other inexpensive ingredients, a well trained oven and a familiar cake tin—with these a woman can turn out a creation, a work of art, in less time than it takes to get a manicure, or to play a round of miniature golf.

Comparable to the thrill of stealthily opening the oven door and sticking the clean end of a broom straw in the golden mass within the cake pan, is that of icing the cake. With the finishing touch, the last smoothing over of the icing with the silver knife, comes the sense of achievement that an artist feels when he stands back and surveys the finished canvas. This is a moment rare, which combines a feeling of pride with a sense of virtue as the housewife counts the pennies saved.

An Exciting Cake to Make.

Take the good old-fashioned marble cake, for instance, the recipe of which follows. This is a particularly exciting cake to make, with the dark batter and the light batter combining in unforetold designs of curves and shapes. No matter how it warms her heart when a guest—or her own husband, for that matter—praises its quality, the big moment of the creation comes when the baking is over and the cake is lifted out of the pan.

Of the following cake recipes that of golden cake is an expellent one to use when one is to have a few persons in for a plain and homely tea. Men like it. Fudge squares are simple to make. They are good with or without frosting. Lemon cake suggests Sunday night suppers in front of a crackling wood fire.

MARBLE CAKE.

For the White Part.	For the Dark Part.
½ cup butter	½ cup butter
1½ cup sugar	½ cup brown sugar
1 cup sour cream	4 egg yolks
2½ cups flour	1 cup molasses
½ tsp. soda	½ cup sour cream
½ tsp. cream of tartar	2½ cups flour
2 tsp. lemon extract	½ tsp. soda
4 egg whites	½ tsp. cream of tartar
	½ tsp. cinnamon
	¾ tsp. each mace, nutmeg and cloves

White Part: Cream the butter and sugar well together. Mix and sift the dry ingredients and add to the first mixture alternately with the sour cream. Flavor with the lemon extract and fold in the stiffly beaten egg whites.

Dark Part: Cream the butter and sugar, add the beaten egg yolks and beat well. Add the molasses. Mix and sift the dry ingredients and add to the first mixture alternately with the cream. Bake in layers, putting first a spoonful of light and then of dark batter in the pan. About half an hour in a moderately hot oven [375 degrees F.] will be required for baking. This cake may also be baked in a shallow loaf if preferred. It will, of course, require a longer time for baking. Yield: 24 servings.

LEMON CAKE.

¾ cup butter	¾ cup milk
1½ cups sugar	2½ cups flour
4 eggs, separated	1½ tsp. baking powder
1 tsp. lemon extract	¼ tsp. salt

Cream the butter and sugar thoroughly and add the egg yolks well beaten. Stir in the flavoring and add the dry ingredients mixed and sifted together alternately with the milk. Then fold in the stiffly beaten egg whites. Bake in well buttered layer cake pans in a moderately hot oven [375 degrees F.] for about twenty-five minutes. Yield: 12 servings.

For the filling use:

1 cup sugar	2 eggs
3 tbsp. cornstarch	Juice of 2 large lemons
1 cup boiling water	2 tbsp. butter

Mix the sugar and cornstarch well together and add the boiling water gradually. Beat the eggs, mix with the first mixture slowly and add the lemon juice and butter. Cook, stirring constantly, until it thickens. This takes about five minutes. Spread between the layers of the cake and cover the top and sides with a butter frosting.

FUDGE SQUARES.

2 tbsp. melted butter	1-3 cup milk
1 cup fine granulated sugar	½ tsp. vanilla
1 egg	1 cup flour
2 squares bitter chocolate	1 tsp. baking powder
	½ cup chopped nuts

Cream butter and sugar. Add unbeaten egg and beat until light and fluffy. Add chocolate that has been melted over hot water, then milk and vanilla. Sift flour, then measure. Resift with baking powder into first mixture. Add nuts with last few stirs. Spread ¾ inch thick in square or rectangular cake pan lined with waxed paper. Bake in a slow oven [325 degrees F.] a half hour. Cut in squares while warm. Frost with chocolate fudge frosting. Yield: 30 cookies, 2 inches square.

GOLDEN CAKE.

½ cup butter	1 tsp. baking powder
1 cup sugar	¼ tsp. salt
4 egg yolks	½ cup sweet milk
1½ cups flour

Cream the butter, add the sugar gradually and cream well together. Add the well-beaten egg yolks and stir thoroughly. Mix and sift the dry ingredients and add alternately with the milk. Half a teaspoon of vanilla may be added if a flavoring is desired. Turn into a loaf pan—this cake is especially nice baked in a square tin—and bake in a moderate oven [350 degrees F.] for about forty minutes. Yield: 10 servings.

CO-OPS SELL 95% OF MILK USED IN ILLINOIS CITIES

32,282 Farmers Belong to Associations.

BY PAUL POTTER.

A number of business like, farmer owned sales agencies have developed in Illinois in the last eight years, until today nearly 95 per cent of all fluid milk consumed in cities of the state is bought by milk dealers from coöperative marketing associations with a total membership of 32,282 dairymen. The coöperative groups' total annual business is in excess of $60,000,000.

Fostered by the Illinois Agricultural association, the state farm bureau organization, which reaches into every county, and the University of Illinois, dairy marketing groups have reached the point of stabilization in this industry. They point to improved quality of the milk they serve daily, at little if any increase in cost, as their paramount contribution to city consumers of Illinois.

Chicago the Key Market.

Chicago, the scene of many "milk wars" and "strikes" in years past, is the key market for these dairymen. With 16 nearby cities in its milk market area, this metropolitan population now gets 100 per cent of its milk through a farmer owned organization, the Pure Milk association. Illinois dairymen supply 60 per cent of this daily demand, the remainder coming from southern Wisconsin and northern Indiana.

St. Louis, the next largest user of Illinois milk, is just completing the organization of farmers, milk dealers, and civic interests, based largely on the methods proved successful in Chicago. A. D. Lynch, who has spent eight years with the Illinois Agricultural association developing the state's dairy coöperatives, this week was made manager of the Sanitary Milk association, composed of dairymen supplying the St. Louis market.

New Co-op Takes Field.

In recent weeks, a similar organization has taken over the selling for dairymen whose milk is consumed in Moline, East Moline, Rock Island, and Davenport. Farmers' organizations have been supplying milk for some time in Bloomington, Peoria, Canton, and Pekin, Springfield, Decatur, Champaign, and Urbana, Mattoon, Quincy, De Kalb and Pontiac.

Sixteen smaller cities in southern Illinois have not yet been brought within the scope of the coöperative milk sales agencies. Galesburg and Danville milk marketing is unorganized, but no demand exists at present for bringing nearby farmers into an association.

"We have taken time to develop this organization slowly, and on a strictly business basis," declares Mr. Lynch.

GOOD BREAKFAST IS GOOD WAY TO START GOOD DAY

Apple Fritters, Bacon Is One Good Menu.

Apple fritters with bacon! What more admirable way to start a day? A breakfast table spread with fresh linen, a bowl of flowers adding a splash of color, and, piping hot, a platter of apple fritters surrounded by brown strips of bacon; the whole would tempt a king.

Breakfast can be made the most delightful meal of the day. Any housewife who is wise knows this fact and values it. She knows that at breakfast her husband will appear, hungry, rested, and, if ever, eager to bestow praise where it is deserved.

How Not to Do It.

If she responds by serving him a dry and slightly chilly piece of toast, a tepid cup of coffee, and a greasy piece of bacon or a damp breakfast cereal and skimmed milk, the poor man doubtless will leave home bound for work without the feeling that he can and will conquer the world.

But if she plies him with apple fritters and bacon or waffles and sirup and sausage, or flannel cakes, home made preserves or sirup, and fried ham, with steaming hot coffee freshly made, and a seasonable fresh fruit, she is making him a better wage earner as well as a happier man.

Old Fashioned Cakes.

One old fashioned way of serving griddle cakes has found favor with many generations. It supplies not only a breakfast dish of importance but a possible Sunday night supper addition. A stack of the griddle cakes is buttered and on top of each buttered cake is sprinkled nutmeg and sugar. Then one may cut the stack in slices and serve them in that fashion.

APPLE FRITTERS.

2 apples
¼ cup sugar
4 tbsp. lemon juice
1 cup bread flour
½ tsp. salt
2 tsp. baking powder
1 egg, separated
½ cup milk

Core and pare apples, then cut in thin round slices. Sprinkle sugar and lemon juice over apples and let stand ½ hour. Mix and sift dry ingredients twice. Beat egg yolk and add milk. Combine dry ingredients with wet and blend together quickly, yet thoroughly. Cut and fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Dip apple slices in batter and fry in deep hot fat (360 degrees Fahrenheit). Drain on paper and serve with powdered sugar or sirup while hot. Yield: 6 servings.

WAFFLES.

1½ cups pastry flour
½ tsp. salt
3 tsp. baking powder
1 tbsp. sugar
1 cup milk
2 eggs
1 tbsp. butter, melted

Sift flour with salt, baking powder, and sugar. Beat eggs thoroughly and add milk and melted fat. Stir liquid quickly into dry ingredients. Stir until the flour just disappears. Pour only enough batter into hot, well greased waffle iron to fill, then bake to a golden brown. Just enough batter should be used to obtain a thin, crisp waffle. Serve hot. Yield: 6 waffles.

FLANNEL CAKES.

2 eggs
1 pint buttermilk
3 cups family flour
½ tsp. salt
1 tsp. soda

Beat the eggs and add the buttermilk. Sift flour and measure. Resift with salt and soda into the mixing bowl. Add the liquid, gradually beating until smooth. Pour batter into a wide mouthed pitcher. Bake on a hot griddle. Yield: 8 servings.

GRAHAM MUFFINS.

1 cup graham flour
1 cup bread flour
4 tsp. baking powder
2 tbsp. sugar
½ tsp. salt
1 egg
1 cup milk
2 tbsp. melted butter

Sift flour, then measure. Resift with other dry ingredients into mixing bowl. Beat egg until light, add milk and butter. Stir liquid quickly into dry ingredients in 18 to 20 seconds. If speed is used in this stirring it will be possible to moisten all the flour and give four or five extra stirs in this time, and fine textured muffins will result. Time and speed of stirring are most important. Pour batter instantly into oiled muffin tins. Bake in a hot oven (425 degrees F.). Batters made with alum baking powders (look on can) should stand a while before putting into oven. Depending upon size of muffins, baking requires 15 to 25 minutes. Compact and ill shaped muffins result from too much stirring. Yield: 12 medium sized muffins.

INFORMAL AND CHARMING, TOO

Suitable for serving breakfast a la buffet in the country is this cheery coffee or tea set of modern ware in white with bands of black, yellow, and green. The black linen table cover and the Mexican pressed glass fruit bowl add charm. An old punch bottle is used for the flowers.

If Your Menfolk Like Pies, Here Are Recipes to Try

If a census were taken to determine what is the great American institution, a large portion of the male population probably would answer in unison: "Pie."

Many a man can eat pie for lunch and pie for dinner, and some have been known to desire it as a breakfast dainty. And the average woman should learn how to become an expert at making some of the following kinds of pie:

APPLE PIE.

6 medium apples.
½ teaspoon salt.
1 level teaspoon powdered cinnamon.
¾ cup sugar.
1 tablespoon flour.

Peel, core and slice tart cooking apples. Sift together the salt, cinnamon, sugar, and flour. Toss apples in seasoning. Fill lower crust and dot over top with bits of butter. Place upper crust, pinch edges, bind with wet muslin strip and bake in a moderate oven for nearly 1 hour. Yield: 1 pie.

PUMPKIN PIE.

1 teaspoon ginger.
1 teaspoon cinnamon.
¼ cup hot water.
½ cup brown sugar.
½ teaspoon salt.
2 eggs.
1¼ cups strained pumpkin.
1 cup milk.
2½ tablespoons orange juice.
Plain pastry.

Make a smooth paste of the spices and water. Add spice paste, sugar, salt, and eggs to the pumpkin. Stir to blend thoroughly, then add milk heated to the scalding point and orange juice. Pour into pie tin lined with plain pastry. Bake in a hot oven [425 degrees Fahrenheit] 15 minutes. Then reduce heat to slow oven [300 degrees Fahrenheit] and continue cooking about 30 minutes or until filling is just set. Yield: 1 pie.

SWEET POTATO PIE.

3 large sweet potatoes.
2 eggs, separated.
½ teaspoon vanilla.
¼ teaspoon ground spice.
½ teaspoon salt.
4 tablespoons sugar.
Plain pastry.

COCOANUT TARTS.

½ cup butter.
1½ cups powdered sugar.
6 egg yolks.
3 egg whites.
1 teaspoon nutmeg.
2 cups grated cocoanut.
Pastry.

Cream the butter and sugar together thoroughly and add the egg yolks and whites, which have been beaten together. Then add the nutmeg and the cocoanut. Line small patty pans with rich pastry—puff paste may be used, although it is not necessary—

Boil sweet potatoes until tender, then peel and mash them until soft and creamy. Add the yolks of the eggs, the vanilla and spice and the salt and sugar. Mix well and spread about an inch deep on top of pastry which has been used to line a pie tin. Bake in a quick oven [425 degrees Fahrenheit] until the crust is brown, about 25 minutes. Make a meringue of the eggs whites and remaining sugar and spread over the top of the pie and return to the oven, which should be slow [300 degrees Fahrenheit] until the meringue is brown. This should be served hot. Yield: 1 pie.

CREAM PIE.

3½ tablespoons flour.
3 eggs.
1 1-3 cups milk heated to scalding.
½ teaspoon vanilla.
Plain pastry.

Mix flour and sugar, and put into and put in the filling. Bake in a moderate oven [350 degrees Fahrenheit] for thirty minutes. Yield: 6 servings. top of a double boiler. Separate egg whites from yolks. Set two whites aside for the meringue. Place the one white and the yolks in a bowl and beat with a rotary egg beater. Add milk. Then pour mixture onto flour-sugar mixture, stirring to blend well. Cook mixture 15 minutes, stirring constantly until it thickens. Then cover the pan. Stir occasionally and cook another 10 minutes. Cool and pour into a baked crust. Cover with a meringue and brown in a slow oven [300 degrees Fahrenheit] to the preferred color. Yield: 1 pie. Three-fourths cup shredded cocoanut or 2 medium bananas may be added to cream filling.

LEMON CREAM PIE.

¾ cup sugar.
4 tablespoons flour.
Pinch salt.
1 1-3 cups milk.
3 eggs, separated.
1 teaspoon grated lemon rind.
5 tablespoons lemon juice.
1 tablespoon butter.

Mix sugar, flour and salt in top of double boiler. Add milk slowly, stirring continuously. Beat egg yolks, add milk mixture stirring vigorously. Cook over water five minutes longer. Remove from fire, add lemon rind, juice and butter. Whip one egg white until stiff and fold into mixture. When cool pour into cool baked pastry shell. Cover with meringue made of two remaining egg whites, two tablespoons cold water, 4 tablespoons sugar, and ¼ teaspoon baking powder. Brown to the preferred color in a slow oven [300 degrees Fahrenheit]. Yield: 1 pie.

BUTTERSCOTCH PIE.

1 cup brown sugar.
2 tablespoons water.
5 tablespoons flour.
1 cup cold water.
2 egg yolks.
1 cup milk, scalded.
2 tablespoons butter.
½ teaspoon vanilla.

Boil sugar with 2 tablespoons water to a syrup. Make a smooth paste of floor and cold water. Add to syrup and boil 1 minute. Beat egg yolks, add milk and combine with sugar mixture. Cook in double boiler 10 minutes, then add butter and vanilla. Pour into cooled baked pie shell. Cool, cover with meringue made of 2 egg whites, 3 tablespoons sugar and ¼ teaspoon baking powder. Brown to preferred color. Yield: 1 pie.

KEEP EMERGENCY SHELF FOR THOSE HURRY UP MEALS

It's Great Help to the Housewife.

What to do when the clock points to fifteen minutes to dinner time and company arrives unexpectedly, or friend husband drops in for lunch without warning, is a problem difficult enough for the most expert of housewives to solve. But a delicious meal can be got together in almost no time if she who gets it keeps cool, collected, and depends upon her emergency shelf.

That emergency shelf is really a life saver for a fifteen minute meal. What can be done in a jiffy with a can of chicken a la king, a can of peas, a hurry up salad of lettuce, tomatoes if in season, and a cucumber, is remarkable. It takes only a minute to prepare coffee or tea and open a tin of delicious tea cookies. And lunch is ready.

If the housewife is fortunate enough to have a steak in the refrigerator for quick broiling, and some cold boiled potatoes, a can of asparagus or diced carrots, she has the basis for a fairly satisfactory emergency dinner. The emergency shelf will yield preserves, pickles or olives, and if there is no fresh fruit—berries or peaches to slice—again the trusty can opener may be summoned. Most housewives nowadays have specially constructed vegetable containers in their electric refrigerators that keep fruit and vegetables fresh for days, and there is little excuse for this container being empty with these fresh foods on the market the year around.

NOW THERE'LL BE BETTER WAITERS; SCHOOL STARTED

How and What to Serve Will Be Taught.

The perfect waiter that litterateurs have talked about and club and hotel diners have dreamed about is soon to be in the making in Chicago. He won't say "zup" and he will know what is meant by hors d'oeuvres. His French will be faultless and likewise the decorum with which he deftly and quietly performs the sacred ritual of the perfect table service.

For the first time in the history of this city, or this part of the country, for that matter, waiters from the best clubs and hotels will go to school to develop their calling into a profession. On Monday, Oct. 6, at 3 p. m. the opening class will meet, with about 80 enrolled. The same class will be repeated on Friday nights at 9:30 o'clock for those unable to attend in the afternoon.

The Teachers Are Ready.

The instruction will be given by teachers from public schools, hospital executives, head waiters, managers, and chefs. The classes are sponsored by the industrial relations department of the Chicago Urban league, the Chicago board of education, and the Waiters and Cooks' Progressive association. They will be held at the association's headquarters at 3659 South Michigan avenue.

"Fifteen minutes of the lesson period will be given to reading, writing, and arithmetic," explained Alonzo C. Thayer, chairman of the Urban league's industrial relations department, yesterday. "Vocabulary French will be taught to give the waiter a speaking acquaintance with the menu so that he can interpret it to the diner.

"The second fifteen minutes will be on dietetics, the lecture being mimeographed for the waiter's future reference. After the waiter has completed his eighteen week course in dietetics he will be expected to perform special service to the patron who is ill or who because of diet restrictions must have a specially prepared order.

Satisfying the Patron.

"If the waiter knows something of the chemistry of body and food he can suggest to his patron what to eat that will please his palate and also will be good for him."

Head waiters from Chicago hotels and clubs, hotel managers, and chefs will lecture on dining room decorum from the point of view of each, giving from their experience pointers on how to become the "perfect waiter."

At the end of the course, Mr. Thayer explained, the waiters will take an examination and be awarded a certificate.

Household Hints

When the screws on the kitchen cabinet or on other pieces of furniture become loosened and it is impossible to tighten them, remove the screw and insert part of a match stem. Cut off the remainder of the match, then put the screw back and it holds perfectly.

NOT NECESSARY NOW FOR WOMEN TO BAKE COOKIES

Ready at Almost Any Store.

BY D. S. BUSCHE.

[President Mama Cookie Bakeries, Division of the Mickelberry Food Products Co.]

People who spend most of their lives in comfortable city apartments agree contentedly that things are pretty convenient nowadays—and they are.

D. S. BUSCHE.

By plugging into a light socket we get our breakfast and our entertainment, tell the time, and sweep our floors. Bringing up our children is not even the struggle it was when we were being raised. Today women's magazines are filled with authoritative articles on infant feeding and child training. If, in spite of our precautions, the youthful "machinery" goes wrong, there are child specialists within reach of the nearest telephone to tell us what to do.

One of the greatest changes in this changing scheme of life has taken place in the food industry. Consider the unsanitary cracker barrel from whose mysterious depths we used to snitch samples when the grocer wasn't looking. Compare it with the sparkling cellophane wrapped cakes and cookies which may be seen but cannot be reached by air or prying fingers.

No individual business has done more to simplify the food problem than the up to date bakery. Greatly it has assumed the burden which housewives toiling in their kitchens far into the night.

POULTRY DEALERS MEET HERE IN YEARLY SESSION

Three Day Convention to Start Sunday.

Western shippers seeking outlets and buyers seeking supplies will get together in Chicago for a three day convention beginning Sunday, Oct. 5, as representatives of the wholesale poultry, butter, and egg dealers from every state in the Union, Canada, and Cuba gather at the Sherman hotel for the twenty-fourth annual convention of their national association.

The great bulk of the poultry, butter, and eggs produced in the United States changes hands in wholesale channels by this simple process, says L. B. Kilbourne, Chicago, president of the organization, who sees more than a convention in this annual gathering.

Cash Basis Used.

"The general public has been given to understand that these commodities are handled by commission merchants on the consuming markets. Years ago they were, but of late years the old time commission merchant has been gradually fading from the picture, and today the great bulk of these commodities is handled on a cash basis. The simple story today is that the shippers pay the farmers cash for their poultry, cream, and eggs, and the shippers in turn sell in cash or on contract to the city distributor on the basis of market values.

"It is estimated that the independent poultry, butter, and egg dealers of the United States have investments aggregating something over a billion dollars in plants, machinery, rolling stock, and other equipment and that they pay in cash to the farmers something over $4,000,000,000 annually for these products.

"No person knows what the farmers give in exchange for this money, but a general idea may be formed when it is known that arrivals on the New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, Boston, San Francisco, and Los Angeles markets for the year 1929 were over 450,000,000 dozens of eggs, 380,000,000 pounds of dressed poultry, and 680,000,00 pounds of butter. In addition the movement of live poultry to Chicago and New York alone exceeded 70,000,000 of heads, or, reduced to pounds, about 280,000,000 pounds."

Complex Problems Met.

Mr. Kilbourne finds these marketing enterprises not following simple sale and purchase lines, but that the industry through ramifications of concentration, processing, transportation, storage, and distribution enters into practically every complex problem that agitates the country.

He cites as an example the recent importation of fine quality turkeys into New York from Russia, all charges paid, and at several cents a pound less than the price at which they could be produced in the United States. It was ascertained that Russia was not particular about securing profits for the producer nor even production costs, Mr. Kilbourne says, but wished to establish credits in the United States for the purpose of taking agricultural machinery back to Russia. In April, 1930, he says, the incident was made known to congress for the purpose of obtaining higher tariff duties on poultry and eggs.

One of the functions of the National Poultry, Butter, and Egg association is to assist in trying to solve problems of this character, and some of them will be discussed at this convention. James E. Boyle, professor of rural economy at Cornell university, will explain the business situation and outlook; N. D. Lightfoot of Springfield, Mo., is to discuss the agricultural marketing act; Clara Gebhard Snyder of Chicago will tell about retail market research, and Thomas F. Heitz of the United States department of agriculture will demonstrate the application of federal standards and grades for dressed poultry.

FORMAL GRACE EXEMPLIFIED BY THIS TABLE

Calla lilies in their dignity and purity provide an effective centerpiece for this formal table with its old English pewter plates, antique girandoles, and heavy goblets of crystal.

TURKEY STILL IS FAVORITE FOR THANKSGIVING

But Other Meats Fit the Feast.

No gleaming silver, sparkling crystal and fine damask graced the board on that first Thanksgiving day 309 years ago. Upon lonely Plymouth hill the white man had invited the red man to the feast, and the red man had brought part of the food.

The feast didn't have much variety as far as dinners in celebration of a special occasion go. There was the venison the Indians brought, and succotash made from corn the red man had taught the white man how to raise, and wild turkey. What the menu included was not of special consequence. The real reason for the feast was the desire of the settlers, including Gov. Winthrop and Miles Standish, to give thanks for their survival from the hardships of that first terrible winter in the new land.

A Bountiful Feast.

While Americans have preserved to some extent the religious meaning of Thanksgiving day, the annual observance has come to center on a bountiful feast, often too bountiful for the comfort of those who partake.

The favorite dish still is turkey, because it was eaten on the first Thanksgiving day. However, there are other meats more inexpensive that can be prepared as deliciously.

Other Meats for Dinner.

Chicken, duck, and goose are as inexpensive now as they have been in years. There also are lamb and pork. All these meats may be prepared with real holiday stuffing and delicious gravy, and the customary accompaniments of cranberry sauce, pumpkin pie, fruits, and nuts. Every housewife who wishes to use her own originality can do so.

BAKED HUBBARD SQUASH.

Cut a squash in quarters and remove the seeds; bake in a moderately hot oven until tender. Scrape from the rind into a saucepan, add a large lump of butter, salt, pepper and 2 tablespoons cream. Mash until all the lumps are gone, then beat until light with a silver fork. Put in a deep vegetable dish, dot with butter and keep very hot until ready to serve. If care is taken in cutting squash in uniform sizes, the squash may be piled on shells in individual portions. The squash baked in the shell has a delicious flavor.

MOST BATHROOMS GET DAILY BATH; USE RIGHT CLEANER

C. A. KIRBY.
[Gold Dust Corporation.]

Bathrooms get so mussy, so quickly—that is why most dainty women give the bathroom a daily bath. This seems like a lot of work—and it is for the woman who has not discovered the easy way to keep the bathrooms spotless.

One danger in washing bathroom tile, porcelain, and fixtures is that the use of too mild a soap makes real scrubbing necessary.

Another common trouble is the use of a strong, scratchy cleanser that contains grit. Such a product does not even do a speedier job, because it usually leaves a deposit which must be washed off after the essential cleaning process is completed.

There is one product for bathroom use that is suited to the job. A mildly antiseptic powder, strong in cleansing power, it can be sprinkled on a cloth and used to tidy up at once without danger of scratching—without leaving any deposit upon the surface of beautiful porcelain. Used in solution, it dissolves instantly and provides a mild mixture for washing woodwork and floors and the more difficult parts of the bathroom that need but occasional cleaning.

It is wise to keep a package of washing powder in the bathroom because it is economical, speedy, and safe. Its antiseptic quality makes it especially desirable for the bathroom.

These Chicken Thieves Want 'Em Ready to Cook

Taking his shotgun, he went to investigate, but found no prowlers. Returning to the house, he found a thief had entered the kitchen and had taken two dressed chickens in a pan.

NEW TOUCH GOAL OF HOSTESS FOR MODERN DINNER

The hostess of today who looks for laurels in the fascinating art of entertaining is ever in search for "something different."

MISS TAYLOR.
[Home Economics Expert of John F. Jelke Co.]

She must find a new twist in decoration, such as edible favors, edible place cards and edible nut cups, which are neatly made with a rich and slightly sweetened pastry dough, shortened with margarine.

Novelty in menu ensemble is what she also seeks—a rainbow dinner menu, each course representing a different color scheme; a delicate color scheme menu, such as pink, harmonized with accompanying touches of green.

Style and color combination in the foods themselves must be the keynote of modern entertaining.

An easy but not expensive means to this end is the use of a good margarine. The woman who "knows her margarine" can use it effectively and appetizingly for countless varieties of open face sandwiches; she can concoct sauces that intrigue; she can make cakes and fancy pastries that bespeak the caterer's touch. Margarine will solve half the problems of new style entertaining.

HERE'S A RECIPE FOR CORN BREAD AS IT SHOULD BE

Don't Make It Sweet, Is Advice to Cooks.

There is no reason in the world why northerners should like corn bread. They don't know what it tastes like. The sweetish stuff, thick and dry and heavy as is customarily served in the north, is more like an unpalatable cake than it is like corn bread. It is made ruinous by sugar.

Not one grain of sugar should be used in corn bread. The cardinal principle of making corn bread is to preserve the taste of the natural corn. The nutty flavor is completely destroyed by adding sugar.

Here's How to Make It.

Here is a recipe for real corn bread, which will work admirably if the cook uses freshly ground white corn meal—never yellow meal.

Pour one pint of sour milk or buttermilk into a mixing bowl. Break an egg in it. Put in half a teaspoon of soda, or enough to make it foam, and one-half teaspoon of salt. Mix in enough corn meal to make a batter which will drop from the spoon easily—not a stiff batter. Put a heaping teaspoon of fat in each of the two pie pans. Put them in the oven to melt the fat. Remove and pour the fat out into the batter and stir it up. Pour the batter into the pans and bake in a moderately hot oven until a golden brown.

Corn pone is another southern bread which is little appreciated in the north. On chilly fall mornings such as Chicago has been, having recently, corn pone, split and buttered and doused with sorghum is a food that is never forgotten. It also is simple to make.

Sift together two cups of white corn meal and one-half teaspoon of salt. Put a lump of lard the size of a walnut on top. Pour boiling water over this gradually, stirring so that the mixture won't lump. Pour on just enough water for a very stiff dough. Take a small amount in the hands, and pat out into thin egg-shaped cakes. The imprint of the four fingers should be left in the cake on each side. Put in a greased pan and bake to a golden brown in a moderately hot oven. The cakes may be baked on a griddle as well, being turned like griddle cakes.

Greens Go with Corn Bread.

The thought of greens is associated with that of corn bread. There is no trick to cooking greens. But one should have an iron pot, and if possible, an iron pot that has seen hard service. In the pot put one-quarter pound of fat salt pork, and a large amount of cold water. Let it simmer on the back of the stove for an hour.

Have a mixture of turnip and mustard greens washed. Drop them into the boiling broth and let cook until the water evaporates, salting to taste. About two and one-half hours are required in all, from the time the salt meat is put on to the time the greens are served.

Another Southern Dish.

Another southern dish rarely found in Chicago, which is cheap, nourishing, and of distinct appeal to all southerners, at any rate, is the combination of fresh pork and blackeyed peas, otherwise known as cornfield peas.

PIE IS FAVORITE DESSERT; MORE SO IF LEMON CREAM

BY A. BOYD PIXLEY.
[Of Pixley & Ehler.]

America has made its pastry popular the world over. And of all deserts in this country none can compare with pie for favor. Lemon cream pie is one of the favorites.

Pie should be eaten often, because it helps to balance the diet. A piece of pie with its flaky, tender crust is an ideal ending to a meal.

Those who are reducing may well heed the advice of a nationally known food chemist, who recommends a generous vegetable salad followed by a piece of one's favorite pie. Such a meal satisfies the appetite without increasing weight.

There are other typically American desserts, but pie is, and will always continue to be, the most popular.

Here is the recipe we find most successful for lemon cream pie:

CRUST.

1 cup flour. ½ teaspoon salt.
⅓ cup lard. 3 tablespoons cold water.

Blend lard, flour and salt thoroughly. Add cold water, handle lightly, roll thin, put in tin and bake brown. (This will make one large pie or two small ones).

INGREDIENTS AND PREPARATIONS FOR FILLING.

Combine two beaten egg yolks, 4 tablespoons sugar, the juice and grated rind of one lemon, 1 small cup of milk, 1 tablespoon of flour well mixed with a small amount of milk and let boil about one minute or until thick. Fill the baked crust with this mixture. Beat two egg whites until stiff, fold in 4 tablespoons of sugar. Spread over top of pie and brown slowly.

Take two or three pounds of fresh pork—spareribs or backbone—wash and dry. Parboil the peas and throw away the water; again cover with cold water and cook until tender, but not until the skin is broken. Put the meat in a baking dish. Surround it with peas, over which their juice, and seasoning, is poured, and bake until the peas are thoroughly done and a delicate brown.

CRABMEAT GAINS POPULARITY ON AMERICAN MENU

Almost every nation is associated in the eyes of other nations with some item of food or drink which its own people regard only as a commonplace of the daily menu—roast beef for the English, spaghetti for the Italians, frogs' legs for the French.

If the Japanese, as a nation, have been associated with any special comestible, it has been either sake or rice. But within the last few years Japan has been establishing a new gastronomical fame in the United States, sending Japanese crabmeat to the American housewife.

This seafood comes to America from a semi-arctic country more than 10,000 miles away. Exceptionally clear water surrounds the frozen shores of northern Japan. The mountains, hills and valleys are covered with snow and ice, and when the season permits thousands of Japanese fishermen go to this area to catch crabs.

Household Hints

To keep cream of tomato soup or creamed tomatoes from curdling when the thickening is added, pour the tomatoes slowly into the thickening instead of the thickening into the tomatoes. This way one does not need to use soda which destroys the important vitamin B contained in tomatoes.

SCIENCE LISTS VEGETABLE SOUP, CHEAP BUT GOOD

Not Difficult to Make, Housewives Are Told.

A number of humble, cheap foods which are not in the least fashionable, are not held up by scientists as newly discovered ideal foods and are not discussed at women's clubs, nevertheless remain the choice of many average families who wish good, simple food at low cost.

Chief among these is vegetable soup. When properly cooked, chockful of green vegetables, it is a full meal in itself and the most savory in the world. Ravenous school children returned home for lunch, tired and hungry business men who like something hot and cheering at noon particularly are fond of it.

The reason why it is not used more widely is perhaps the nation that has sprung up among wives of this generation that vegetable soup is difficult to make. They prefer to open cans.

Paring of Vegetables.

There is some work to do—paring and dicing the vegetables. But what a thrill there is in cutting up carrots and breaking up beans and yes, even in dicing onions, and dropping them into the broth! This is not exaggerated. There is a peculiar satisfaction in it, and when the smell of the cooking vegetables, that blend of all of them, with celery in the lead, begins to be wafted out into the kitchen there is a definite delight in breathing it in. Somehow vegetable soup is different from all other foods—more clean and wholesome, closer to growing vegetables.

Here is the veritable garden which was purchased for exactly one dime yesterday in a cash and carry store on the near north side. A request was made for a dime's worth of "soup greens." The grocer handed over:

Two stalks of celery; a few sprigs of parsley; a green onion; a handful of green string beans; a handful of green peas, quite a good sized handful, too; a large sized carrot [or it may have been two small ones], any way, it made a liberal amount of the indispensable carrot], and a couple of leaves of cabbage.

Total Cost Only 38 Cents.

Soup meat, costing 28 cents, and a soup bone which the butcher added out of the goodness of his heart, composed the next purchase. Total expense, to date, 38 cents.

At home, the meat was washed and put on in cold water, salted, and allowed to cook for an hour. Then the vegetables, all washed and ready for the pot, the carrots, cabbage, onion, parsley and celery cut up, were added. More salt and pepper were added. Half an hour later, diced raw potato and a small can of tomatoes were added. Total cost by that time, not more than 48 cents. Half an hour later the soup was dished up. It served five persons.

Now let us sing the praises of another inexpensive dish, meat and macaroni and tomatoes. It is good only for cool or cold weather; and it is good then. With a fruit salad, it is an adequate meal for any family. It is also good served with a cranberry one. Here is the way:

Chop together six large white onions and one garlic clove. Take 2 teaspoons of fat and fry onions and garlic a light brown, stirring continually. Add one can of tomato. Brown rump roast of any size in a couple of tablespoons of fat. Add to tomato and onion and cook slowly in oven until meat is thoroughly tender. Use tightly fitting roasting pan. Salt to taste.

Garnish with Parsley.

Boil one box of macaroni in salted water until done, but no longer. Take meat out of gravy. Stir macaroni around in the gravy or sauce combined of the onions and tomatoes. Serve on a large platter, the meat in the center, the macaroni on the edges. Garnish with parsley.

A baked dinner with potatoes, onions, and carrots baked around an inexpensive roast, rump, or chuck, or better quality, as one pleases, makes one of the most savory dinners possible. Combined with baked apples, applesauce, or a pudding and a salad of lettuce or lettuce and tomatoes, it is a hearty and desirable meal.

Baked beans and brown bread, kidney bean salad, combining canned kidney beans with pickles and English walnuts and mayonnaise, a salad of grapefruit sections, chopped carrots, shredded cabbage and nuts; oven fried potatoes and Swiss steak, and codfish balls and escalloped tomatoes are suggestions for cheap dishes or combinations of dishes.

Dining Well Lost Art Now, Chicago Maitre d'Hotel Says.

As an epicurean, the diner in the best hotels and restaurants is something of a failure these days. His gourmand appetites are vanishing. The pleasures he once derived from a seven course dinner of fish, sauces, game and sociable old wine are memories now, for the war came along with its economy and the connoisseur lost his taste. Then prohibition removed wine and beer from the hotel table and with it the inspiration to good appetite and leisurely dignified eating.

A lament for the past and a criticism for the present was thus expressed yesterday by Frederick H. Muller, maitre d'hotel for the Blackstone and Drake hotels, in an interview on the changing styles in the demands of diners.

Diners Miss Wines.

"Diners are not enjoying their meals as they did when liquor accompanied the menu," Mr. Muller declared. "In the old days before prohibition, there was generally a cocktail preceding dinner, then a round of sherry and a round either of sauterne, Rhine wine, Moselle, claret, champagne, burgundy, and then the cordials. Diners enjoyed their food because wines helped to digest the meal, bringing a feeling of well being at a feast.

"It was no uncommon thing before prohibition to serve a dinner of fresh caviar, oysters, soup, relishes, imported filet of sole, sweet breads, new peas, ice, game, salad, dessert, cheese and crackers, coffee. Compare that with the menu of the present time which consists generally of oysters, soup, fish, entrée or roast, vegetable, light salad, dessert, coffee. The meal of former days cost from $5 to $10 without wines. Now a diner pays around $2.50 to $5 in the better hotels.

"It is a pity that prohibition has been forced on people and railroaded through without taking all things into consideration how it might turn out.

Cellar Keeps Him Home.

"Not long ago I met a prominent man whom we had missed as a diner for some time. When asked why he came no more he said he was on a diet to some extent, that he ate a light luncheon at a nearby small restaurant. In the evening he said he had dinner at home where friends were invited in and where some of the 'good old stuff' from the cellar could be served.

"In years gone by the majority of people were particular about their wines, and we were just as careful about serving the best brands as we were serving the best of food. Now the good old spender will hunt up a night club or speakeasy and pour anything that tastes like liquor down his throat. He will not break away from his habits."

The majority of connoisseurs have almost disappeared, Mr. Muller believes, with the exception of those who eat in their own homes where their food is served by their own cooks and liquors come from their own cellars.

Trained to Use Substitutes.

"During the war hotels were subjected to a severe test," Mr. Muller continued. "We were compelled to economize in foods, according to Mr. Hoover's instructions. Substitutions had to be used for wheat, sugar, meats, and many other food items. This had to be practiced every day, and each hotel was required to make out a report on economy. The public was trained to this diet and got used to it.

"This went on for some time. The connoisseur forgot his taste and accustomed himself to what he could get. When the war was over rich and poor alike had learned to eat the same kind of meals. The epicurean dishes were not so much in demand. Then prohibition came and no one could get beer or martini cocktails and champagne which generally inspires good appetite."

Hasty Eating Criticised.

Mr. Muller ended with a lament over the hustle and bustle of the average eater. He quoted the following statement made recently by a prominent business man:

"Being somewhat of a gourmet and something of a gourmand I have viewed with alarm the almost complete extinction of satisfactory places to eat and the substitution of the drug store restaurants and lady finger cafés. I am inclined to believe that these new eating habits have developed not so much because the American public has lost its appetite for good food, but because it is too impatient to eat at leisure with dignity and with gustatory satisfaction."

STABLE PRICES FOR VEGETABLES ARE EXPECTED

Crop conditions this month indicate less corn, buckwheat, apples and sweet potatoes, and more oats, barley, sugar, beets, peaches, pears and grapes, compared to 1929 yields. The national yield for barley is expected to be the largest on record, according to crop estimate compilations. The potato crop is estimated at 14 per cent below normal, as compared to last year, when it was eight per cent below normal.

Price changes are not expected to be drastic by farmer producers of staples such as potatoes and onions, for although the total of these crops is below other years, the presence of about an average supply of vegetables, on the whole, is expected to maintain a stable price level over all commodities.

CHAIN STORES AIM TO SIMPLIFY SHOPPING TASK

The chain store industry is studying the needs of the housewife in each channel of distribution in an effort to bring into one storeroom all the better merchandise.

Chain store grocers are considering whether or not they should put meat markets into their stores which would give the housewife the opportunity to buy all her food requirements at one time.

There are two ways to achieve this. One is to clean modern sanitary meat departments and the other is the use of frosted sanitary sealed meat packages. Both of these methods are now being tried.

The National Tea company is operating meat departments in one-eighth of their stores in Chicago and suburbs, and as soon as all problems of handling meats are perfected these departments will be put into many other stores.

In keeping pace with modern housewives, the chain stores have tried to make their storerooms attractive to the housewife. Many new stores which one might call food palaces have been opened by the Atlantic and Pacific Tea company and the National Tea company. There a housewife may purchase virtually everything for her table.

If you have a household hint or unique discovery you are willing to pass on to other housewives, send it to Sally Lunn, Chicago Tribune. Recipes are excluded.

DROUGHT CUTS WISCONSIN'S CANNING CROPS

Corn and Beans Suffer; Pickle Yield Higher.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Madison, Wis., Oct. 1.—[Special.]—The dry hot weather of August, succeeding the relatively dry month of July, further reduced the prospects of a number of canning crops, although some stood up very well, according to the crop reporting service of the Wisconsin department of agriculture and markets and the United States department of agriculture.

Wisconsin is the second state in the production of cucumbers for pickles, with a prospective production of 17 per cent of the nation's total this year.

Pickle Yield Better.

The estimated average yield per acre of pickles for the season is placed at 50 bushels from the condition as of Sept. 1, which is an increase of 19 per cent over last year. Dry weather was beneficial and an increase of 15 per cent in acreage, combined with the increase in yield has given Wisconsin a prospective total production of 848,000 bushels, compared to 475,000 in 1929, an increase of 79 per cent. United States production shows an increase of 51 per cent.

Prospects for canning beans have been reduced considerably by the hot dry weather. Sept. 1 estimates are for a production of 8,580 tons in Wisconsin, compared to 9,620 last year. Acreage is estimated at 8,580, as compared to 7,400. Present indications are that the yield per acre will be about 15 per cent less and production of canning beans in the United States about 13 per cent less than that of 1929.

Corn Prospects Poorer.

Sweet corn for canning also suffered greatly from adverse weather conditions during August, and prospects were reduced materially. Wisconsin's production of canning corn is estimated at 20,000 tons, compared to 24,400 in 1929. Although there has been a material increase in acreage of canning corn as compared to last year, unfavorable conditions of the season have combined to lower total production.

The sweet corn crop of the United States is estimated at 589,500 tons, or a decrease of 16 per cent.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

After a meal has been prepared there is likely to be an odor of cooking in the house. Try gently heating a teaspoonful of lavender seeds in a pan. The sweet aroma which arises delightfully dispells any unpleasant odor. These seeds may be purchased at any drug store. MRS. E. C. R.

CELERY CROP PLENTIFUL AND QUALITY FINE

Lansing, Mich., Oct. 2.—[Special.]—Celery shipped mainly to Chicago from more than 5,000 acres of muck land in Michigan this year will be plentiful in supply and above the average in quality, according to reports gathered in the office of the state crop statistician, Verne L. Church.

Centering around Kalamazoo, Decatur, Hudsonville, Byron Center, and Muskegon are fields from which celery growers anticipate a total production worth nearly $2,000,000 to the farmers and said to be certain of sale locally and in Chicago because of the reputation the celery has obtained through a system of careful washing and bunching which producers and shippers have followed for several years.

Prices are below a year ago, partly because of a somewhat increased acreage and total production of early and late celery and also because other vegetables are plentiful. Being on muck land there was less injury from drought than in the case of other crops, although dry weather reduced the celery yield of the early crop harvested in June and July in portions of Ottawa, Muskegon, and Kalamazoo counties.

"Harvesting in car lot shipments begins about the last of June and reaches a peak in October with shipping continuing in some years until the middle of November," reports Irvin Holmes, assistant agricultural statistician for Michigan.

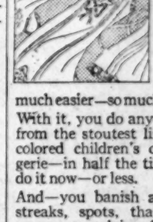
JELKE GOOD LUCK
MARGARINE

To take that gray look out of your wash.

BY MARY LEE WORK

An Easier Way To Wash Clothes —And Do Various Other Hard Jobs in Half the Time



Here's a new method of washing clothes that takes the drudgery out of washday. Everywhere you go, women are using it because it makes living so much easier—so much more worth while.

With it, you do any kind of washing—from the stoutest linens to delicately-colored children's clothes; costly lingerie—in half the time it takes you to do it now—or less.

And—you banish and avoid entirely streaks, spots, that ugly gray look women complain of. And fade of any kind.

In careful laboratory tests a man's blue shirt for instance, was washed 75 times without appreciable fade. This is probably twice the washing the average shirt gets before it is worn out.

How To Do It

You get a package of a preparation called Climalene at any grocery store for a dime. Put 2 tablespoonfuls in a washtub of water. Use the same kind of soap you ordinarily do. But use only ¼ the amount you now use. That is all. Then see for yourself the amazing results.

Climalene acts by making water—whether it is hard or medium hard—soft as rain water.

For that reason you use only ¼ the amount of soap you now use. And thus end "soap-eat" and fade of fine things.

Then, due to mildly cleansing properties of its own, it dissolves grime and dirt instantly, thus cutting washing time in half—either in the dishpan or washtub.

Shop With The Time Saved

Consider what you can do with the time you save. Thousands of women shop, go to the movies, enjoy life with the time they save this way. Do the things you now think only a woman with servants can do.

And have hands caressingly smooth and lovely. For Climalene acts as a beautifying agent to the hands.

Marvelous For Dishes, Too

You use Climalene too, to wash dishes in half the time and have them shine and sparkle marvelously—just as they do in shop windows.

Use too, to clean silver, to remove "bathtub ring", to make scrubbing, scouring, cleaning of all sorts, far simpler and quicker. Full directions come with every package. Try it. Find out what it can do for you.

MODEST HOME CAN OWN POWER ICE BOX NOW

Electric Refrigerators Bring Many Joys.

E. E. LEVY.
[President the Stover Company, Frigidaire Distributors.]

E. E. LEVY.

Thousands of housewives who previously never thought they would be able to enjoy the luxury of electric refrigeration are freezing desserts and salads these days in their new porcelain cabinets.

Introduction of low priced household models has brought the many advantages of electric refrigeration within the reach of hundreds of thousands of additional families, families where electric refrigeration once was considered too expensive.

The women in these homes of modest incomes are learning the delights of preparing their own frozen desserts and salads. The simple little regulating device enables them to tap the reserve power of their machines at will, to turn out the most elaborate of mousses and parfaits for the evening's meal with scarcely any trouble at all.

Independent of Weather.

Housewives everywhere during the last summer learned what a comfort a good electric refrigerator can be. When the mercury in many sections of the country went to record heights fortunate were the housewives who could go to their electric refrigerators and find not only an abundant supply of ice cubes, but that their evening's desserts had frozen despite the outside heat. Surplus power, built into every good electric refrigerator, made this independence of the weather possible.

The approach of winter weather brings reminder of a greatly changed public attitude toward refrigeration during the colder months of the year. Not so many years ago the first few snappy days of the fall season were the signal to thousands and thousands of housewives to cancel their daily ice order and to put their window boxes or back porch "refrigerators," which were to depend upon the weather all winter long for proper refrigeration.

Requires Proper Temperature.

Refrigeration experts, together with United States weather bureau officials, found that there are on an average of only 19 days in the entire year when the temperature provided by nature is satisfactory for refrigeration. This means that in only 19 days does the mercury remain within the boundaries of 32 degrees and 50 degrees Fahrenheit—established as the limits of safe food preservation.

When the temperature within the refrigerator rises above 50 degrees the growth of destructive mold, yeast and bacteria is promoted. Especially is this apt to occur in a "back porch" or "window box" makeshift refrigerator during fall or spring days, and occasionally during midwinter.

Equally destructive is a temperature drop below the freezing mark of 32 degrees. Some vegetables are almost completely ruined by freezing, and others are badly affected. Freezing breaks down the cell structure in meats and make for quick decomposition under warmer temperatures that might follow.

Seen As Necessity.

All year refrigeration is recognized now as a necessity. There is much truth in the statement that it is "summer in the kitchen the whole year around," for the heat from the range keeps that part of the home always warm. The same high quality of refrigeration is needed in the winter time as in the warmest part of the year.

Although fall and winter months are not so apt to see the preparation of as many frozen desserts and salads as came from the freezing chambers of electric refrigerators during the record breaking heat waves this summer, there are many times when a bridge party or dinner would be enhanced by an ice or some other frozen delicacy that can be easily made from menus prepared by domestic science experts who have experimented in these matters.

New Discovery Makes Children Love Milk!

Health authorities agree that growing children need a quart of milk a day—yet few children drink that quantity willingly.

But now, thanks to the discovery of a persistent chemist, it is possible to make children beg for milk simply by mixing with it a small quantity of powdered "Malted Raisins."

The resulting mixture is delicious—a delightful drink! Children love it—and grown-ups, too. "Malted Raisins" does not over sweeten milk—and hence stimulates rather than deadens the appetite for other foods.

And most important, it is more nourishing and healthful than pure milk itself—because "Malted Raisins" supplies the vital IRON that milk lacks, as well as other important health values.

You can secure "Malted Raisins" in 1 lb. or ½ lb. containers at your grocer or druggist. Also served as a malted drink at soda fountains. Try it today.

HERE'S A NOVEL TOUR OF WORLD VIA COOK BOOK

Races Vary as Their Foods.

What food and drink a people live on has much to do with what national character it develops, it might be contended. What, for instance, would the Englishman be today if his ancestors had not been nourished with leg of mutton, puddings, stuffed goose, and roast beef?

Would the Frenchman be less French if he had generations of sauerkraut lovers in the background? Would the Chinese be less enigmatic if they devoured the simple potate instead of rice? Would the Mexicans care less for revolutions if they were not brought up on enchilades?

In an old English cook book recipes for bag pudding and hot pot, cabbage-lettuce pye and "a pease soup maigre," as well as the king's favorites, jugged hare [in which the hare was steeped and cooked in port wine], chaudfroid of larks, pigeon pye, roast quails, Haricot mutton and rum omelet, suggests the life of the period. Peas were cooked with a sprig of mint in them. A favorite salad was cauliflower salad, made with the chopped white of a boiled egg and the sieved yolk, with quartered tomatoes.

Some French Recipes.

Typical French recipes included in a little book called "Favorite Recipes of Famous Chefs," by Emma C. Caron, are those for "Canape Princesse" and "Egg Jean Bart" by G. Ninlias, chef of the Grand hotel of Paris.

"Make sandwiches of very thin slices of rye bread, using minced chicken and chopped black walnuts, mixed with mayonnaise, for filling. Serve with a thin slice of dill pickle," is the recipe for the former. For the latter: "Hard boiled eggs cut in two lengthwise. The yolks are scooped out and the whites filled with chopped shrimps and mussels, mixed with a cold coral sauce. Border edges of egg with yolks chopped and mixed with chopped herbs."

A. Chaumeix, chef of the Restaurant Paillard of Paris, supplied suggestions for "Salade Josanne" and "Hearts of filet of beef Massena." The salad is of asparagus tips, mushrooms, bananas and celery, cut in julienne strips and served with a dressing of sweet cream, paprika, and lemon juice. The latter: "Grill filets on bases of artichokes, one for each person. On the hearts place slices of marrow. Serve with marrow sauce."

A section is devoted to foreign menus and recipes in the "Zeta Tau Alpha Cook Book," compiled by that sorority's alumnae chapter of Northwestern university. For an English dinner the following menu is suggested: Queen soup, Cornish pasties, brussel sprouts or baked mushrooms, Indian rice, plum pudding or high church pudding and tea.

Cornish pasties are tasty, highly seasoned affairs which have been a standby with the Cornish people for centuries. The recipe:

½ cup shortening.
1 teaspoon baking powder.
3 cups flour.
1 cup ground steak.
¾ cup chopped potatoes.
2 tablespoons chopped onion.
2 tablespoons stock or water.

"Mix shortening, baking powder and flour; add enough water so dough may be rolled out. Cut into rounds and spread each with the other ingredients mixed together. Close over each round, press edges, brush with egg and place in hot oven for ten minutes, then lower the temperature and bake one-half hour."

Swedish Dishes.

Another Swedish recipe which a patron of the Swedish arts brought back to Chicago after a visit in Sweden last summer, is for the delicacy known as "Koldomar." It should be made as follows:

½ cup boiled rice [it should be boiled in milk].
¾ lb. ground round steak.
1 egg.
Salt and pepper.
Large leaves of 1 cabbage.

Chill the rice and mix with 1 beaten egg, salt and pepper. Mix in the steak. Boil the large cabbage leaves until soft. Place enough of the mixture in the center of each leaf to make a good sized roll. Roll the leaf around it and tie with string. Fry in butter. After frying, turn the fire lower, put a lid on the pan and let simmer 20 to 30 minutes.

Another Swedish Recipe.

A recipe for Swedish apple meringue is suggested in the Zeta Tau Alpha cook book as follows:

12 to 15 apples.
1½ cups sugar.
1½ tablespoons butter.
½ lemon juice and rind.
3 egg whites.
5 tablespoons sugar.
¼ cup almonds.

"Pare apples, cut in eighths and remove the cores. Place apples in a pan over the fire with the butter, sugar, grated rind and juice of lemon and heat slowly until apples are soft. Beat the egg whites until stiff and add the sugar to them gradually. Put the apples in a buttered baking dish and spread the egg whites over them. Blanch the almonds, cut in long strips and stick into the egg whites. Bake in a moderate oven until a golden brown. Serve hot or cold with whipped cream."

Chinese Luncheon.

A Chinese luncheon of egg foo-young or chicken chow mein, fried bean sprouts, Chinese almond cakes and tea is suggested. The sorority cooks give the following recipe for the cakes:

4 cups flour.
1 cup lard.
1 cup sugar.
5 eggs.
¼ teaspoon soda.

"Cream sugar and lard; add beaten eggs and flour sifted with the soda; mix well. With the hands roll the dough into balls the size of a walnut, then press them flat. Put an almond in the center of each cake, and bake ten minutes on floured tins in a hot oven."

Typical of a German dinner is the suggestion made in the same book of soup with marrow balls; German veal roast with German cabbage, potato salad; Heidelberg torte and coffee. For the cabbage, slice a medium sized cabbage, place 2 tablespoons lard in a kettle and when hot add the cabbage and onion. Cover and cook slowly over a low fire until cabbage is tender, but not browned, about 20 to 25 minutes. Season and serve with roast.

PEAR CHIPS.

8 pounds pears.
4 pounds sugar.
¼ pound Canton ginger.
4 lemons or 6 limes.

The pears may be wiped clean or peeled. Remove stems and blossom end, quarter, core and slice thin. Add sugar and ginger and let stand over night. In the morning grate the zest of two of the lemons, then peel the white from them all carefully. Quarter and seed lemons; cut into small pieces; add to pears and cook slowly in preserving kettle for three hours, or until of the consistency of marmalade. If the ginger is omitted, the pears and limes also make a delicious marmalade.

Pewter in a Combination Role

This informal lunch or breakfast table shows how the smaller items of tableware may be allied with the more important pieces. The butter plates and salt and pepper sets of pewter are well matched, with the Spode plates edged in purple luster and the crystal compotes with pewter bases, harmonize with the square based crystal glasses. The cloth is lavender damask.

MALTED MILK TABLETS BOON TO MANY FLYERS

Are Important Where Weight Matters.

[President Horlick Malted Milk Company.]

Perhaps in the future the malted milk tablet will contribute quite as much to human welfare and happiness as has malted milk. Food in a very highly concentrated form has grown to be a necessity in many of the phases of modern life. For arctic explorers great nourishment in small volume is as of as much importance as proper footgear or the problem of transportation. The very lives of many men may depend upon the weight, or lack of weight, of food.

Practically every polar explorer since Andre and Nansen have carried these tablets with them. Byrd took tablets with him, and also malted milk in great quantities, as also have Peary, Amundsen, Steffanson, and Scott.

Flyers also consider this modern ration as an essential part of their equipment. With them they find that they cannot only carry a great amount of nourishment in a small compass but they also find that the tablets help to allay thirst and quickly satisfy the pangs of hunger.

Also hunters, shoppers, golfers are buying these small flasks of tablets in great quantities. Their convenient form makes them particularly suitable for carrying in pockets and purses.

And the children like them so well that they are rapidly becoming a real factor in the confectionary trade. Highly compressed malted milk, either in its natural state, or with chocolate flavor, makes a very palatable sweetmeat indeed and it has the added advantage that it is perhaps higher in nutriment value than any other food of the same volume in all the lists.

THERE'S STILL A LOT OF FUN IN TAFFY PARTIES

Old Fashioned "Pulls" Great on Cold Night.

With the tang of autumn in the air, frost sparkling on the housetops as the morning sun topples the horizon, brisk, invigorating breezes to snap one into the day's hundred tasks, comes an awakening from the lethargic hangover of hot summer weather. When the last dish is put aside, clean and bright after the evening meal, what then? And so to bed?

The golden time of the day for most households is evening. One cannot go to the theater, out to dinner each night and still enjoy the pleasures of one's own hearthfire. Many families overlook the possibilities of home gatherings when friends or neighbors may drop in casually for a round of bridge, or an evening of bright chatter, or a small home party for the younger members of the family.

How About the Taffy Pull?

Has the old fashioned taffy pull or fudge party gone out of date? This generation's parents will remember as some of the happiest occasions of their youth, those frosty nights when the crowd met at Nellie's or John's house for a taffy pull.

Taffy is just as good now as it ever was, and you, parents, who want to give your 10 to 16 year olds a treat, instruct them in the gentle art of taffy parties.

Try This Recipe.

Here is a recipe that will delight the most ardent sweet tooth.

PULLED WHITE TAFFY.

4 cups sugar.
1 cup boiling water.
2 tablespoons vinegar.
2 teaspoons butter.

Put all the ingredients into a sauce pan. Stir until the sugar is dissolved. Boil until it cracks when tested in cold water [250 degrees F.]. Pour into a well greased pan. Cool quickly, and as soon as it is cool enough to handle, pull until white.

And here is a recipe for fudge that should not sugar if it is properly made. What is more, it will only take ten minutes to make it from the time you get out the materials until it is cooled.

TEN MINUTE FUDGE.

2 cups sugar.
Pinch salt.
1½ squares bitter chocolate.
¾ cup water.
½ cup evaporated milk.
2 teaspoons corn sirup.
½ teaspoon vanilla.

Put the first six ingredients in a sauce pan and boil rapidly to soft ball stage [236 degrees F.], stirring constantly. Set pan in cold water and start beating at once. When the mixture begins to crystallize, add vanilla, then turn quickly into a buttered pan. Time required for making: 10 minutes. Yield: 1¼ pounds.

Piping Hot Refreshment.

If the party is a very small one for the elders, here is a "different" refreshment served piping hot out of the oven that should take little time to prepare if the emergency shelf is well stocked.

Cut bread in rather thick slices and trim off the crusts. Toast lightly and butter. On this spread a layer of tuna fish blended with mayonnaise. On top of that put a thick slice of tomato, then three short slices of broiled bacon and a dab of mayonnaise. Decorate with a half of a deviled egg cut lengthwise and cover with mayonnaise, dabbing it around the sides also. Garnish with a stuffed olive and bake until the dressing bubbles a little and almost covers the sandwich. Don't let it brown. This served with coffee makes a delightful refreshment. The hostess who entertained her small sewing or bridge club might add a salad, cake, and her favorite parfait.

TWO RECIPES FOR QUICK, APPETIZING ONE DISH DINNERS

Now the time is coming when we hope to be "in a stew," not in the accepted sense of the term meaning to be in trouble, but in the accepted sense of the small boy, who would "dive" into his food with the undiscriminating tactics of a savage if he were not restrained by the inhibitions of society. And stews may be very delicious if made properly, and they do contain a great deal of nourishment.

Here are three stews which may be made rather quickly.

And now that the weather is getting cooler they may be used by the housewife for hot luncheons for the children, or to constitute the hot dish for a quick dinner when she has been away for the day or for some reason has to get dinner in a very short time.

Chicken and mushroom stew with rice: Saute two 8 ounce cans of mushrooms in four tablespoons butter for five minutes. Melt two tablespoons butter, add two tablespoons chopped onion and saute three minutes, then add one tablespoon curry powder, four tablespoons flour and stir smooth. Add mushroom liquor slowly, then two cups milk, stirring constantly until creamy and thick. Add one teaspoon lemon juice and season to taste with salt. Add to the mushrooms. Add one 12 ounce can of chicken left in large pieces and stew very gently for 5 to 10 minutes. Pour out onto a platter and surround with a border of fluffy boiled rice. Yield: 6 servings.

Beef stew with dumplings: Add twelve small onions to two tablespoons drippings and saute gently for a few minutes. Add two large potatoes cut in pieces and saute a few minutes longer. Add two cups boiling water, two teaspoons salt, one-eighth teaspoon pepper, two teaspoons kitchen bouquet and cook until potatoes and onions are almost tender. Add two cups tomatoes and one 12 ounce can roast beef left in large pieces. Mix two tablespoons flour and two tablespoons cold water and add to thicken. Cook all together for about 5 minutes. Then drop soft baking powder biscuit dough made without shortening on top, cover tightly and steam 20 minutes. Yield: 6 servings.

GAYETY RETURNS TO THE KITCHEN AS IN OLD DAYS

Bright Colored Pots and Pans in Vogue.

In former days the kitchen was a spot of great cheer, with a smoke-blackened fireplace, or a huge wood stove, and rows of shining kettles of copper, vessels of pewter, and well-stocked shelves. Although vastly different in proportions and equipment, the modern kitchen is coming into its own. It is smaller, but gayer, than it has been for a long time.

In many kitchenette apartments the kitchen claims its former privilege as a place where persons foregather to dine. This means that an effort must be made to make the kitchen decorative, as it formerly was. Although copper is too expensive these days to use for kettles, pots and pans and teakettles now come in Chinese red, bright blue, bright yellow or light green.

New Linoleum Is Popular.

The floor that formerly was scrubbed white, the large planks worn and of uneven width, now is covered with linoleum in cheerful shades and patterns. There is an immense vogue for linoleum at present. It comes in charming patterns and in light, gay colors. The new linoleum is fascinating, and utterly different from the old-fashioned linoleum of heavy designs and dark colors.

Many young couples buy their table and chairs unpainted for one corner of their kitchen-dining room combined, painting the articles themselves. Blue and yellow, yellow and black, a soft buff-orange and green, yellow and red, green and white, and other combinations are used as kitchen color schemes.

Pottery Has Its Beauties.

Pottery in lovely shapes and colors is now obtainable at all department stores in reasonable prices for the kitchen. A nest of three bowls, the largest one a fine size for a mixing bowl, and their shape one of real artistry, sold for $1.00. Mixing waffle batter in that bowl would please any woman who likes beauty and cleanliness; and who has a sense of the creative. These pieces of pottery give a kitchen real artistic value.

Some woman writer once said that a kitchen wall, hung with bright pots and pans, beneath them a pitcher and a bowl, made a charming still life. A woman can plan her kitchen as one large still life, and spend little money withal.

SHORTBREAD.

Cream 1 cup of butter and 1 cup of light brown sugar. Add 2½ cups of pastry flour. Add as much more flour as you can work smoothly into this mixture. Mix with the fingers until so stiff that it can be patted thin, about ¼ inch thick. Cut into shapes before baking in a very slow oven.

BY CONNIE PEGLER STREET.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 2.—A little smile, a little tear; that's what makes up the game of life and it's the same in baseball—you can't win them all.

Mind you, we do not feel discouraged nor are we downhearted. If you will recall I said in one of my early predictions that we did not hold our opponents lightly, but expected mighty stiff opposition and a fight for every inch of each and every ball game of such a blue ribbon event as makes up the annual autumn setto of the national pastime.

And my prediction has come true thus far just as I predicted in advance before President Hoover tossed out the old "apple," which sent the boys away in their grapple for the highest titular honors within the power of America's greatest sport, baseball.

It Was a Heartbreaker.

Fans, I am here to tell you right now in all frankness that was a heartbreaker to lose. I don't mind telling you that we didn't feel any too good about it, because you must remember when a high strung and closely knit baseball aggregation is out there on the ball field, fighting with the eyes of the loyal multitude on you and pulling for you to win, it is a terrific strain which is bound to tell in the long run.

But, folks, there is a silver lining to every cloud and I want to point out how a defeat is sometimes the best thing in the world that can happen to you in the early stages of an evenly matched struggle. Naturally, my boys were out there to win four straight if possible, but you always have to remember that there are two ways of looking at everything.

Oftentimes you will find that a team does not fight their best until they have got their back up against the wall, facing the foe in a fighting stand for victory. The morale of our club is bound to react of its own momentum because that is what they have been doing all along when the going has been hardest, and the clouds were darkest.

Don't Let Foes Get "Jump."

I don't mind confessing to you that, personally, I learned a great deal so far and that is to instruct my pitchers to be very careful and to not underestimate the prowess of murderers' row and pitch to their weakness at all times, thus preventing them from getting the "jump" on us. I think, in fact I know, you will soon see a vast difference in the tactics of my combination.

Everything seemed to go against us. The wind was so hard that our outfielders could hardly get under the ball and when they did get under it they were not always able to get it on account of the high velocity of the wind, which seemed to have a fatal knack for being against us in each and every crucial moment and, strange to say, although I have often seen it happen in the course of many campaigns, the wind seemed to die down when we were poling out fly balls which should have really been hits and safe ones, too.

Another thing, too, I want to go on record right now that our pitching was by far the superior but the umpiring behind the plate could have been better. They have been missing quite a few on our boys but, mind you, I am not registering a "kick" with regards to the work of the arbiters. Because let me put myself flatly down in black and white before I go any further as saying that in no other walk of American life will you find a more upstanding, honest, home loving, fine bunch of men than goes to comprise the umpire system of organized baseball, even including the minor leagues which are the nursery of baseball.

Umps Ball Players' Friend.

They see things as they see it and they call them without fear or favor and with prejudice toward none. They are the ball players' friend, and, although they sometimes have their spats every now and again, as happens even in the best regulated families, that is only because both players and umpires alike are high spirited and upstanding men who are constantly on the qui vive and therefore may lose their temper in the heat of crucial combats.

I feel a great responsibility because I know the little sand lot phenoms

They're Not So Carefree and Jaunty in Cards' Dugout Now

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 2.—(AP)—The hopes of the Cardinals are tumbling, confidence is seeping away, and the carefree "let's get at 'em" spirit of the Red Birds is giving way to a mild case of shell-shock brought on by the thunder of the Athletics' siege guns.

The Cardinals stumbled up from their underground dugout after the last putout of the second game of the world series like a squad of rookies emerging from a week in a shell-battered trench. They trotted into their dressing room with heads down and tongues silent, a wondrous awe in their faces at the carnage just behind them.

Only Adams Is Hopeful.

Only little Sparky Adams, the mite third baseman who got his hit and turned in one of the fielding gems of the day in throwing out Jimmy Dykes at first in the opening inning, had a word of hope as he trotted into the dressing room.

"We've just got to beat them in St. Louis, that's all," muttered Sparky, but there was more desperation than confidence in his face.

Gabby Street, loquacious pilot of the flock, was as close to absolute silence as he ever gets. There was a glint in his eyes that probably meant some one was going to hear uncomfortable things once that dressing room door closed and he was alone with his team.

"They just beat us, that's all," he said. "Earnshaw pitched better ball than Grove did yesterday. We made some mistakes and they hurt. We aren't getting any hitting from the top of the lineup. That hurts, too. Bill Hallahan will pitch the first game in St. Louis."

Macks Generous with Praise.

Down the runway that led to the Athletics' dressing quarters every one was trying at once to pat the shoulders of "Big George" Earnshaw, Micky Cochrane, Al Simmons, and Jimmy Foxx. Connie Mack ducked the celebration and scooted away to his retreat in the club tower as fast as his long 67 year old legs would carry him.

The A's, while hardly a bashful lot, all were eager to pass along the honors to some one else.

"Earnshaw was marvelous today," Mickey insisted. "He had his fast ball working perfectly. It was a bit dark down there and once we found the Cardinals couldn't hit his speed. I didn't call for much else. My home run? A curve ball on the outside, a little low."

Earnshaw was very happy, but winced when some one patted his right shoulder. It seemed sore after the day's work.

"I just kept burning them in there and they couldn't hit them," he said. "Those Cardinals can hit, but it was too dark for them today. I did not hurt myself much when I took Foxx's throw at first on Watkins in the sixth. I just fell over my own big feet. I'm naturally clumsy."

Just Another Ball Game.

To Connie Mack it was just another ball game and not a very exciting one at that. Baseball, to the tall tactician, is like playing bridge. Some hands are easy to play and some are hard. Today's played itself.

"The hitting of Cochrane, Simmons, Foxx, and Dykes, and the pitching of Earnshaw, especially in the pinches were the features of the game, but they were just what I expected. Frankie Frisch was the only Cardinal who looked like a batsman and he had a little luck. Watkins' homer was a real smash."

Connie thought the fielding gem of the day was Dykes' catch of Frisch's liner to double up Adams at first in the eighth.

"Jimmy always rises to the occasion, either at bat or afield," he said. "If Frisch's liner had gotten away it might have meant some runs. It was hard luck for Frankie. He was very much in the game."

The Athletics' leader had a good word for the manner in which Street has handled the Cardinal club in the two games here.

"He was perfectly correct in removing Lindsey, no matter how good ball he was pitching, because what he needed was runs, not pitching, at the moment," Mack said. "Street has made no mistakes. Unfortunately he can't make hits for his players."

BEARS DEFEAT MILWAUKEE PRO ELEVEN, 26 TO 0

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 2.—[[Special.]—The Chicago Bears of the National Professional Football league beat the Milwaukee Badgers, 26 to 0, here tonight. Joe Sternaman, Brumbaugh, Harold and Garland Grange scored the victors' touchdowns. The Milwaukee team never advanced beyond the invaders' 21 yard line.

Football at Yale Brings in Revenue of $1,164,964

New Haven, Conn., Oct. 2.—(AP)—Football, with more than a million dollars gross income, paid all athletic operating expenses and considerable property accounts at Yale in the fiscal year ended June 30 last. This was shown tonight by the report of Harold W. Woodcock, general manager of Yale Athletic association. The football figures were $1,164,964.38 income, $528,730.94 disbursements, and $636,233.44 net.

DRAKE, OREGON PLAY TONIGHT ON SOLDIERS' FIELD

Probable Lineup

OREGON.		DRAKE.
Fletcher	L. E.	Briley
Christiansen	L. T.	Blanck
Schultz	L. G.	Bowers
Forsta	C.	Don Carlos
Colbert	R. G.	Sullivan
Hall	R. T.	Kohjohn
Bailey	R. E.	Olson
Erdley	Q. B.	King
Kitzmiller	L. H.	Brewer
Watts	R. H.	Van Koten
Moeller	F. B.	Iverson

Oregon and Drake football teams will meet at 8:15 o'clock tonight at Soldier's field. Both elevens arrived in Chicago yesterday and worked out on Soldiers' field in the afternoon. Neither Dr. Clarence Spears, Oregon's new coach, nor Ossie Solem of Drake, was certain of his starting lineup, but it is predicted that neither will spare weight on the line.

The game will be played under 300,000 watt lights. The night game will be no novelty to either eleven, Drake being the pioneer of these contests in the west.

It will be the third game for Oregon and the first for Drake. After beating Pacific, 20 to 0, without yielding a single first down, Oregon trounced Willamette, champion of the Northwestern conference, 51 to 0, in a night game. Only two first downs were made by Willamette.

Oregon is expected to depend mostly on power plays, while the lighter Drake team is expected to go in for deception and open plays, with forward passing playing an important part on each team's attack.

IOWA FIGHTER DIES DURING BOUT AT CEDAR RAPIDS

Cedar Rapids, Ia., Oct. 2.—(AP)—Battling Nelson, veteran Waterloo welterweight boxer, died in the ring here tonight. As the fifth round of the semiwindup, in which he was fighting Kid Leonard of East Moline, Ill., came to an end, Nelson collapsed and death followed almost immediately.

Nelson has been fighting in the welterweight division throughout the middlewest for five years or more and was one of Iowa's leading pugilists. He was about 25 years old. The show went on without confusion and saw Sammy Mandell of Rockford, former world's lightweight champion, administer a ten round beating to Spug Meyers, Chicago campaigner. Mandell won all but one round.

BURKE TO HELP McCARTHY WITH NEW YORK JOB

Ex-Cub Leader Confers with Ruppert Today.

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 2.—[Special.]—Despite denials that Joe McCarthy, former Chicago Cub manager, had signed or accepted terms with the New York Yankees, it is a practical certainty that the former favorite of Wrigley field will have charge at Yankee stadium next season. McCarthy has not yet signed a New York contract, but he will sign one before the end of the week, it is understood.

"Marse Joe" will not go west for the remaining games of the world series. He went to New York tonight for an interview with Col. Jacob Ruppert, owner of the Yankees, tomorrow morning. It is understood that Jimmy Burke, coach of the Chicago Cubs, will come to the Yankees with McCarthy.

Keeps Boston Owner Waiting.

McCarthy held a conference here last night with Bob Quinn, Boston Red Sox owner, who is most anxious to have him come to Boston. McCarthy admitted that Quinn took his breath away with his offer. Joe's salary in Chicago was $30,000 a season. He refused, however, to give Quinn an answer, or even any definite encouragement.

According to the former Cubs' pilot, he never has talked to Ruppert but has had a telephone conversation with Ed Barrow, Yankee business manager, who told Joe not to do anything until he had a chance to talk to the Yankee colonel. With his chance to pick his job between New York and Boston, there is little doubt that McCarthy will select the bigger field.

NEWS TO VEECK.

William Veeck, president of the Cubs, said last night that he had no intimation that Jimmy Burke, Cub coach, intended to leave the club to join Joe McCarthy if the former Chicago manager signs as pilot of an American league team.

"There is nothing that I can say about it at this time," Mr. Veeck said. "Of course, if any coach expressed a desire to leave the club we would willingly give him his release to permit him to make the change."

RUPPERT STILL SILENT

New York, Oct. 2.—[Special.]—Col. Jacob Ruppert, owner of the Yankees, tonight admitted the possibility that he might see Joe McCarthy tomorrow but still denied he had entered into any deal with the deposed Cub manager.

Asked if he was prepared to state that he contemplated offering McCarthy the Yankee pilot's position, Ruppert replied:

"That will all depend upon conditions. I have nothing to say now."

This appeared to be an admission that McCarthy's visit to New York is inspired by a desire on Ruppert's part to talk with him.

"SKY'S THE LIMIT"

Boston, Mass., Oct. 2.—[Special.]—From President Bob Quinn at Philadelphia tonight came word that he had offered a blank contract to Joe McCarthy, deposed Cub manager, in an effort to get McCarthy to agree to manage the Red Sox next season.

"I don't care what Col. Ruppert of the Yankees wants to pay McCarthy," declared the Red Sox owner, "we will pay him more. It is time that the Red Sox regained their place in the baseball sun. Money isn't going to stand in the way. I am going to give Boston another world's championship team. I believe McCarthy is the man to take the helm, and I will outbid any one."

FOOTBALL.

ALL Big Ten elevens will be in action tomorrow, although only Ohio State and Indiana are pitted against each other in a conference game. Greatest local interest will attach to the meeting between Northwestern and Tulane at Dyche stadium. Several others, however, have formidable opposition, notably Illinois with Iowa State as its guest and Minnesota entertaining Vanderbilt. Michigan takes on Michigan State while still experimenting with its line. Chicago, with scant material, has a double header of Hillsdale and Ripon, and Maroon sympathizers still remember the scare Ripon gave last year.

DICK HANLEY.

Tulane is a genuine threat, perhaps more than that, to Northwestern. It was undefeated last year after playing a hard schedule and downing such foes as Georgia and Georgia Tech. Reports tell us its line still is intact, with new material in the back field. A good line means much to a green back field.

It is early for the Purple, which has had only three weeks of practice against five weeks for its guest, southern rules allowing an earlier start. Southern enthusiasm is high. A special train from New Orleans will carry the rooters and their co-ed cheer leader.

The Wake feels Coach Hanley and his pupils will make a strong effort for this affair. It does not require a long memory to recall that Tulane, not then heralded as now, came up from the southland and surprised the Purple in 1925 with an 18 to 7 victory. That was the year Northwestern defeated Michigan in the mud, 3 to 2, but waived claim for the title in favor of the Wolverines on comparative records.

Northwestern will not be caught napping. With a strong back field and a good line, Hanley should have a margin in his favor. It is a contest which could well have a place later in the season if schedule conditions permitted.

Vanderbilt, on its 1929 form, will give Minnesota a thorough test which may end disastrously, for the Gophers are absorbing new coaching tactics of Crisler and Wieman. With the material Minnesota usually has, this pair will produce a good team whether or not they have had enough time at this writing.

The Wake again has been assigned to the hazardous pastime of forecasting football results, which will appear tomorrow.

Loyola and Georgetown Meet Tonight

Loyola's football team will receive its first hard test tonight against Georgetown university at Loyola stadium.

The Loyola eleven will have an advantage in weight both in the back field and line. Their line men will average 194 pounds to 182 for Georgetown. Loyola backs average 183 pounds to 173 for the eastern team.

Ted Connelly will play quarter back for the Chicago team while Molloy and Ployhart will start as halves. Smith will play full back. Molloy's four touch downs against Carroll last Friday rank him as the leading scoring threat for the Ramblers.

Phil Mooney, former Loyola academy star, will be at left half for Georgetown. The easterners' attack has been built around him because of his ability to pass and run.

"Clean-up" Hitters in City Series Do Little Laundering

Hack Wilson and Smead Jolley, appearing in the city series in the No. 4, or "cleanup spot" for their respective teams, haven't been doing as much cleaning up as their followers had anticipated. In the two games of the series Hack has hit the ball out of the infield only once in eight trips to the plate and has made no hits. Smead, in eight trips to the plate, hasn't knocked the ball out of the infield. His only hit was a scratch infield single in the first inning of the first game.

Blair, who fanned his first two times up in both games, leads both teams in strikeouts, but he has made more hits than any one who played throughout both games. Stephenson is leading both clubs in hitting. Stevie has been at bat five times. He has made three hits and has been called out on strikes twice.

At this point in the last city series, in 1928, the series stood 2 to 0 in favor of the Cubs, the north siders having won the first game at Comiskey park, 3 to 0, and the second, 5 to 3, in 14 innings. The Sox won the first game at Wrigley field, and the third of the series, 13 to 11. The fourth game, also at Wrigley field, was a 3 to 2 Cub victory. Tommy Thomas won the fifth game, 2 to 0, for the Sox, and the Sox also took the sixth, 7 to 1, to even the series. The Cubs won the title in the seventh game, 13 to 2.

Manager Hornsby never had been in Comiskey park prior to the opening game of the current series. "They certainly have a lot of ball park here," Rogers said. "I had heard pitchers like this place better than any other in the majors, but I had no idea it was any such layout as it is."

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Up till the eighth inning of yesterday's 4 to 2 Cub victory over the White Sox at Comiskey park, Kiki Cuyler had been to bat seven times in the series. Six times he had been unable to knock the ball past the skinned part of the diamond. The other time he lifted a silly little fly to Reynolds.

Kiki, of course, is too swell a ball player to monkey around like that indefinitely. And he justified this view of his talents in the eighth inning. With two men on base and the score tied at 1 to 1, the Cubs' great right fielder smacked the most terrific hit he has smacked this season, a homer that landed in the stands in deep left center. The homer was good for three runs, and it gave the Cubs a 4 to 1 lead.

Bell Makes Error.

The Sox came back in the ninth and scored a run and had runners on third and second when Rookie Bruce Campbell struck out to end the game.

Sharing the hero honors with Cuyler was Sheriff Fred Blake, the 1930 tough luck champion of the major leagues. Fred allowed only five hits, a single by Caraway in the third, a single by Reynolds in the sixth, a single by Cissell in the seventh, and a single by Clancy and a double by Tate in the ninth.

As all Cub fans know, Blake can't pitch nine innings without having one of his mates pull some atrocious misplay. Bell made him feel at home yesterday with a three base throwing error which enabled the Sox to tie the score in the sixth. This upset the Sheriff only slightly, for the Sox ever have been pushovers for him. He won two of the four Cub city series victories in 1928, you remember—3 to 2 and 13 to 2.

The victim of Cuyler's unfriendly act was Pat Caraway, Mr. Comiskey's freshman lefthander. Pat had held the National league runners up to four scattered singles in seven innings, but he weakened a surprising lot in the eighth. Blair, who had been his most accommodating cousin previously in the game, started the eighth inning trouble with one out. Clarence lined a mighty single to right center and raced to third when English singled to right. This was the setting when Cuyler did his stuff.

Stevie Makes Three Hits.

If you have looked at the box score you know that Manager Rogers Hornsby evened the series with an old fashioned Cub lineup. Danny Taylor, who had made one hit in his last six games, was benched for Riggs Stephenson; Woody English shook off his cold and was back at short, and Capt. Charley Grimm, who hadn't started a game since he was spiked by Lefty O'Doul on Aug. 15, was back at his old stand. This trio of convalescents accomplished five of the eight hits made by the Cubs, Stevie getting three.

This afternoon the series will move to Wrigley field, where games also will be played tomorrow and Sunday. If another game is necessary to decide the city title, the clubs will return to Comiskey park for the sixth game, and the seventh, if the limit is required to return a winner.

Red Faber is to perform for the Sox this afternoon. Hornsby was undecided about his pitching selection, but said either Teachout or Bush would be his nominee, with Teachout having a shade in the overnight books.

Opens with Strikeout.

Yesterday's game started just like Wednesday's—with a strikeout by Blair. Caraway used only three pitches in disposing of Clarence. After letting two wide ones drift by, English grounded out to Cissell. Cuyler, after taking a ball and a strike, flied to Reynolds.

Kerr launched the Sox's offensive with a strikeout on four pitched balls but Watwood walked on five pitched balls. Reynolds fanned and Watwood was doubled trying to reach second, Hartnett to Blair.

Wilson was thrown out by Kerr at the start of the second inning but

SCOUT WARNS OF S. M. U. DARING AERIAL ATTACK

Mustangs Pass in Own Zone, Rockne Hears.

BY WILFRID SMITH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

South Bend, Ind., Oct. 2.—Southern Methodist university of Dallas, Tex., undefeated last season, will arrive tomorrow to bid for the attention of the football world when it meets Notre Dame Saturday in the first game in the new $700,000 stadium.

The Mustangs are not playing the dedicatory game for the new field. That honor has been reserved for the Midshipmen from Annapolis on Oct. 11. However, Southern Methodist cares nothing for pomp and ceremony. It seeks to halt Notre Dame, something nine of the greatest teams from coast to coast failed to do in 1929.

Coach Ray Morrison, who served an undergraduate apprenticeship at Vanderbilt before taking command at S. M. U., bases his hopes of victory on passes. Forward passes, lateral and backward passes, long and short, comprise 80 per cent of the Mustangs' offense. This information is relayed from Hunk Anderson, Knute Rockne's No. 1 assistant, who watched the Methodists defeat Howard Payne last week, 26 to 7.

Full Repertoire of Plays.

"Southern Methodist used 40 plays in the Howard Payne game," Anderson said this afternoon. He was conferring with his chief at the time on the selection of the third and fourth Notre Dame teams for this afternoon's scrimmage. "Forty plays should last at least two years and not be heaped on one team, even if that team is a national champion.

"And Morrison had 60 men in uniform for Howard Payne," Hunk continued, as if this information were exceptional at a university where 400 boys play football and 100 varsity men fight for a place on the honored list of 33 which Rockne takes to out of town games.

"Southern Methodist attacks from a kicking formation, with a ball carrier from six to ten yards back of the center," Anderson added. "The line is balanced with ends playing out ready to sprint into open territory for passes. The other back field men assume three distinct formations, but all always are at least three yards from the scrimmage line and any one of them may receive the ball."

Also Have Plunging Power.

There is plunging power also, for Ira Hopper, the Methodist's 203 pound full back and a two year veteran, can smash with the best of line buckers.

The other ball carriers can run; all can pass. Passing is the first requirement and the Methodists handle the ball as if they were in a basketball game.

Louis Long, center, and Jimmy Butler, tackle, are outstanding in the heavy line which is expected to stop Mullins, Brill, Savoldi, Schwartz, and Carideo.

Rockne has stressed defense. Today's noontime lecture was devoted to the subject. Tonight's scrimmage also was given over to the problem.

"Morrison plays unorthodox football," Rockne commented. "That makes our task harder."

Methodists Take Chances.

"Say, coach," Anderson interrupted, "those southerners will pass on the first or any down. And they may hit the line on third down with six yards to go. We gotta be ready for anything."

And Notre Dame, expecting victory as its due, is ready for anything. To the squad Saturday's game is just another opening contest and Notre Dame never has lost the first game in any season. This confidence, only gained from long achievement, blankets the squad. The same feeling prevails among the 3,000 students.

This evening they gathered on the campus, as in previous years, to demonstrate their loyalty. Rockne addressed them. Bonfires blazed. Cheers and songs echoed from the high walled buildings, but enthusiasm was normal.

Hartnett to Present Prizes at Prep Grid Game Tonight

St. Ignatius of the Catholic league and Campion academy of Prairie du Chien will meet tonight at Mills stadium in their annual practice game. Gabby Hartnett, Cubs' catcher, will present a gold football to the outstanding player of the winning and losing teams. er of the winning and losing team. Gabby and William Brown, Campion athletic director, at one time played semi-pro baseball together in Millville, Mass. Capt. Jimmy Stanton, Jerry Liska, and Jerry Burke are expected to be the local school's contenders for the prize offered by Gabby.

Wightman, Former Maroon Football Player, Dies

H. S. Wightman, 48, football and track man at the University of Chicago in 1902-'03-'04, died yesterday at St. Margaret's hospital in Hammond, following two operations necessitated by appendicitis. He was in the machinery manufacturing business in Chicago with C. B. Dutton, also of Hammond, and had lived in Hammond with his wife and son, David, for five years.

BALL TEAM MUST LEARN TO TAKE BAD WITH GOOD

playing in obscurity on the back lots of our country with an old taped ball are always looking to the world series as the highest expression of American sportsmanship and fair play, so don't get any idea that I am setting up my own judgment against that of the duly constituted officials.

But the umpires are men just like all of us, excepting our multitude of lady "fans" of the "fair sex" who now add a touch of refinement to the game, and to err is human, as you will have to agree. Sometimes umpires do make mistakes and in our case it seems mighty peculiar that the mistakes are all against us, as if the hand of fate had something to do with it.

Take Good with Bad.

But I have no use for a complainer, I have never made a specialty of "alibis" and for my part I am content to go the rest of the way through life and wind up my career the same way, taking the good with the bad, just as they come, without excuses. These things even themselves up in the long run, although, my only point is that in a short series they might not get a chance to even themselves up.

Well, fans, I promised to take you into my confidence with regards to some of the intimate little incidents of a human interest that take place on the ball field or down in the "dugout" in a world series test which the newspaper men, who are all my pals and a hard-working, sincere body of newspaper men, do not get a chance to observe for their writeup as they are way up in the press coop, intent upon telling the waiting millions every jot and tittle of what is taking place in the swift ebb and flow of the combat. There are so many incidents.

Still a Boy Himself.

For instance, just as an example, as I was entering the ball park for the opening game the other day, where our clean uniforms were waiting for us spick and span as a whistle, a little freckle faced urchin came running up to a certain star player with a wistful, boyish expression on his face and lisped a request that he be taken in on a "pass" to see the contest.

"Get the h—ll out of here, you little rascal," was the reply and as the little urchin scampered off, obviously frightened, this certain party turned to me with an unmistakable twinkle in his eye and winked at me slyly, laughing heartily, for he had been a boy himself in his earlier years and still is for that matter, at heart.

But fans, tomorrow is always another day and each game tells a separate story.

HALT $700,000 HOCKEY TRIAL AS JUROR TALKS

Federal Judge Carpenter yesterday declared a mistrial in the suit for $700,000 brought by Edward J. Livingstone, Canadian hockey promoter, against Maj. Frederic McLaughlin, owner of the Chicago Blackhawks, and two of his employés. The court declared that one of the jurors, "either through ignorance or inadvertence," had approached McLaughlin and talked with him.

John Hodge, an insurance agent of Mundelein, the juror involved, was questioned but not detained, although the United States attorney's office was directed to investigate the case. It was stated that McLaughlin himself had reported the juror's remarks to Judge Carpenter. A new trial of the case will begin Monday.

Livingstone had been on the witness stand for two days and had not been cross-examined. He charged that McLaughlin conspired with officials of the two major hockey leagues to wreck him, and that they forced his Chicago Cardinals out of the American Hockey association, induced four of his players to break their contracts, and caused the cancellation of a lease on the Chicago Coliseum.

CUBS GIVE SOX 4-2 DEFEAT ON CUYLER'S HOMER

Blake Allows Five Hits; Series Is Squared.

Stevie registered the first hit of the game, a single to left. Hartnett then hit into a double play, Cissell to Kerr to Clancy.

Blake and Grimm took care of Jolley, Cissell and Clancy in the Sox second. Smead and Bill were out, Blake to Grimm and Eud was out, Grimm to Blake, who covered first.

The Cubs had runners on first and second with one out in the third but Caraway tightened up and the threat came to naught. After Grimm had fouled to Kamm, Bell walked and went to second while Blake was beating out a bunt to Kamm. Blair then fanned for the second successive time and English grounded to Clancy.

The Sox third was uneventful, except that Caraway rang up the first Sox hit, a line single to left center. The hit came with two out and Kerr immediately thereafter tapped to Blake for the third out.

Sox Tie Score.

In the fourth inning the Cubs got over the first run of the game. After Cuyler had tapped to Caraway, Wilson walked on four pitched balls. Stevie socked the second of his series of hits, a single to center. Hack passed second and was paddling for third like everything when the ball reached Cissell on the relay. Spider Bill had a good chance to get Hack at third, but his throw hit the pudgy one in the back and the ball bounced to the boxes, Hack scoring and Stevie pulling up at second.

Hartnett grounded to Cissell, and Stevie was run down between third and second, Kamm getting the putout. Hartnett was steaming into second. Kamm threw to Kerr and Gabby would have been sunk at second, but for the fact that Kerr muffed the ball. Grimm then grounded out to Clancy. Watwood, Reynolds, and Jolley were unable to get the ball out of the infield in the Sox end of the fourth.

The Cubs went out in order in the fifth and sixth innings. Cissell got a pass to start the Sox fifth, but got no farther. In the sixth the south siders tied the Cubs' unearned run with one that was even more spurious. After Blake had thrown out Caraway, Kerr bounced to Bell, who threw the ball at least ten feet over Grimm's head. When the ball was recovered Kerr was perched on third base. Blake promptly fanned Watwood for the second out, but Reynolds singled to center, scoring Kerr to tie the score. Jolley then bounced a nice gentle one to Blair.

Sox Come Back.

The Sox made a spirited attempt to break the tie in the seventh. Cissell led off with a single to center, went to second on Clancy's sacrifice bunt and to third while Blake was throwing out Tate. Kamm was given an intentional pass but Caraway ended the inning with a grounder to Bell.

You already know about the Cubs' big eighth, so the remaining thing to talk about is the bobtailed rally the Sox put on in the ninth.

Cissell fouled to Hartnett to start the final inning but Clancy singled to right. Tate doubled along the left field foul line, scoring Clancy. Fothergill batted for Kamm and grounded out to English. Tate taking third. Barnes batted for Moore, who had relieved Caraway with two out in the eighth, and walked.

Campbell batted for Kerr. Barnes went to second and Tate held third on a wild pitch, putting Campbell in a spot where an outfield single would have tied the score. But Manager Campbell was fresh out of outfield singles. He fanned and the ball game was over.

TULANE ELEVEN ARRIVES TODAY FOR N. U. CLASH

Meet Wildcats Tomorrow at Dyche Stadium.

Tulane's green wave will roll into Chicago this morning for its intersectional game with Northwestern at Dyche stadium tomorrow. Coach Bierman and thirty-five players will be in the party arriving at the Twelfth Street station at 9 o'clock.

The Dixie athletes will proceed to Evanston, where they will establish headquarters at the North Shore hotel. Rooters from New Orleans will arrive tomorrow morning on a special train intent on seeing their team repeat the victory scored over the Wildcats five years ago.

These big men from the south, who last year won the Southern conference championship, are prepared to give northern fans a glimpse of football as played below the Mason and Dixon line. With a veteran line and a quartet of speedy backs available, Coach Bernie Bierman's outfit is expected to give the Purple plenty of trouble in the season's opener.

Wildcats in Final Drill.

"Preacher" Roberts, Tulane captain, all-Southern center last year, and Don Zimmerman and High Whatley, half backs, are the invaders' big threats.

The Wildcats wound up their preparation for the game with a long signal drill in the rain yesterday. Coach Hanley has three teams running plays. Two of last year's regulars who were counted on to start tomorrow will not be available. Larry Oliphant, end, was still absent from practice, while Al Moore, right half, appeared but did not get into a uniform. Oliphant is incapacitated with boils, while Moore has a touch of the flu.

A dry gridiron was assured for the game when the big field cover was pulled on the field yesterday afternoon.

MAROON LEADER BACK.

Erret Van Nice, captain of the University of Chicago eleven, reported for practice yesterday none the worse for his injury. However, Coach A. A. Stagg will not take any chances of another injury and will save him for the conference game with Wisconsin at Madison next week-end. All other Maroons are ready to do battle in tomorrow's double header with Ripon and Hilledale.

A long scrimmage against the freshmen yesterday revealed more improvement in the varsity line. Stagg faces a shortage of capable linemen. He has only three reliable guards, MacKenzie, Hamberg, and Tolgos.

RIPON PICKS SQUAD.

Ripon, Wis., Oct. 2.—[Special.]—The Ripon college Redmen completed their preparations for the season's opener with Chicago Saturday by engaging in a stiff two hour workout. A squad of 30 will entrain tomorrow noon for Chicago.

Coach Carl Doehling announced that the following men will make the trip:

Backs—Anderson, Dicks, Jensen, Mangen, Olson, Schaffer, Rowden, and Christ.

Ends — Cunnington, Steinman, Schaum, Davis, Shaw.

Tackles—Amundson, Fischer, Schneidereit, Anderson, and Mossner.

Guards—Hanks, Showers, Keenan, Scott, Moorehead, and Wagner.

Centers—Martin and Konrad.

ILLINI MADE ELIGIBLE.

Champaign, Ill., Oct. 2.—[Special.]—Coach Robert Zuppke today called the University of Illinois football candidates into Memorial stadium for the first time this year and only 29 men reported. Zuppke had one consolation, however. Donald Garner, 173 pound guard from Onargo, who has been out because of scholastic trouble, reported in good standing.

Garner has been on the squad for the last two years and has been working out with the team while studying for a special examination. Zuppke will try him at center.

Recalling that Illinois beat the Army last year by being able to kick the ball out of bounds near the Army goal, Zuppke spent an hour coaching his punters in placing their punts. Stan Bodman, Pete Yanuskus, Gil Berry and Ernie Useman were used.

INDIANA OFF FOR GAME.

Bloomington, Ind., Oct. 2.—[Special.]—More than 1,000 Indiana students crowded the Illinois Central station this evening as the football team departed for Columbus to meet Ohio State Saturday in the first Big Ten game of the season for both elevens. The Indiana marching band of 110 pieces led the rooters to the station, where yells and songs were given.

The Hoosiers will hold a limbering up drill in the Ohio stadium tomorrow.

ROCHESTER BEATS COLONELS, 8 TO 1, TO TAKE SERIES

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 2.—(AP)—The Rochester Red Wings won the little world series today by defeating the Louisville Colonels, 8 to 1, in the eighth game. The victory made it five games for the International league champions to three for the American Association pennant winners.

Macks Whip Cards in 2d Game of World Series, 6-1

tomley maintained his hitless record of the day previous. He filed high to center at about the same spot where a year ago the industrious Hack Wilson committed his memorable blunder.

It is a habit with the Macks to go seeking runs after two are out. That's what they did in their half of the first inning. The second of the outs was a brilliant stop close to third base by tiny Sparky Adams on Dykes' hard grounder. Then up came Cochrane. He worked the count to 2 and 2. Rehm tried to catch him napping with a curve ball through the middle of the plate, but Cochrane was ready and his second homer of the series sailed lazily over the low green barrier in right field.

Simmons Hits Single.

Rhem got across two strikes on Simmons, but the Milwaukee boy then bounced a single straight past the pitcher and into center. Foxx lined rakishly to the fence in left center. Douthit tore over to take the ball on the rebound and heaved it to Gelbert, who relayed to the plate. The throw was a bit too late. It bounced into Mancuso's glove just after Simmons completed his sprint from first with a dust raising slide over the plate. Foxx pulled up at second.

There were a few moments in the Cardinals' second inning when it looked as if Earnshaw might be crowded to the ropes. Another hit and he might have been there. After Hafey had popped out in a gentle manner Watkins, in his first time at bat as a world series actor, ran his string to 2 and 2. On the next pitch he knocked the ball over the same wall which Cochrane had selected for his homer in the previous inning.

Cards' Rally Fails.

Watkins was hardly back on the bench after his sprint before Mancuso drove the ball so speedily into short that Boley couldn't hold it. Gelbert bounced a hit past Bishop and Mancuso tore to third before the ball was retrieved in short center. Maybe it was Earnshaw's luck that he should have the pitcher coming next. He used the situation to advantage by sliding over three strikes on Rhem. Then it became a matter of getting out of the hole by making Douthit the victim. The Cards' center fielder popped to Bishop and the Cards' first big chance went glimmering.

Earnshaw stood up again in a pinch in the third while his mates were trying to cave in, and prevented the Cards from profiting by their second and last big opportunity to score. After Adams had flied out, Frisch reached first when Boley fumbled a hard grounder aimed directly at him. Bottomley, drew an extension of his time at bat when Bishop, after a mad dash to the stand, failed to hold a foul ball. But even with this extra chance Bottomley fanned.

Frisch Reaches Third.

With Hafey at bat, Frisch made a break for second, and not only stole easily, but continued to third on Cochrane's bad throw. Then Hafey lifted a foul back of third. Dykes sprinted to get it, fell in a heap on the grass, and was almost hit on the head by the ball. Undisturbed by this little break, Earnshaw proceeded to finish Hafey just as Bottomley had been finished a minute before.

Nothing developed in the home third, in which two more Macks crossed the plate to make the score 4 to 1, until after the first two men had been set down. Trouble began when Rhem cut loose a duster at Cochrane's head. Mickey wisely curled up in the dirt. A moment later he grounded to Frisch, but the keystone of the Cards' infield fumbled. The storm started immediately.

Simmons Gets Double.

With Cochrane on first Simmons rammed a low liner into right. Watkins attempted a shoestring catch, but the ball hopped past him and bounced off the concrete for a double. Cochrane ran home without even drawing a throw. Rhem started to pitch to Foxx, but changed his tactics and awarded him an intentional pass. Miller reached into the first pitch and singled between short and third, Simmons scoring.

The end of Rhem began when Boley opened the two run splurge in the fourth by bouncing a lucky single over Gelbert at short. Earnshaw fanned, but Bishop walked. Dykes didn't wait long to test his skill. On Rhem's first pitch he poured loose a liner that rattled off the fence in left center for two bases. Boley and Bishop hiked over the counter with the last runs of the uneven struggle. Rhem heeded the summons from the bench and Lindsey finished the inning.

Earnshaw's Foot Stepped On.

The mishap which came dangerously close to ruining Earnshaw as an active participant occurred in the sixth. After two were out Watkins, the author of St. Louis' only run, pulled a hard grasscutter down the first base line. Foxx, playing deep, stabbed it and Earnshaw covered the bag. Just as the tall right hander took the throw and stepped on the base, Watkins stepped on his right foot. George worked his foot back into the shoe and limped to the dugout.

The relief work done by Lindsey and Johnson probably was a shock to the Mack hitters. Lindsey, after halting the fourth inning rally with a double play, remained to the end of the sixth without permitting a man to reach base. Then Johnson took over the job. He didn't want to do it but he walked Bishop to start the seventh. Dykes sacrificed. Cochrane was purposely passed, which probably was a wise move. Then Simmons grounded to Frisch and Foxx fanned. Only three men faced Johnson in the eighth.

The two St. Louis hits after the second inning were the work of Lindsey and Adams. Lindsey singled to right to welcome the fifth chapter. The next three fellows popped up. Adams singled over Bishop to start the eighth. A few moments after this the energetic Frisch wacked a wicked high liner toward third. Dykes dropped up off the soles of his shoes, speared the drive and doubled Adams off first base. Then Bottomley, still hitless in the series, fouled out and in the ninth Earnshaw served to only three men.

IT'S ABOUT TIME SAYS TONTO ROCK AND WINS RACE

BY FRENCH LANE.

Did you ever hear of a horse called Tonto Rock?

It seems as if he was a somebody out at Agua Caliente last winter just before the Agua Caliente derby. But after he was beaten in that heat he became somewhat of a nobody.

He has been running around Ohio lately and according to the records was never able to win a race in such lovely company.

Yet he bobbed up yesterday at Hawthorne in the Ridgeland purse, the feature race on the day's program, and when the verdict was returned he was almost a length in front of the favorite, Fleche D'Argent, with Lady Seth third, Who Win fourth and Battling On last in the field of five.

A wild tip got out on Tonto Rock or he might have returned large dividends. But when one of those tips is spread at Hawthorne the crowd goes with it and as a result Tonto Rock paid only $8.60 to win, $4.34 to place, and $3.76 to show. Fleche D'Argent paid $3.36 to place and $2.52 to show. Lady Seth also had her backers and paid $2.68 to show.

Surprises Even Backers.

Tonto Rock is a son of Trap Rock-See Saw II. and was bred on Baron Long's far min California. He showed a very weak heart in all his previous engagements and when Jockey E. Level brought him from behind in the Ridgeland purse it shocked even the Tonto Rock backers.

But Tonto Rock was running over his rivals in the late stages and was going away from them when the finish came. He ran the mile and 70 yards in 1:43 2-5, by far the best time made during the afternoon.

Lieut. Russell will not be running in many more claiming races around Chicago. This 4 year old son of Sir Barton-Honey Girl, claimed from the Audley farm stable at Arlington park in July, rolled up his fourth straight victory at Hawthorne yesterday as a member of the R. Gallett-A. Swenke combination. He did the job very easily, beating Battle Ax, former stake performer, by four lengths, with Searington far back in third place and Brown Brutus and Klingstone bringing up the rear.

Takes Lead at Start.

Lieut. Russell jumped into the lead at the start and his advantage was never threatened. It was about the easiest victory he has scored here.

They are going to match him with such stars as Lady Broadcast, Plucky Play, Uluniu, Eskimo, and others here on Saturday in a $5,000 race.

FAMOUS HORSES' OFFSPRING SHOW SPEED IN TRIALS

A daughter of Sir Gallahad III.-Risky and a son of Epinard-Cotton Blossom showed extremely high speed in the thoroughbred yearling trials conducted at Arlington Park yesterday.

Both are owned by John Hertz, the former having been purchased at a fancy price at the Saratoga sales, and the latter being a homebred at Mr. Hertz' Leona farm.

Beats Half Sister.

The Sir Gallahad III.-Risky filly hooked up with another daughter of Sir Gallahad III, whose mother is Ten Leo and running like a little Gallant Fox, she won handily over the quarter of a mile test in the fast time of :22 1-5.

Albert D. Lasker, who was among the group of friends entertained at the trials by Mr. Hertz, became so enthusiastic over this filly's performance he threatened to purchase her. She is a half sister to the good filly Risque in the Hertz stable and which won the Lassie stakes at Arlington Park in July and the Spinaway at Saratoga in August. Risque's sire was Stimulus.

The Epinard colt, ridden by Jockey Earl Steffen, who came from New York for the trials, ran his quarter in :23 but did his work so handily and was going so gamely near the end that it struck those in attendance as the most impressive of the day.

Looks Better Than Siskin.

He is a well put up bay, has unusual early speed for an Epinard offspring and has that square rump which indicates distance running ability. He is a more impressive looking fellow than Epinard's son, Siskin.

Some 20 yearlings, the sons and daughters of the most famous sires in the country, stepped through the trials over a fast track which had been prepared by Supt. Billy Meyers. Frank Hackett, business manager for the Hertz stable, came along from New York to conduct the trials. Jockey Charley Landolt shared the riding with Jockey Steffen.

Von Porat Signs to Meet Angus Snyder Next Friday

Otto Von Porat and Angus Snyder of Dodge City, Kas., were booked by Promoter Jim Mullen yesterday for an eight round heavyweight bout at the Coliseum next Friday.

Elect Fee President of Illinois Skating Group

Wallace Fee was elected president of the Illinois Skating association last night, succeeding Harry Mayfield, at the annual election at the Norwegian-American clubhouse.

TRIM SAILS IN STOCK MARKET; LOANS DECLINE

Brokers' Total Off 159 Millions.

In contrast with last week when brokers' loans held up despite the decline in the stock market the weekly report issued yesterday showed a decrease of $159,000,000 in loans on securities to brokers and dealers. The large decrease occasioned no surprise in financial circles.

The action of the market during the last week furnished evidence that speculators entering the market previously had been forced to trim their sails.

The decline during the week brought the total of brokers' loans to $3,063,000,000, which represented a decline of $3,741,000,000 from the all time high record of $6,804,000,000 of a year ago. That peak was reached Oct. 2, 1929, shortly before the market entered its big deflation period. Credit now being used in speculation is considerably less than half of the year ago figure.

Details of Report.

The details of the report show that it was the interior banks and the nonbanking lenders, including corporations, who were responsible for the decline. New York's banks at the close of the week were lending $1,834,000,000 which was an increase of $113,000,000 over their previous week's loans. Interior banks withdrew a total of $180,000,000, bringing their loans to $602,000,000. Loans from nonbanking sources stood at $627,000,000 at the close of the week, a decline of $92,000,000.

The weekly report of the federal reserve system shows that there is some increase in the demand for credit for commercial purposes. Borrowings of the member banks increased $18,754,000 over the preceding week. This was partly offset, however, by the disposal by the reserve banks of $4,635,000 in bankers' acceptances.

Note Circulation Rises.

On the other hand note circulation rose $25,631,000. Gold reserves and total reserves decreased $12,162,000 and $12,400,000, respectively, and the reserve ratio receded to 81.6 per cent as compared with 82 per cent a week ago.

The New York federal reserve bank made no change in its 2½ per cent rediscount rate yesterday. Its weekly report showed a decline of $2,254,000 in member bank borrowings but an increase of $4,400,000 in bankers' acceptances. Deposits fell off $15,158,000.

The Chicago Federal Reserve bank reported an increase of $5,345,000 in member borrowings and a decline of $2,601,000 in bankers' acceptances. Reserves fell off $10,918,000 and deposits showed a shrinkage of $4,924,000. The reserve ratio eased to 83.6 per cent, compared with 84.4 per cent a week ago.

Would Ban Short Sales.

Suspension of short selling on the New York Stock exchange for a short period as a trial means of restoring business confidence was advocated yesterday by Salmon O. Levinson, Chicago attorney.

"Why not a moratorium on short sales for, say, two weeks?" he asked. "We could then determine whether these gamblers who play the stock market as a game are responsible for the present conditions or not."

Sargent Raps U. S. Subsidies at Convention of A. B. A.

BY O. A. MATHER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cleveland, O., Oct. 2.—Government subsidies for inland waterways and highways, coupled with arbitrary restrictions on railroad rates and earnings, are stifling the American railroads and virtually confiscating their property. This charge was thrown at government regulation by Fred W. Sargent, president of the Chicago and North western railroad, in today's general session in convention of the American Bankers' association.

FRED W. SARGENT.
[Matzene Photo.]

And from the same rostrum Fred I. Kent, director of the Bankers Trust company, New York, delivered a blast against political demagogues who foist ill considered legislation on the people as a panacea for economic maladjustment. He criticized the direct primary, the tariff and government treatment of railroads and utilities.

"Many modern statesmen say we always should place personal right above property rights, but the right to be secure in ownership and enjoyment of property is an essential to personal rights," Mr. Sargent said. "There has grown up in recent times a class of legislation and method of procedure that is slowly but surely confiscating property through the unlimited power of taxation."

Through Indirect Action.

"We use the unlimited resources of the government to furnish capital to compete with legitimate industry and through a process of governmental regulation we indulge in a gradual but sure process of confiscation through indirect action.

"We may assume that public welfare requires the development of inland waterways at public expense but when the government uses the taxpayers' money to furnish the capital and to afford rates that will interfere with investments of thousands of our people in other forms of transportation it is as clearly violating the constitution as if by direct legislation it so reduced the rates of railroads that they could not under honest, economic and efficient management secure a fair return for honest investments.

"This drift toward government in business is a thing that no legitimate business ought to be required to contemplate. No industry can have its income constantly reduced and its expenses constantly increased without ultimately meeting disaster."

The present world-wide tendency of masses of people to follow unbalanced and unscrupulous politicians was deplored by Mr. Kent.

"The record of laws passed to accomplish the impossible is amazing and yet so alluring is the world 'government' that many who demand less law usually end up by asking for more law in order to meet their intent," he said. "See what the direct primary has done to the senate of the United States. Loyalty to party in many cases has been thrown to the winds except when useful for election purposes.

"The whole world is passing through a business depression. The long delay in tariff legislation in the United States caused great uncertainty. This had a tendency to stop both consumption and production, although one of its worst effects was to create an unfriendly foreign feeling. It also was most disturbing to American industry.

Concentrates Surplus.

"The political agitation of our agricultural situation stopped the normal flow of grain from this country and concentrated the surplus in our hands. But every attempt by government or groups of men to ignore the laws of supply and demand has failed.

At the demand of numerous delegates, the resolution changing the policy of the association to indorse limited branch banking was brought up again today and passed after considerable debate and futile attempts to amend it. A second vote was made necessary by the fact that President John G. Lonsdale yesterday failed to call for a negative vote, which brought the accusation that an attempt had been made to gavel the measure through.

PLAN OFFERING OF $100,000,000 CANADIAN ISSUE

New York, Oct. 2.—(AP)—The Herald Tribune says it understands arrangements for the largest foreign government bond offering placed in the United States market this year have been virtually completed by a banking group headed by Chase Securities corporation and its newly acquired affiliate, Harris, Forbes & Co. The group will make public offering soon of a new issue of $100,000,000 Canadian government 4 per cent bonds maturing in 30 years.

The transaction, which will be confined to United States and Canadian markets, will place the dominion government in funds for important refunding operations that will have to be accomplished late this year and in 1931.

U. S. TREASURY ENDS FIRST QUARTER WITH $52,292,255 SURPLUS

Washington, D. C., Oct. 2.—(AP)—The treasury finished the first quarter of the 1931 fiscal year with a surplus of $52,292,255, approximately $3,000,000 less than the surplus for the same period of the 1930 fiscal year.

Total receipts were $868,940,213. Expenditures for the three months aggregated $816,647,958.

The receipts were about 150 million dollars less than collected in the first quarter of the 1930 fiscal year and the expenditures were 150 million less.

The chief difference in the expenditures was in the sinking fund, to which was added only $65,000,000 this year, as compared with $236,864,000 last year. Ordinary expenditures of the government increased approximately $30,000,000 this year to a total of $751,586,958.

Customs revenue dropped from 161 million dollars in the first three months of 1930 to $94,937,000 in the same period of this year. Income tax receipts dropped from $609,000,000 to $554,000,000, while miscellaneous internal revenue dropped from $161,000,000 to $156,000,000.

Unemployment Seen Most Serious of All Problems

BY SCRUTATOR.

A number of foreign governments have adopted the principle of protection in a form even more direct than it has prevailed in the United States. They have passed laws tending to guarantee that all the work within their own borders shall be done by their own citizens.

Frank recognition is given the world over to the fact that unemployment is the most serious of all problems. Policy in the United States has always favored full employment by tariffs which more or less effectively barred a great many products of foreign labor. Restrictions in immigration, which developed in more recent years, are designed to keep as many jobs as possible for those who already live here.

The United States also bars contract labor from its shores and keeps out products, like the Russian, made with convict labor. Some European nations have gone even further in trying to prevent aliens from working if their nationals are available.

General Agreement.

Portugal, Chile, Panama, and other Latin American countries, Lithuania, Mexico, Great Britain, Germany, France, and Canada all are agreed that they want no more workmen or have determined to hamper those who come in to work. Even the Dominican republic and the Egyptian administration are placing legal restrictions on outside workers.

The department of commerce reports that Portugal in June decreed, with slight qualifications, that commercial or industrial enterprises thereafter could employ only persons of Portuguese nationality. Chile, Salvador, Panama, and Guatemala insist that every concern must have 75 to 80 per cent of home folks working for it. Mexico refuses to admit any alien laborers, while Lithuania and Germany require aliens desiring labor to have an official permit. Canada prohibits the entry of persons who desire to go to work and have even a promise of a job.

Great Britain will admit foreign labor only when it has been demonstrated that the required quantity and quality of labor cannot be found in British ranks. In Egypt the Arabic press is striving to force a 90 per cent native rule, while the Dominican law is that 70 per cent nationals must be employed.

Don't Want Bargains.

No country nowadays seems to want bargains in goods made abroad. No country, even though its labor be of low class, wants any foreigner to take a job, unless he be a technician whose work will make possible the employment of more domestic workers.

Important changes in international trade are coming, probably through these new expressions of nationalism. Great Britain and northern Ireland, with 1,946,000 registered unemployed, Germany with 2,715,000 and Italy and Austria with smaller but still serious numbers out of work, understand the necessity of finding something for workers to do.

Heretofore the custom has been to handle work by restricting the commodities it represents. But the wheat problem, the coal problem, the sugar and rubber and copper problems are only expressions of the troubles of workers who produce them. The basic statement is that the world will not or cannot consume all that can be produced. To attempt to cure that situation by raising the prices of any commodities, or stabilizing them, is futile.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 1.—They said that the Wednesday rally on the stock exchange was too good to last—the bears did—and today's events seemed to prove it. Virtually the whole active list turned downward anew, recording group after group of fresh net losses of from a fraction to 5 points. A last minute rally lifted prices slightly above the lows of the day.

Again the market was disposed to take its cue from technical conditions rather than from anything in the way of outside developments and these conditions, as the course of events showed, were not of a nature to justify any further wild displays on the buying side. True, a handful of stocks did manage to sell slightly, some of them moving steadily against the drift all day, but they were for the most part less important issues—certainly not of a caliber to influence general trading very heavy one way or the other.

I. H. C. ALLOWS 'SOME' CREDIT TO SOVIETS—LEGGE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 2.—Chairman Alexander Legge of the federal farm board admitted today that the International Harvester company, of which he formerly was president, has extended "some" credit to soviet Russia, but he discounted the conclusion that such credit made it possible for the Russians to grow the grain they are now dumping.

Commenting on a London dispatch in THE TRIBUNE quoting an authority to the effect that the Harvester company's soviet credits exceeded $40,000,000, Mr. Legge said the report, "like Mark Twain's death, is slightly exaggerated."

$40,000,000 Is "Joke."

"Ever since the war the International Harvester company has been extending some credit to Russia and some within the last twelve months," said the farm board chairman. But $40,000,000 is a joke. In no five years since the war have these credits been as large as one year before the war."

Mr. Legge went on to say that he has told Russian buyers they are making a mistake in buying great quantities of agricultural machinery and attempting to substitute mechanical farming all at once for the old fashioned peasant methods. He said he did not think the use of machinery, as yet, has accelerated production of agricultural commodities, despite the evidences of Russian wheat dumping.

Charter 85 Boats, Rumor.

"This Russian wheat shipping is bad and probably will be for several weeks," he explained, "but all of this wheat could be easily absorbed by any one of five consuming countries. The rumor is that they have chartered 85 boats to move 48,000,000 bushels of wheat. Even 60,000,000 would be only a drop in the bucket when you consider the 800,000,000 bushels to be imported by European countries. For some reason the Russians are trying frantically to get rid of the wheat, perhaps to get cash to meet their factory machinery commitments, but it won't take long for them to ship it all with 85 boats."

Concerning reports that American manufacturing concerns are accepting cheap Russian wheat in exchange for machinery, Mr. Legge said he had only heard of two that were doing so. He said he understood these were the Dempster Manufacturing company of Kansas City and the Baldwin company of Independence, Mo.

WHEAT FOR INVESTMENT.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 2.—(AP)—The belief that investment buyers have entered the wheat market was expressed today by Chairman Legge of the farm board.

Pointing out that the market had improved somewhat, the chairman added that "things can't always go down."

Legge explained brokers used the term "investment buying" to describe purchasers who are not generally speculators but who buy for an investment purpose and wait for the price to improve.

Legge declined to comment on a statement of L. J. Taber, master of the National Grange, that "the time has come" for the Grain Stabilization corporation to purchase 100,000,000 bushels of wheat. The corporation is not buying wheat now.

The depressing influence of the Russian exports, Legge said, might continue for a short while but "at the rate it is moving it can't last very long."

Super-Power Company of Illinois

First Mortgage 4½% Gold Bonds, Series of 1930
Due September 1, 1970
Price 96 and Interest, Yielding about 4.72%

The following is summarized from a letter of Mr. Samuel Insull, Chairman:

Business: The entire capital stock of Super-Power Company of Illinois (except directors' qualifying shares)is owned directly or through subsidiaries by Commonwealth Edison Company, Public Service Company of Northern Illinois, North American Light & Power Company, and Middle West Utilities Company. The Company was organized to furnish power at wholesale to the owning companies or their subsidiaries, and to such other neighboring public utility companies as may require a large and reliable supply of electrical energy. For this purpose the Company has now constructed at Powerton, Illinois, twelve miles southwest of Peoria, a thoroughly modern generating station, adequate to accommodate the presently planned capacity of 320,000 K. W., 110,000 K. W. of which capacity, consisting of two 55,000 K. W. units, are now in service. An additional unit of 105,000 K. W. capacity will be put in service about December 1, 1930. The right of way is being acquired for the purpose of constructing thereon a 220,000-volt steel tower transmission line from Powerton to the Crawford Avenue Generating Station of the Commonwealth Edison Company, thus tying in the Company directly with the Chicago District Power Pool.

Security: These Bonds, in the opinion of counsel, will be secured by a First Mortgage on all of the fixed properties, rights and franchises of the Company, now owned, and on all such properties hereafter acquired against which any Bonds may be issued under the Mortgage. The cost of the Company's property, on which the $10,000,000 Series of 1930 Bonds (this issue) and the $10,000,000 Series of 1928 Bonds will be secured by a First Mortgage, will be approximately $32,800,000, the owning companies or their respective subsidiaries having furnished the additional funds required through the purchase of Capital Stock of the Super-Power Company of Illinois.

Earnings: Contracts expiring in 1980 have been executed by the owning companies or their subsidiaries which provide for payment to Super-Power Company of Illinois of fixed charges (as a rental for the total generating and transmission line and substation capacity allotted to each of the purchasing companies) based on 11% per annum on the total investment for generating capacity, and 12% per annum on the total investment for transmission line and substation capacity, and, in addition, each purchasing company pays for the energy furnished at the actual operating cost per kilowatt hour.

Under these contracts, the following are actual earnings for the twelve months ended July 31, 1930, and the estimated annual earnings and expenses based on the capacity of the station, transmission line and substation facilities, as now nearing completion and fully financed as described herein:

	Actual Earnings 12 Months Ended July 31, 1930	Estimated Annual Earnings Upon Completion Unit No. 3
Gross Earnings	$3,352,884.66	$6,233,000.00
Operating Expenses, Maintenance and Taxes (except Federal) . .	1,914,835.37	2,925,000.00
Net Earnings before Depreciation . .	$1,438,049.29	$3,308,000.00
Annual Interest on the Funded Debt to be presently outstanding . .		$ 900,000.00

Management: The operations of the Company are controlled by a Board of Directors representing the four owning companies.

A circular fully descriptive of this issue will be sent upon request.

Top yesterday, $8.25; average, $7.35.

Estimated receipts at Chicago today, 2,000 cattle, 16,000 hogs, and 12,000 sheep.

All choice grades of live stock held over yesterday, top yearling cattle selling at $13.10, top hogs at $10.90, and lambs at $8.25. Hogs and lambs are a sharp loss compared with a month ago, while cattle are selling higher than early last month.

On Sept. 2 top cattle sold at $12.35, hogs at $11.35, and lambs at $9.25. A year ago yesterday, top cattle reached $13.15, top hogs $10.50, and top lambs $8.35.

There was a shortage of hogs at principal points yesterday and with warm demand better, prices advanced largely 10@15c more. Trading was comparatively slow when local packers refused to follow at the full length, but most of the 6,000 left at the close were being bought for the day in hopes of good shipping demand the rest of the week.

The top at $10.00 was paid for 240@250 lb butchers. The general average gained 10c at $9.10 but stands lower than any corresponding day since 1914. During the first four days of the week shippers bought 22 per cent of total arrivals at Chicago, against 17 per cent a week ago and 17 per cent a year ago.

Hog Futures Steady.

Trading in hog futures was slow at about steady yesterday, although sales and bids in most months were 5@7c larger for trading. December options sold at $8.75. October meats were bid $9.40, but the lowest offer at the close was $9.55. January options were bid $8.80 and offered at $9.15 at the close.

The cattle market yesterday was a repetition of the trade on preceding days this week. Yearlings of choice quality met good demand at firm prices, while medium and weighty steers continued slow and weak. Jewish holidays during the next two weeks have curtailed the demand for butcher cattle.

Lambs Recover Some.

Lambs have recovered some of the recent sharp loss. Top natives and westerns advanced to $8.25 yesterday, highest since Sept. 24, and 40c above the low day early this week. Bulk of medium grades sold at $8.00@8.15 on local account.

Feeders were smaller at 21,000, comparing with 30,583 the previous Thursday, and the advance estimate of 12,000 for today compares with 8,338 last Friday. Aged sheep were steady and yearlings steady to 25c higher, 82 lb averages going at $6.75 and feeding lambs were in good demand at $6.00@7.00.

Receipts at Chicago for today are estimated at 2,000 cattle, 16,000 hogs, and 12,000 sheep, against 2,405 cattle, 8,338 hogs, and 16,258 sheep, the previous Friday and 1,611 cattle, 15,408 hogs, and 7,408 sheep a year ago.

REDUCTION IN MEATS

Most stocks at western packing points at the end of September showed a decrease of 47,475,000 lbs for the month as compared with 41,817,000 lbs the year and 66,067,000 lbs two years ago. Total stocks of 158,012,000 lbs compared with 237,599,000 lbs last year. Lard decreased 24,699,000 lbs for the month, against a loss of 15,400,000 lbs last year. Total stocks of lard are 28,916,000 lbs, against 112,400,000 lbs last year. Present stocks are the lightest in recent years.

Liverpool lard was 1s higher on cash, 2s up on October and 2d to 3d lower on deferred futures. Exports for the week were only 66,725 lbs. Prices follow:

BEARS RESUME RAID ON CHICAGO STOCK MARKET

Pound Majestic Down to New Low at $12.

Bear sellers continued their battering attack on Majestic Household yesterday on the Chicago Stock exchange with the result that at the close of trading the issue was trounced for a loss of 4¼ points and took refuge in another record low of 12.

From the standpoint of trading interest, Majestic had a turnover of 25,750 for the day with no market support being apparent during its hard pressed retreat. From its opening at 15 the stock steadily yielded ground.

Some Favorites Steady.

Quoted prices on the exchange were generally lower although a number of the trading favorites were conspicuously steady. Here and there were slumps to new lows for 1930, including Ainsworth, off 5 at 15; A. M. Castle, down 3½ to 34, and Ryerson, which slipped fractionally to 29.

On the largest turnover of the day 32,200 shares Middle West Utilities improved fractionally, as did Cities Service and Central Public Service A. In the investment trust section, however, slight recessions were suffered by Chicago Corporation, Continental Chicago, and Corporation Securities. Cord was steady and Insull Utility stronger.

Grigsby Resists Trend.

Grigsby-Grunow managed to defend its position moderately well and closed with loss of ⅝ of a point at 7¼. Transformer improved over a point and a half. Electric Household remained firm as did Libby, McNeill and U. S. Gypsum.

Among the automotives Auburn dropped two points, finishing at 98. Bendix was steady and Borg-Warner gained slightly.

News and Gossip of Stock Marts

Richfield Oil Weakness.

Richfield Oil was among the weak features of yesterday's market, slipping off to new low levels under selling inspired by the belief that the company would find it necessary to undertake something in the way of new findings to replenish its working capital position. The financial position of the company as of the close of the June quarter was pointed to as suggesting the need for such an undertaking.

Sharp Reversal.

Substantial improvement in technical position is reflected by the sharp reversal of trend in American Gas and Electric. Although common capitalization of this company exceeds 3,000,000 shares, floating supply for market purposes is never very large, so that only moderate demand is necessary to bring about wide price fluctuations.

Ticker Falters.

Speculators were thrown into confusion yesterday just before the market closed as the tickers throughout the country ceased operations, delaying the printing of quotations in the final two minutes of trading. The ticker service was resumed about 2:10 o'clock after the mechanical trouble in the transmission room of the stock exchange had been repaired. The mental attitude of traders and speculators is such that the least disturbance makes them jumpy.

Financing Rumor.

Reports that a banking group headed by Lee, Higginson & Co. is about to grant a loan of $125,000,000 to the German government have been current in financial circles recently. Bankers, however, declined either to confirm or comment on the report. The reports had it that Swedish, Dutch, Swiss, and German banks would also participate.

CHICAGO BOARD OF TRADE STOCKS

Prices were mixed on the Chicago Board of Trade yesterday, with the volume much smaller. Electric Bond and Share was 2¼ lower in the early trade but recovered and closed with a net loss of 1.

Studebaker corporation shares have been admitted to the list. Trading will begin next Monday in 67,500 shares, $100 par 7% cumulative pfd, and in 1,961,413 shares no par common. Total number common admitted is 2,031,617 shares.

WHEAT MARKET PRICES CONTINUE TO FORGE AHEAD

Strength in Liverpool Is Prime Factor.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

There was steady buying of wheat futures yesterday on the Chicago Board of Trade. Houses with eastern connections were buyers at times, and there was also purchases checked to the northwestern millers who are said to have made good sales of flour.

Pronounced strength in Liverpool which closed 2¼@3¼d higher had considerable influence on the market which advanced ⅝@1⅞c over Wednesday's close with December touching $1, or 4¼c above the low on Monday.

Trading orders to sell December wheat checked the bulge around 82c but the finish was at 81⅝@81¼c, with gains of 1¼@1⅝c for the May. Trade was 85@85¼c and May, 88@88⅛c. Winnipeg was up 1¾@1¾c for the day and reported an aggressive foreign demand with sales of 2,000 to 2,500,000 bu Manitobas sold at all positions.

Await New Developments.

There was a feeling noticeable in trade yesterday that suggested building of unusual importance was in process of developing, but careful investigation failed to secure even an intimation as to what it was. Chairman A. A. Legge of the farm board, in a statement made at Washington commenting on reports that foreign purchases might buy 100,000,000 bu of wheat this winter which would involve an extension of credit, said he might have some suspicion some people are profiting in it but he was not directly concerned.

Canada was reported to have made large sales to United Kingdom millers but quantities were not given, and the market paid no attention to the news. Dry weather prevails in Argentina and Australia, especially the latter country, and is receiving considerable activity as there were reports that the winter crop was deteriorating.

Private crop of 390,000,000 bu for the three Canadian provinces is estimated by the Northwestern Grain Dealers association, or 33,000,000 bu more than the average of Chicago statisticians in their report on Wednesday and compared with 282,000,000 bu harvested last year. Marketings in the Canadian provinces Wednesday aggregated 2,124,000 bu, against 4,036,000 bu last year. Buenos Aires futures were 1⅛@2¼c higher.

No Pressure on Corn.

Corn was strong from the start in sympathy with wheat and due to the lack of selling pressure and while the trade was somewhat under the best it was net gains were 1⅝@2¼c with October, 85⅝@83¾c; March, 85¼@84⅜c, and May, 87⅛@87⅝c. Eastern offers are said to have been buying freely for several days. There was also some cash demand with sales of 400,000 bu to the domestic trade, while the country sold 45,000 bu to arrive. Disappointing husking returns are being received from parts of the belt, while the Iowa weekly summary said as reported so far ranged from 5 to 40 bu per acre. Carryover of old corn on Nov. 1 is expected to be around 50,000,000 to 60,000,000 bu by C. Murray, compared with 77,000,000 bu the previous year and a 5 year average of 102,000,000 bu.

BUTTER AND EGGS

Further weakness developed in butter and prices on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday. November butter closed 1½c off, or 46½c; December closing price, 46¼c. November eggs lost ½c and December easing off ¾c at 23½c. Higher pressure went ahead in butter futures despite favorable news during the day. Prices were lighter, the four markets receiving 164,000 lbs more taken out than a week ago. News continued bearish and trade weakened under a small amount of sales. Sales—Butter: November, 131 cars; December, 31 cars. Eggs: November, 31 cars. December, 1 car. Receipts: Butter, 1,023 tubs; eggs, 6,002 cases. Prices follow:

WORLD'S GRAIN MARKET NEWS

Evidence of accumulation of wheat stocks by commission houses with Liverpool connections has been on a fairly large scale as reported by those in a position to know what is going on. There is a more pronounced belief among the trade here and in other markets that wheat around 80c is a purchase; is worth the money and all should bring in better support. Evidence of millers taking futures against their sales increasing and the merchandising situation is attracting more attention.

Argentina is said to be a large short seller in December corn with 27,000,000 bu open. Stocks here are small, country is selling very little corn, and there is said to have been a liberal accumulation on the part of local operators, who recently were active in the September delivery.
